MINERS MASS AT TAYLORVILLE TO HALT WORK

Troops Are Ordered from Camp Grant.

BULLETIN.

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 19 (Friday). —(AP)—Four companies of Illinois National Guardsmen left Camp Grant early today for their home armories at Springfield and Decatur, where they are to be held under arms prepared to move into Christian county, scene of mine strife, in event authorities decide they are needed.

Taylorville, Ill., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Two companies of infantry and two troops of cavalry—units of the Illinois National Guard—were being moved from Camp Grant to their home armories at Springfield and Decatur tonight as the latest development in the Illinois mine war which brought 10,000 strikers to Taylorville this afternoon.

The movement of the armed forces is a purely precautionary measure, Brig. Gen. Tom Hammond of Chicago made plain. The troops will not be brought to Taylorville unless their presence is deemed necessary. Encamped near the Peabody Coal company mine at Kincaid, eight miles from here, the strikers are orderly, but they plan to picket three Peabody mines at dawn tomorrow seeking to prevent about 800 miners from continuing work under the $5 per day wage scale.

Finds Camp Orderly.

"I want this fact made perfectly plain," said Gen. Hammond. "The troops are ordered to their home armories, not to Taylorville. They will remain under arms, it is true, but I see no earthly reason for bringing soldiers here at this time. I have just come from the strikers' camp. I found them orderly and peaceful. Every one hopes that there will be no necessity for troops."

The only military strength in the mining area today consisted of six airplanes of the National Guard observation squadron which circled about the strikers' camp during the afternoon, but took no action save reconnaisance maneuvers.

Vote to Remain Idle.

Two of the three unions decided tonight that their men would not go to work tomorrow morning. Local No. 7 at Kincaid and local No. 9 at Langley voted to remain "on top" when the mine whistles blow at 7 a. m. Local No. 58 at Taylorville had no meeting, but few, if any, of its members are expected to report for work.

With their desired end almost in sight the crowd of strikers, reinforced during the evening hours by more protestors, met in Kincaid and the feeble light of coal oil lamps gilded the faces of speakers as they talked to the men far into the night. They intend coming to Taylorville tomorrow afternoon for another massmeeting in one of the city parks. Then they may return home.

Strikers "Dig In."

The host of strikers had "dug in" at Kincaid at dusk with the announced intention of remaining until the Peabody miners stop work.

The movement was planned as a gigantic demonstration on the part of diggers from central and southern Illinois. Delegations from Gillespie, Panama, Nokomis, Staunton, Mount Olive, Benld, Springfield, Livingston, and even as far south as Herrin participated. Their cars, some ramshackle but most in better condition, rolled along the highways, across the sunny prairies, from noon until twilight, and the gravel lanes in Kincaid were hidden in swirling clouds of dust as hundreds of machines rolled into the village.

Planes Circle Over Marchers.

Six planes of the aviation squadron, Illinois National Guard, came from the Rockford encampment early this morning and circled overhead as the march progressed. Brig. Gen. Thomas Hammond of Chicago and Maj. Merrill D. Mann of Chicago, commander of the squadron, flew over the area for a time and later drove through the coal fields in a car. No movement was made toward bringing troops here.

Four Peabody mines were working yesterday. Last night a group of members of the local at Tovey, close by, where 868 men worked for five days, met and decided to heed the appeals of the strikers. A few pickets completed the work this morning and no men went in to the Tovey pit. So only three mines hoisted coal today

PICCARD RISES TEN MILES INTO SKY; A RECORD

Balloon Brought to Earth in Italy.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

DENSENZANO, Lake Garda, Italy, Aug. 18.—Prof. Auguste Piccard, Belgian scientist, and his assistant, Max Cosyns, came back on the earth tonight after having ascended to a scientific heaven—more than ten miles up, an altitude never before reached by man.

The two men, who soared into space to ascertain whether the universe is dying or immortal through a study of cosmic rays, are believed to have risen 16,000 feet above the lower level of the stratosphere and to have reached an altitude of more than twice the height of the Himalaya mountains.

Their altitude was 17,000 meters (55,774 feet). On the professor's first flight into the stratosphere last year the top height was 51,793 feet.

80 Degrees Below Zero.

"We are well satisfied with our flight," the 43 year old professor, his head crowned by a shaggy mass of hair, said. "My, but it was cold. I believe the temperature was about 80 degrees below zero."

The balloon and the all metal ball, which housed the scientists for twelve hours, astounded hundreds of gaping farmers, who stood staring at the men who had been to the "top of the world"—far above the rain and clouds.

Piccard was asked numerous questions, but he waved inquirers away.

Too Tired to Answer.

"Too tired, too tired," he exclaimed. "See me tomorrow."

The professor did say that he came down before he wanted to. He declared that he must first inspect the fragile instruments which dot the interior of the airtight metal ball before he could tell what his studies on the celestial peregrinations had revealed.

Though dazed and dizzy, Piccard refused to leave the side of the balloon until it had been deflated and the floating "laboratory" had been loaded into an Italian air force truck and hauled to the aviation school in Densenzano, where they were placed in a hangar.

The landing was bumpy. The balloon descended slowly and drifted along a field, denting one side of the gondola. The two men peered through the port holes of the tiny ball and then a man hole was opened. Piccard emerged first.

He would have fallen had not the crowd closed in on him.

Eat Can of Peaches.

He was led to the side of a road, where the professor and his assistant sat down and opened a can of peaches which they had bought in Zurich and ate them.

"Where is the telephone? I want to call my wife in Zurich," he said as he sat munching a peach, recalling that she had forbidden him from making another dangerous feat after last year's flight, but that she had finally reconsidered.

The scientist, who took off from Dubendorf, near Zurich, at 5:06 a. m. (11:06 p. m., Wednesday, Chicago daylight saving time), landed at 5:15 o'clock this afternoon between the villages of Pozzolenga and Villa Mantovana, six miles from Desenzano.

Sends Radio Messages.

All day long his flight was followed by radio messages he kept sending. His first message was received at 9:30 o'clock.

"We are 49,000 feet high and are floating over the Alps toward Merano on the upper Adige river in the Austrian Tyrol," Piccard said.

At 11:30 o'clock a message announced that he had crossed the Engadine Alps and that the cold was in-

PLANE CARRIER GROUNDED FOUR HOURS FLOATED

Sunset Beach, Cal., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Aground more than four hours, the naval aircraft carrier Saratoga, largest ship in the history of the navy to be grounded, was set free tonight from the sandy ocean floor some 600 yards offshore from here.

The $35,000,000 vessel was floated undamaged, an announcement from the commander of the scouting fleet said, and proceeded on to the naval base at San Pedro, about ten miles northwest of here.

With the aid of two naval tugs, one pushing and one pulling, the giant carrier was put afloat at 6:25 p. m., coast time.

Du Pont Nitro Plant Wrecked by Explosions

Gibbstown, N. J., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—A two story nitroglycerin plant at the Repauno works of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours company was literally blown to bits late tonight by two explosions. They occurred soon after the building caught fire from an undetermined manner. No one was injured. Officials estimated the damage at $10,000.

Spain Orders 92 Nobles to African Exile

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Aug. 18.—Ninety-two titles, many of them old in Spanish history, will appear on the passenger list of a scrubby craft called the Espana V., which will leave soon for a hot place on the African coast. About 300 passengers altogether will go into exile for their rôles in the monarchist rebellion led last week by Gen. José Sanjurjo.

Whether the destination will be Bata, in Spanish Guinea, or Cape Juba is yet to be decided, but neither is regarded as a health resort. Moreover, every passenger, the ministry of interior has decided to the immense joy of the masses, will be obliged to pay his own fare.

Deportation is taking place by virtue of the act for the defense of the republic which empowers the minister of interior to inflict whatever punishment he deems necessary. The only appeal is directly to parliament.

Aim at Rural Holdings.

An expropriation act under which the nobles who were implicated in the revolt will lose their rural holdings was passed enthusiastically by the parliament tonight, 262 to 14.

Azana, cheered by the deputies and the packed galleries, spoke passionately in defense of the act.

"We limit ourselves to an expropriation of rural holdings precisely because we wish to remain within constitutional limits," he said.

He savagely attacked the aristocrats for the attempted uprising against the popular will.

"Must Satisfy Conscience."

"The government has means within the constitution to deprive this class of their wealth. We shall see to it that they will never be able to use it against the republic again.

"What we are doing," he said with cold vigor as the deputies rose and cheered, "is to grant satisfaction to the republican conscience of the nation. We must give this conscience satisfaction or the next time we will not have it to rely upon."

Azana is considered to have told the unvarnished truth when he said that "you must either approve of this project or lose the backing of the people who prop this régime, for there are plenty of signs that the Spanish revolution is really under way and that if this government cannot keep up with the parade another will take its place."

STOCKS RALLY; COMMODITIES MAKE ADVANCE

New York, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—A last hour rally on the stock exchange today, which not only erased earlier losses but left the general average of prices higher on the day, resulted mainly from the improvement in commodity prices that preceded the announcement, late in the day, that banks in New York had taken steps to form a commodity credit corporation.

The stock market was pursuing an irregular course when it was strongly rumored that the banking project to strengthen the commodity position was being worked into shape.

Wheat in Chicago closed with net gains of from a fraction to 1⅛ cents a bushel. The net advance in cotton ran to 12 points or more.

There were few wide rallies in stocks, but the final quotations were well above the low levels of the day. United States Steel preferred was up 2⅝ points, Allied Chemical 2, American Telephone 2⅛, Atlantic Coast Line 4½, Santa Fé 2¼, Brooklyn Union Gas 2⅝, J. I. Case 3¼, Lackawanna 3½, Eastman 1, and Southern Pacific 3½.

Revived by Her Nurse; Greets Her Daughter

BULLETIN.

At 3 o'clock this morning it was said by Drake hotel attaches that Mrs. McCormick was still sleeping and there had been no apparent change in her condition since midnight.

Shortly before midnight last night, a bulletin from the sickroom of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick in the Drake hotel announced that the patient, whose life had been despaired of during the morning, was peacefully sleeping. All the members of her reunited family were said to have retired also, worn out by the vigil that had kept them sleepless on Wednesday night. Physicians had advised them that although her death is only a matter of hours, the indications were that there would be no change in her condition before the early morning hours at the earliest.

It was a tense day the McCormick family spent yesterday. The anxiety of the night before was heightened as dawn broke and the sick woman sank into a coma that caused her physicians the gravest concern. Mrs. Mathilde McCormick Oser, the youngest child of the family, was racing to Chicago aboard the Century, happy in the belief that her mother was improving, as reported to her during the last two days.

Relatives at Her Bedside.

All those closest to her were in the room with the exception of Mathilde and Mrs. McCormick's sister, Mrs. E. Parmalee Prentice of New York, who with her husband had departed for their home, also under the impression that the marked improvement in her condition had removed cause for immediate alarm.

Harold F. McCormick, from whom Mrs. McCormick obtained a divorce in 1921, but with whom she had always remained on friendly terms, waited at her bedside. Her son, Fowler, was there, with his wife, the former Mrs. Fifi Stillman. Her older daughter, Muriel, now Mrs. Elisha Dyer Hubbard of Middletown, Conn., watched with them.

As the ministrations of the physicians failed one by one, the doctors gave up hope of restoring the consciousness of their patient, and informed the relatives that the end was only a matter of a few hours. A bulletin to that effect was given to the press.

Daughter Mathilde Arrives.

At 9 o'clock the Century roared into the La Salle street station and Mrs. Oser, smiling happily at the prospect of reunion with her mother, alighted. Mrs. Fifi McCormick, alone, greeted her in nervous haste.

With an escort of detectives, she dashed to a descending freight elevator, refusing tersely to stop for pictures or questions. She all but pushed Mrs. Oser into the waiting limousine, and the chauffeur made all speed northward to the Drake. On the way she broke the news to Mathilde that her mother had suffered a relapse and was near the end.

Events proved this wrong. Mrs. McCormick was unconscious when Mrs. Oser reached her side. Miss Florence L. Everitt, the special nurse brought from New York to attend her at the recommendation of Mrs. Fifi McCormick, whose family nurse she had been, had been informed by the physicians that she might as well return home, as her work was done. She went to pack her bags.

HURLS "UNFAIR" AT ROOSEVELT; ASSAILS HOOVER

Wins Decision Delay by Court Writ.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Mayor James J. Walker threw the fight for his political life into the courts and the national presidential campaign today, aiming his attack impartially at President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt.

While the sixth session of his hearing on ouster charges brought by Samuel Seabury and the committee of 1,000 was in progress, the mayor obtained a Supreme court order prohibiting his immediate removal and directing Gov. Roosevelt to show cause tomorrow why he should not be restrained from proceeding further in the case.

In the petition on which Supreme Court Justice John T. Loughran acted at Kingston, the mayor not only challenged the power of the governor to oust him from public office but accused him of "denying him an opportunity to be heard" in his own defense and of being otherwise unfair.

Charges G. O. P. Plot.

Then, from behind the shelter of the court action which Mr. Walker laid the basis for an appeal later to the Supreme court of the United States by the expedient of holding that public office is private property of which he is being deprived without due process of law, the embattled mayor turned his guns upon the White House and President Hoover.

Through his attorney, John J. Curtin, close friend of former Gov. Al Smith, Mr. Walker made public a list of twenty-two witnesses he intends to call in his defense.

Eight of these could have been called for no other purpose than to substantiate the charge by spokesmen for Tammany hall, that the Hofstadter legislative committeee's investigation was part of a Republican plot to "get" "Jimmy" Walker and discredit the Democratic party in New York.

Calls Republican Leaders.

These witnesses were W. Kingsland Macy, Republican state chairman; Samuel Koenig, Republican leader of New York county; William L. Ward, the G. O. P. boss of Westchester county, State Senators Samuel Hofstadter, chairman of the legislative investigating committee; and Walter C. Westall, Senator Seabury C. Mastick, Federal Judge John Knight and Fred Bradley, collector of the port of Buffalo.

Judge Knight was Republican leader of the senate when the resolution creating the joint legislative committee was adopted after Boss Ward's two Westchester senators mysteriously bowed to the demands of Mr. Macy for an investigation of the New York City government after blocking it for weeks.

The appointment of Judge Knight to the federal bench in western New York by President Hoover and the confirmation of the appointment by the United States senate came after the close of the legislative session which created the commmittee of which Senator Hofstadter became chairman.

Hoover Reappoints Collector.

Mr. Bradley, whose reappointment as collector of the port of Buffalo had been hanging fire for more than a year, was reappointed by the President and confirmed by the senate soon after the legislature adopted the Hofstadter resolution starting an investigation of New York's Tammany dominated city government.

The two senators and eight assemblymen whom Bradley controlled as Republican leader of Erie county had fallen into line with other members of their party favoring a New York City inquiry after a period of coolness, if not hostility, to the program of Mr. Macy, who had just taken over the reins of leadership of the G. O. P. in this state.

The other fourteen witnesses on Mr. Curtin's list were those of persons upon whom the mayor is relying to corroborate the testimony he has given. Some were called to back him up in the statement that it was his money which he spent in Europe in 1927 and that the taxicab board of control which he sponsored was not intended to create a monopoly for the big taxicab companies.

Others to Back Mayor.

Others were being called to testify that some of the large sums banked and manipulated by the missing Russell T. Sherwood were their property and not the mayor's. Police Commissioner Mulrooney stood ready to swear that the mayor had ordered a search for Sherwood who disappeared a year ago when process servers for the legislative committee were seeking him.

These additional witnesses include: William C. Harty, Aaron Sapiro, New York attorney; Samuel Ungerleider, broker; Hector Fuller, companion on the European trip, and L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad company.

The opening scene in the political drama of the decade tomorrow will be transferred from the executive chamber in the capitol to the county court house, where Deputy Attorney General Henry Epstein, a son-in-law of Max D. Steuer, of the Tammany board of strategy, will appear before Supreme Court Jatice Staley to oppose the mayor's suit for a writ of prohibition against the governor.

Cites "Unfair" Actions.

In making his plea on the ground of "unfairness" in executive chamber, Mayor Walker cited a list of alleged improper actions by Gov. Roosevelt to sustain his claim. They were:

The governor persisted in considering reputed activities during his first term as possible ground for removal during the second term.

The governor refused to call witnesses before the Hofstadter committee in person, but relied on a transcript of the evidence.

The governor in this way did not grant the mayor an opportunity to be confronted by his accusers and to cross-examine them.

The governor placed reliance on newspaper articles to fix the time of Russell T. Sherwood's stay in Mexico City.

The governor placed on the mayor the burden of bringing the Hofstadter committee's accusing witnesses instead of assuming responsibility himself.

The governor's procedure generally violated the constitutional right of the mayor, particularly under the "due process of law" clause of the fourteenth amendment of the federal constitution.

Seek to End Hearing.

The order of Justice Loughran directs Gov. Roosevelt to refrain from "taking any steps toward the execution or enforcement "of any order of removal of said petitioner as mayor of the city of New York until further direction of this court." It also directs him to show cause why he should not be "absolutely restrained from proceeding further with the hearing and determination of said proceeding."

If the writ of prohibition is granted it will act as a stay against continuance of the hearings before the governor as well as against the execution of a decision on removal of the mayor.

Act Under Old Amendment.

The mayor's attorneys are acting under an old home rule amendment to the constitution, section 7 of article XII, which they claim invalidates the New York City charter provisions from which the governor derives his power to hear the Walker charges. The section provides for the "removal for misconduct or maladversion in office of all officers, except judicial, whose powers and duties are not local or legislative and who shall be elected at general elections."

This clause, it is declared, failed to give the legislature the power to provide for the removal of local officials and was put in the constitution nearly 100 years ago.

Attorney General Bennett has pointed out that this provision does not affect any existing laws that have not been repealed or modified. He said that the New York charter provision under which the governor is acting is still in force.

Walker Cites Other Cases.

"Eight governors of other states, particularly the beloved Gov. Simon Chase of Ohio, invited the courts to pass on their rights to remove public officials," Mr. Walker remarked this afternoon, in commenting on the new move in his behalf. "That's the important thing about this case."

The hearing itself moved slowly today. Mr. Curtin spent the whole day arguing for the dismissal of each of the fifteen charges sponsored by the Hofstadter committee.

Dismissal motions were a prelude to the mayor's active defense. Yesterday the governor ended five days of direct examination and tomorrow Mr. Curtin will begin to offer the testimony of witnesses he subpoenaed overnight to back up the mayor's defense.

Refers to "Prosecution."

Opening his argument for dismissal of the Seabury charges, Mr. Curtin referred to "the prosecution."

"Now that the prosecution has rested, I want to make motions for dismissal of the charges."

Charge No. 1 recites that the mayor "has failed properly to execute the duties which it is incumbent upon him to discharge."

The governor remarked that he did not consider that a charge in the formal sense, but a conclusion, and denied the motion to dismiss.

Concerning the second charge that the mayor accepted $26,000 in securities from J. A. Sisto & Co., brokers, and thereafter sponsored taxicab legislation desired by that company—Mr. Curtin pointed out that Mayor Walker vetoed a bill for increased taxi rates.

That veto, he said, took at least $1,000,000 in potential profits from Sisto's Cab company, and if there had been anything sinister about the Cosden Oil pool in which the mayor said he made the money, the time to show it would have been when the bill was presented to him.

Explains Third Charge.

The third charge is that Russell T. Sherwood, the mayor's missing agent, accepted $22,000 from Samuel Ungerleider & Co., another brokerage firm interested in taxi legislation. The mayor's attorney said that the money was paid to Sherwood on a repurchase agreement he had with the brokers.

As to the fourth charge, that Mayor Walker violated the city charter by owning convertible bonds of the Reliance Bronze and Steel corporation, which received a city contract for traffic light standards, Mr. Curtin said the company was the lowest bidder and that the mayor had acquired the bonds two years before the contract was awarded.

Mr. Curtin then took up the tangled transactions of the Equitable Coach company, to which, it is charged, Mayor Walker gave a contract although he knew the company was unfit to receive it.

Defends Franchise Granting.

He defended the granting of the Equitable franchise, and the mayor's explanation of the $10,000 letter of credit purchased by J. Allan Smith, an Equitable backer, and received by the mayor at about the time he signed the franchise.

"When the reputation of the mayor of the world's greatest city is at stake, at least he is entitled to the fairest interpretation of the incident, rather than the worst interpretation," Mr. Curtin shouted, waving his arms.

Charge No. 9, another feature of the Seabury conclusions, accused Mayor Walker of putting himself in a position inconsistent with his office in accepting "substantial gratuities, which he calls 'beneficences,'" from Paul Block, the publisher, who later became interested in a tile manufacturing company which sought to sell its product to the city.

Mr. Curtin protested that the motives of the Block gift to the mayor were "beyond reproach."

The hearing was adjourned late today until 11 a. m. tomorrow in an atmosphere of uncertainty due to the court action.

HURLEY APPEALS TO LEGIONNAIRES IN BONUS TALK

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Stating his intention of attending the national American Legion convention in Portland, Ore., Sept. 12, Secretary of War Hurley said tonight that it is well for Legionnaires to recall the pledges of their constitution.

"Some of us demand immediate payment of the bonus," Hurley said. "others prefer to await its maturity. The American Legion does not consist of stereotypes. We are each free and independent Americans, entitled to free and honest opinions."

"Not since the adoption of the constitution of the American Legion," he said, "has the challenge been sounded so clearly to us to uphold and maintain the ideals to which we so solemnly pledged our support."

The preamble, which includes pledges to uphold the constitution, maintain law and order and "foster and perpetuate a 100 per cent Americanism," was then recalled.

Thirty U. S. Airmen Hop 580 Miles Over Sea in Test

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, Hawaii, Aug. 18.—Six naval planes, each carrying five men, in the longest oversea training flight ever attempted from Pearl Harbor naval base, settled on the lagoon at French Frigate shoals, 580 miles northwest this afternoon. The purpose of the flight was to demonstrate the mobility and scouting efficiency of the battle force defending the islands. French Frigate is a very small point to hit by dead reckoning, but the planes found it without deviating from their course.

tense. His altitude then was 54,000 feet. A few minutes later he radioed that he was coming down to avoid drifting into the Adriatic and at 1 o'clock he said that he had sighted Lake Garda, Italy.

Piccard's balloon apparently was carried slightly toward the northwest after his departure in Switzerland. Then the wind changed in the upper atmosphere and he began to drift toward Italy. Early reports said he was landing near Edolo, high in the Alps, near Tirana..

Observers at the aviation school here saw Piccard's balloon drifting over Verona at about noon. First he was carried by the wind toward the Adriatic and then back toward Lake Garda.

At 2 o'clock Col. Bernasconi, commander of the flying school, interpreted Piccard's maneuverings as an effort to find a landing place. He boarded a plane and flew up to the balloon, circling it over Verona at an altitude of about 1,000 feet.

Piccard signaled through a "port holt" that he was looking for a spot to land. Bernasconi, after flying around the place, swooped down near the earth and signalled to Piccard. It was an open meadow on the main Varona-Brescia road near Pozzolenga. Bernasconi then flew back to Lake Garda with his seaplane.

Family Receives Word.

DUBENDORF, Switzerland, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Mme. Auguste Piccard and her five children spent today waiting at a hotel for word from her husband, who was bobbing about in a small aluminum ball ten miles above the surface of the earth.

Finally news came that he had landed. At the same time his headquarters received a telegram saying the balloon had alighted perfectly at 5 p. m., and that he and his assistant were going to Desenzano, Italy.

Prof. Piccard is expected to return to Zurich by automobile soon to rejoin his family. He will enjoy a vacation in Switzerland before resuming his work in Brussels, leaving his assistant, Max Cosyns, to take charge of the balloon and its gondola.

Plans Hudson Bay Ascent.

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Dr. Jean Piccard, whose brother, Prof. Auguste Piccard, set a new altitude record by his ascent into the stratosphere, said tonight the professor will make a similar trip from the Hudson bay region some time in the near future.

COSMIC RAYS CLEW.

Some scientists think that cosmic rays, concerning which Prof. Auguste Piccard obtained data in his stratosphere flight, hold the clew to whether the universe is "running down" or destined to "live forever."

Cosmic rays, falling on the earth from somewhere above, constitute one of the greatest puzzles modern scientists are trying to solve. Some believe they result from the creation of new matter out among the stars billions of miles away. Others think they are produced by a process of destruction of matter that some time will blot out the entire universe.

Newest measurements in Germany show that cosmic rays increase steadily in intensity up to a height of about seven and one-half miles, but from there to sixteen miles the increase is much slower and at last becomes insignificant. Other tests by Prof. Arthur H. Compton of the University of Chicago indicate the rays are stronger toward the poles than at the equator.

Prof. Compton's discovery strengthens the belief that cosmic rays are electrons, or negatively charged electric particles, which would be attracted toward the earth's magnetic poles. The electrons might come from the earth's upper atmosphere after being split off from air atoms by action of the sun or by some unknown kind of radiation from outside.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PORTMARNOCK, Irish Free State, Aug. 18.—Capt. J. A. Mollison, who took off from here this morning on a projected round trip flight to New York, was sighted this afternoon 650 miles off Ireland and "going strong."

The noted Scottish distance flyer, who left Amy Johnson, herself a famous British aviatrix and his bride of three weeks, behind, took off in a tiny Puss Moth plane, weighing about a ton, at 11:35 a. m. [5:35 a. m. Chicago daylight saving time].

Seventy minutes later he passed over Galway on the west coast, flying at an altitude of about 200 feet and a speed of about 105 miles an hour. The weather was excellent.

Liner Sights Him at Sea.

At 11 a. m. [Chicago time] the Cunard liner Ascania reported sighting Capt. Mollison's plane 650 miles at sea, racing toward the west. The liner reported that the weather was fine and clear.

Mollison, who is 27 years old and has helped make aviation history with record Australia-London and London-Cape Town flights, flew here this morning from Baldonnel airdrome, near Dublin, to take advantage of Portmarnock's excellent airport. His wife arrived by automobile.

The aviator found weather conditions perfect. There was a slight westerly wind to the middle of the Atlantic, he was informed, and from there a tendency to easterly winds.

"That's fine," Mollison remarked. "That's all in my favor. I estimate that I will need 23 hours to reach Newfoundland."

This would put him overland some time between 4 and 5 o'clock [Chicago time] tomorrow morning. The name of his ship is the Heart's Content, and if he holds to his course the first mark in North America he will pass over will be Heart's Content, Newfoundland.

Four Days or Less.

Capt. Mollison is shooting everything on his chances of flying to New York and back within four days and perhaps less. If he succeeds in reaching America he will be the first to cross the Atlantic on a solo flight east to west.

A cheering crowd of 2,000 Irishmen witnessed the departure. One person rushed up to the plane and forced Mollison to place a bottle of brandy among the nuts and raisins he is carrying for food.

As the plane was being tuned up, Mollison walked over to his bride. They whispered in each other's ears and embraced. His bride's eyes were filled with tears as her husband took his place in the cockpit.

Bride Follows Him.

"A great start, anyhow," she remarked. "I have perfect faith in him and in that little bus. I think he's wonderful."

She then sped to her own plane and took off to accompany her husband on the first 100 miles of his journey.

Mollison's plane is a flying gasoline tank. It holds 165 gallons of gasoline and is sufficient for 33 hours of flying at a cruising speed of 110 miles an hour.

He expects to refuel at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, if necessary. Otherwise, he will continue to New York.

Plans 5 Hours' Rest.

The plane will be overhauled while he takes an eight hours' rest in New York. Mollison then expects to return to Harbor Grace on the second Atlantic flight, which will be started as soon as the weather permits.

Mollison refused to take a radio set to eliminate weight, but vital parts of the plane are carried in duplicate—two gas pumps, two magnetos and two feeding systems.

Despite its weight the plane took off easily after Capt. Paddy Saul, navigator of Commander Kingsford-Smith's Atlantic flight in the Southern Cross, kicked the chocks away. Mollison is using Saul's maps and said he would follow the shipping lane both ways.

Harbor Grace Awaits Him.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HARBOR GRACE, Newfoundland, Aug. 18.—Weather conditions here are favorable for the arrival of J. A. Mollison, who is flying alone over the Atlantic. Light southwesterly winds are blowing. The sky is clear and there is no sign of fog. Casks of gasoline are on hand for refueling. An official welcome will be accorded on behalf of the government and civic authorities by Judge Casey.

her. She was asked to do what she could to revive Mrs. McCormick. She agreed to try, and rushing back with a special apparatus, she proceeded to administer another of the treatments that had proved so beneficial during the last week.

Almost immediately the pulse that had flickered so feebly began to beat with renewed vigor. Soon Mrs. McCormick struggled back to consciousness, smiled at her daughter and then, recognizing that this was Mathilde, for whom she had waited so anxiously, demonstrated a renewed vigor that increased with the passing moments as she caressed her youngest child.

As the day waned, she showed no signs of succumbing further to the illness that has reached so dangerous a stage. Her mind remained clear and her pulse strong.

None of the immediate family could be persuaded to leave the hotel as night fell. Rooms for all were obtained near Mrs. McCormick's on the fourth floor of the Drake.

GERMANS UNITE IN DEMAND FOR EQUAL RIGHTS AND SECURITY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 18.—A group known as the "German committee of national security" appealed to Germans today to unite in a demand for equal rights and armaments for Germany, "as promised in the league of nations covenant."

The Association of All German Clubs, the Association of German Veterans, and the Association for the Reinforcement of German Defense were represented. They demanded statesmen to struggle to obtain equal rights and security for Germany.

Gen. von Frankenberg spoke and described the disarmament meeting as "an utter failure which revealed strikingly the hypocrisy of the powers who want to keep military supremacy and deprive Germany of the equality and security promised her." The committee demands measures to protect the country from attacks by air and gas, since "Germany is surrounded by nations armed to the teeth."

VON PAPEN DEFIES REICHSTAG TO THROW HIM OUT

Ready to Test Strength of Political Foes.

BERLIN, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Chancellor Franz von Papen, bitterly opposed by Adolf Hitler's National Socialist party, will take his cabinet before the new reichstag on Aug. 30 to test the strength of the opposition.

An official announcement today that the reichstag would be convened at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of Aug. 30 put at rest persistent reports that the Von Papen government intended to avoid the possibility of a no-confidence vote. These reports had continued despite the chancellor's frequent denials.

He said yesterday that he was confident that an appeal to the common sense of the reichstag's parties would be successful, because there is no government to replace the present one. If there is a vote of no-confidence, however, he said, the cabinet will govern its action according to the situation when it arises.

Will Not March on Berlin.

[Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.]

BERECHTESGADEN, Bavaria, Germany, Aug. 18.—Adolf Hitler, leader of Germany's 13,700,000 Fascist National Socialists, declared today he had no intention of marching on Berlin.

"Why should I," he said, "when I am there already. The question isn't whether I'll march on Berlin, but rather who will have to march out of Berlin."

High up in the Bavarian mountains 107 miles from Munich, Hitler is calmly awaiting further political developments in the certainty that no matter what cabinet is established after the reichstag meets Aug. 30 his Nazis will have at least 75 per cent representation in the government.

Claims Right to Rule.

"According to the rules of democracy," he said, "any party or group of parties commanding 51 per cent of the electorate can claim the right of having the entire government turned over to them.

"Our movement at the last elections won 37 per cent. This means that of the 51 per cent necessary for taking over the government we can furnish about 75. That obviously means that we have a right and claim to leadership.

"Without us legal government in Germany is no longer possible. We can well afford to wait. I hold my safe position. I now have 13,700,000 behind me; the next time I'll have 14,000,000 to 15,000,000, and so on. At the presidential runoff election I stood absolutely alone with all others against me and more than 13,000,000 voted for me. That is my hard earned capital which nobody can take from me and which I have risked my life to get together."

KIWANIANS, LIONS TO COMPETE IN FESTIVAL SONG

Amateur Spirit Prevails in All Contests.

Festival Facts

Where—Soldiers' field.
Admission—25 cents.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Kiwanians and Lions will indulge in a contest of song at Soldiers' field tomorrow night with a competitive rendition of "America, the Beautiful."

This is a single example of the spirit of friendly rivalry that pervades the Chicagoland Music Festival. It is competitive almost throughout. In Chicago, in fact all through the middle west, there is a widespread desire to furnish the finest in music for the program and an equally widespread willingness to pit talent against talent, musical resource against musical resource.

This is the true amateur spirit. For months musicians in Chicago and outside have been entering their names in the contests which have been taking place this week. By the time they are all ended the best musicians in Chicago will have met the best musicians outside of Chicago, and in the course of the winnowing the judges will have determined in a number of classifications the best musicians of the middle west.

Represent Fifty Cities.

It has been a busy and stirring scene. Solo singers representing some fifty cities outside of Chicago will be here tomorrow to meet the best of those remaining after elimination contests for the 175 solo singers who entered from Chicago.

One of the finest examples of this sporting amateur spirit is to be found in the fact that several bands did not for one reason or another enter the contests, but ardently desired to add their separate talents to the festival program as a whole. Those who go to behold the program tomorrow night will see that the number of bands, adult and juvenile, totals twenty-eight.

The pomp and glitter and pictorial marching of the drum and bugle corps will come up for judgment in Soldiers' field during Saturday afternoon. Juvenile drum corps, twelve of them, are called for 3 o'clock, thirteen adult organizations at 4 o'clock. Andrew B. Scott will be in charge of these sections.

Judges of the Contests.

Great assistance has been given THE TRIBUNE in the festival contests by a group of judges who gave generously of their time and ability. THE TRIBUNE extends its thanks to them for their willing, expert, and accurate efforts. Among them are to be noted the names of Edgar Nelson, Dr. J. Lewis Browne, Richard De Young, Nelli Gardini, Carl Craven, John T. Reed, Lillian Rosedale Goodman, Edward Clissold, O. S. Beltz, Noble Cain, D. A. Clippinger, Helen Fouts Cahoon, and Frank Bennett.

Mr. Grabel will have a group of eminent bandmasters to assist him in tomorrow's band contests. Carl E. Preble of Vincennes, Ind., will be one. He is director of the Indiana State Legion band, and at one time played under the baton of the late John Philip Sousa. Otto J. Kraushaar, another former member of the Sousa band, is director of the city and high school bands of Waupun, Wis.. Peter Michelsen is director of the band at State Teachers' college of Stevens Point, Wis. His organization won the Wisconsin state championship for seven successive years. A. R. McAllister is director of the Joliet High School band and is also president of the National High School Band association.

Pick Two Best Singers.

Sophie Paske, 23 years old, 6345 South California avenue, a contralto, and Waldemar Schroeder, 22 years old, 1012 Broadway, Melrose Park, a baritone, were chosen as "the best woman singer" and "the best man singer" of Chicago last night in the Chicago finals of the vocal contest of the Chicagoland Music Festival, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The contest was held in the Gold Ballroom of the Drake hotel.

Miss Paske, the south side representative in the contralto division sang "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" from "Samson and Delilah," by Saint-Saëns. Mr. Schroeder sang "Ship Mates of Mine," by Wilfred Sanderson.

Annette Thorn, dramatic soprano, 6636 Minerva avenue, was second in the women's contest, and Robert Burns, baritone, 8230 Laflin street, took second place in the men's event. Third place in the women's competition went to Edna Moe, contralto, 5929 Walton street, and William Dalton, 4039 Warwick avenue, was third in the men's contest.

REHEARSING FOR "HALLELUJAH CHORUS" IN MUSIC FESTIVAL

More than 800 singers rehearsed the "Hallelujah Chorus" under the direction of Noble Cain in the gold ballroom of the Drake hotel last night. The chorus will be a feature of the Music Festival at Soldiers' field tomorrow night. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

TRAFFIC RULES ANNOUNCED FOR MUSIC FESTIVAL

One-Way Travel Zone Is Designated.

In order to facilitate traffic to and from Soldiers' field Saturday night when THE TRIBUNE's third annual music festival will be held, Capt. T. J. Howard of the south park police department, after a conference with representatives of the city police department, the cab and bus companies, elevated and surface lines, announced the following rules by which traffic will be regulated.

CAPT. T. J. HOWARD

There will be one way traffic between 16th street and 7th street in Grant park. Sixteenth street is the southern boundary of Soldiers' field. Automobilists coming from the south and not going to the festival will turn east on 16th street. They will continue to the outer drive and then north to Jackson boulevard or Monroe street.

Remove Exposition Fence.

The arrangement for one way traffic on both sides of the stadium was made possible when Col. John E. Stewart, director of the works of the Century of Progress, agreed to remove the fence at 16th street and also the one at the Administration building.

Automobile traffic from the north and west may use the west drive in Grant park, unloading on the west, south or east sides of the stadium. These cars will park east of the stadium. Cars from the south will park between 16th street and 23d street.

Parking space also will be reserved between 7th street and the Shedd aquarium east of the outer drive and the drive immediately north of the Field museum between the outer drive and the west drive.

Space Reserved for Buses.

The Court of Honor, at the north of Soldiers' field, will be reserved for buses only.

Taxicabs may park on the west drive at the stadium after 10:15 p. m.

Parking will not be permitted on 11th and 12th streets between State street and Michigan avenue.

The 11th street bridge will be reserved for pedestrian travel only.

At 10:30 Saturday night buses and taxicabs only will be permitted to enter Grant park. Automobile traffic will be routed south on Michigan avenue until the stadium has been cleared.

GIRL DIES AFTER FALL.

Vera Louise Solomon, 10 years old, of Streator, Ill., died yesterday in the county hospital of injuries suffered when she fell while playing in her home on June 30.

LINDBERGH BABY REPORTED BORN IN APARTMENT

New York, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Information that the infant son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh was born on Tuesday, but not at the Englewood home of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's mother, as first announced, but at the town apartment of Mrs. Morrow, at 4 East 66th street, was disclosed tonight in the birth certificate of the child which was mailed to the New York city health department.

The certificate gave the sex of the child as male and stated that the father's age was 30 years and the mother's was 26 years. The certificate was signed by Dr. E. M. Hawks.

It was understood last night that the mother and child were in excellent health.

GLORIA SWANSON SUED; OFFICERS SEIZE FURNITURE

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Deputies from the Los Angeles sheriff's office today invaded Gloria Swanson's Beverly Hills home and seized pieces of furniture to hold for payment on an asserted debt.

The attachment on the actress' chairs, tables, and art objects was sworn by W. Jay Saylor, Ltd., a Los Angeles importing firm. The action was taken as a result of a civil action in which the firm sued to collect an alleged unpaid balance of $44,000 worth of furniture. The suit asked for collection of an asserted balance of $15,000.

Orders were given to hold the actress' goods in a warehouse temporarily, pending outcome of the suit.

HUNT TOBACCO HIJACKERS IN MYSTERY KILLING

Police yesterday were seeking Jack Webber, 30 years old, for questioning concerning the murder of Irving Passin, 31 years old, 3248 Crystal avenue, who was found shot to death earlier in the day in the butcher shop of his brother at 2547 West Division street.

No money was taken and police were investigating a theory that Passin was killed by tobacco hi-jackers. They recalled that Passin was arrested some time ago at 1112 North Oakley avenue, where police found loot in a $1,700 robbery of a truck belonging to the Udelowich Tobacco company, 2457 West North avenue.

Two others were arrested later charged with stealing the tobacco and Passin was released. Webber was sought in connection with the theft but never was caught.

The body of Passin was found by his brother when he returned to the shop after an absence of 15 minutes. Police were puzzled by the fact that the bullet entered through the top of the victim's head.

Mrs. Jennie Horwitz, sister of Passin, who was in her third floor apartment at the time, failed to hear the shot and no one could be found who saw the killers escape.

WOMAN IN IOWA SETS RECORD IN MAKING QUILTS

West Branch, Ia., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. J. F. Yetter of West Branch, Herbert Hoover's birthplace, believes she has an unique record. She has made 109 quilts by hand. Of that number, she quilted 57 since April 1, 1930, using 26,403 yards of thread. She says sewing sixty yards of thread is a long ten hours' work.

MUSIC FESTIVAL FANS! NO SEATS ARE RESERVED

Here's One Show Where "Pull" Won't Count.

There will be more than 100,000 seats available in Soldiers' field tomorrow night at the Chicagoland Music festival sponsored by THE TRIBUNE in coöperation with a score of other newspapers in the middle west.

And not one of them will be reserved. Thus is the democracy of the event signalized.

THE TRIBUNE'S gigantic music festival was inaugurated to provide an evening of thrilling musical entertainment for folks in Chicagoland who enjoy music. The price of admission was set at the first festival held in August, 1930, at 25 cents. THE TRIBUNE stated then that should there be a profit that profit would be given to charity. In neither 1930 or 1931 was there a profit, THE TRIBUNE in its desire to better the program spending more on the entertainment than it was possible to receive in gate receipts. The plan originally adopted and followed through tomorrow's festival is that every seat in Soldiers' field is a front row seat and every patron has an equal chance to pick the seat of his preference.

The Tribune's Answer.

Each summer as music festival time draws near there have been thousands of requests for reserved seats. The requests have come from Chicagoans prominent in civic life, from TRIBUNE friends, from political leaders, from advertisers. Each year the answer has been: "The music festival is one entertainment without classification in seats. You pay your 25 cents and get exactly the same class of seat as does your neighbor."

This week the demand for reserved seats has been three-fold that of the other years. The answer again is:

"There is only one price for music festival tickets and that is 25 cents. Because of the huge amplification system installed by THE TRIBUNE the quality and volume of music will be the same whether the listener is seated in the south horseshoe, 900 feet distant from the platform, or in the north stands. You have your choice of 100,000 seats."

Sections Held Only for Performers.

Just in case you see several sections roped off tomorrow night do not conclude that this announcement of "no seats reserved" has been false. There will be sections held for the 600 girls who take part in the dance pageant and their mothers seated with them. There will be sections set aside for the several thousand Kiwanians and Lions who will engage in a song battle. And there will be a few seats held for members of THE TRIBUNE staff assisting in the direction of the festival. But these reservations are for "working folks," not spectators.

"Box Seat Holders" Note!

Several weeks ago those in charge of the festival believed that it would be a nice courtesy to TRIBUNE employés to utilize a few hundred box seats which the south park system already had installed for the seating of the employés' families and friends. Some of these so-called box seats have been distributed. This is a general notification to the recipients of these tickets that not even they are to rate reservations.

Today the box seats will be removed from the field.

FINES CHAUFFEUR AS GUN TOTER.

Walter Steiner, 23 years old, 4004 North McVickers avenue, a driver for the Yellow Cab company, was fined $100 and sentenced to 60 days in the Bridewell yesterday by Municipal Judge James F. Fardy when he pleaded guilty to the charge of carrying concealed weapons.

MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY BACK TO FIGHT FOR LIFE

Traitor Gives Self Up; Fled 10 Years Ago.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 18.—For thirteen years a man without a country—Henri Guilbeaux, once a famous French newspaper man and pacifist—today strolled into the prosecuting attorney's office in the Palais de Justice and announced to the astonished officials that he is ready to answer to the death sentence passed on him by a court martial in 1919.

Guilbeaux is probably the most famous of France's wartime traitors or alleged traitors. Bitterly attacked like his friend, Romain Rolland, the author, for pacifism and socialism, Guilbeaux aroused more sinister suspicions when he went to Switzerland after being invalided in 1915, and put out tracts, reviews, and even a daily newspaper.

Financed by Germans, Charge.

It was the contention of French authorities that he obtained money for this paper from Germany. Later it was charged that he plotted to bring about a communist revolution in France with the aid of more German gold.

He was tried with several associates and sentenced to death by default in a cut and dried session of the military court.

With the sentence hanging over his head, Guilbeaux gave up hope of ever returning to France and settled in Russia, where he held an important political job under the soviets.

First his wife, tired of the "workers' paradise," came back and then Guilbeaux himself.

Hopes to Clear Self.

"I came back because I want to be rehabilitated in an open hearing and because I was homesick," he said today.

It is expected that Guilbeaux will be incarcerated in a military prison, and that the case will be heard by a court martial. "Communicating intelligence to the enemy" is the only charge against Guilbeaux and he hopes to prove it is unfounded.

CURTIS OPPOSES REPEAL; OPENS HIS CAMPAIGN

Says He Will Stand Upon Party Platform.

Topeka, Kas., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Vice President Charles Curtis stood today on the shaded north steps of the Kansas statehouse, received official notification of his renomination as the Republican party's candidate for Vice President and told visiting party leaders and his Kansas neighbors:

"I stand upon the party platform. I approve Mr. Hoover's admirable statement of Republican principles. . . . I know of no reason for the people criticizing the party under whose policies our nation has become the greatest and most powerful in the world. . . . Personally, I am opposed to the return of the saloon and I am opposed to the repeal of the eighteenth amendment."

A crowd of more than 5,000 had gathered beneath aged elms to hear what "Charley" Curtis of historically dry and agricultural Kansas would say about prohibition, farm relief, tariffs, the depression and the Republican record.

Lauded by Dickinson.

It heard Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa, keynoter at the Republican national convention and chairman of the notification committee, extol the man who represented Kansas for 35 years in congress as "one fixed in fundamentals of government, who knows the interests of our people in this valley, who has an abiding faith in our open spaces, a firm grasp on our tribulations, who is seasoned with service, polished in the art of leadership."

And it heard the Vice President, his face turned toward the site of the log cabin in which he was born—across the Kaw river in North Topeka—declare his opposition to repeal of the eighteenth amendment, his faith in tariff protection, his assurance that America will be the first nation to recover from the financial storms and his faith in Herbert Hoover.

The man who, sixty years ago, hiked seventy-five miles to bring help for the Kaw tribe of Indians against raiding Cheyennes, was carefully dressed in a dark coat with white trousers, wearing a striped tie and a flower at his lapel.

Calls Constitution Sacred.

The Vice President brought cheers, whistling and applause from citizens of the state of Carrie Nation when he opened his reference to the prohibition subject with Washington's statement: "The constitution . . . until changed by an explicit and authentic act of the whole people, is sacredly obligatory upon all."

"The Republican platform," he said, "makes no distinction as to the Republicanism of the members of the party because of their stand on the prohibition question.

"People may differ as to the wisdom of the enactment of a particular piece of legislation or amending the constitution, but it is impossible to ignore the constitution.

"I believe in meeting the issue squarely: . . . Personally, . . . I am not only in favor of honestly and fearlessly enforcing all our laws, but further I am opposed to the return of the saloon and I am opposed to the repeal of the eighteenth amendment."

Praises Influence of Women.

The Vice President's campaigning sister and official hostess, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, and his daughter, Mrs. Webster Wright II. of Providence, R. I., were listening with interest when he said:

"No evolution in human history is more important than the expansion of the privileges of modern women. The women of our country have made a great fight, accomplished much; it has been gratifying to note the important part they have taken in the management and control of the country's affairs."

Twice in his acceptance speech, Mr. Curtis paid tribute to his running mate, President Hoover. In discussing tariff and immigration he termed it fortunate "in these times of world-wide liquidation, stagnation and readjustment" that there was in the White House a President "sensing the situation at its very start, with real statesmanship and administrative foresight."

Two Tributes to Hoover.

Again he said of him:

"No President ever worked harder to improve conditions. None ever took the people into his confidence as has the careful organizer, the great student of the needs of our people—Herbert Hoover."

The Vice President linked tariff and immigration restriction together as twin measures which "account largely for American wages being more than in any other country, standards of living higher, hours of labor shorter, working conditions better."

He sketched briefly his own part in the Republican efforts to improve the condition of farmers, outlined the efforts made by congress to solve the farm problem in the last eleven years and regretted "most of the measures passed have not come up to the expectation of those who introduced and supported them.

"The farmers and stockmen of Kansas remember quite well their troubles began after the great world war, in the fall of 1929," he said.

Industry and Farm.

Senator Dickinson, in his notification speech, declared nations maintaining the best balance between industry and agriculture are best equipped for their own defense.

"Markets for food products and prosperity on the farm, can best be found in wages for the unemployed and work for the idle," he declared. "Within ourselves and our trade relations with each other can be found the first encouragement for recovery and stability."

He described reconstruction measures as "the most liberal program of government aid" and said "those in high position understand the suffering of the day."

Vice President Curtis in his response applauded "distinct gains toward the realization of labor's laudable aims" and said "we desire to see labor fully employed at good wages."

Farley Comments.

New York, Aug. 18.—(AP)—James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee and manager of the Roosevelt-Garner campaign, issued the following comment tonight on the acceptance speech of Vice President Curtis:

"It looks as if the Republican party has a half dry head and a dried out tail."

FACE GUNS IN BANK HOLDUP

Loot Is $2,500

Five bandits took $2,500 yesterday in a holdup of the Edgewater Trust and Savings bank, 5545 Broadway. Emil Schellenberger, cashier, who was present with three bank employes during the robbery, told police he believed some of the bandits were members of the gang which took $5,000 in a holdup of the bank on May 25.

The robbery took place while most of the bank help was at lunch. One of the robbers held a sawed-off shotgun and the others carried revolvers. One of the group concealed his face with a handkerchief. The others made no attempt to disguise themselves.

Cashier Schellenberger; his brother Frank, a teller; Miss Ruth Cassidy, stenographer, and Miss Hazel Sturm, bookkeeper, were forced to lie on the floor while the robbers scooped up the money in the tellers' cages. Police believe other members of the gang waited outside during the holdup. Several witnesses reported that the gang fled in two automobiles.

KIN OF FORMER SHERIFF HELD AS EMBEZZLER

John D. Erickson, 45 years old, 93 Crescent drive, Glencoe, son-in-law of Charles W. Peters, formerly sheriff and now chief deputy under Sheriff Meyering, was held to the grand jury yesterday on a charge of embezzlement by Municipal Judge John A. Sbarbaro. Erickson was released on the same $10,000 bond that had been given after his arrest on June 21.

The charge grew out of the sale by Erickson of a $6,000 mortgage and the conversion of the money to his own use. The complainant, Theodore J. Higgins, an attorney, charged that he had given Erickson the mortgage to sell as an asset of an estate. Erickson does not deny that he retained the money. In a civil suit in the Superior court last year a judgment was rendered against him.

Subsequently he appeared in the County court and was discharged on his plea that he was a pauper. He asserted that a 14 room home, several automobiles, and other property in Glencoe belonged to his wife and children. A criminal warrant charging embezzlement was issued last July 21, but after eight continuances Erickson was discharged by Judge Alfar M. Eberhardt on the grounds that the warrant had not been served within a legal interval after its issuance. Later a new warrant was issued.

Mellon Gets Permission to Delay Return to London

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Andrew W. Mellon has been granted permission by the state department to remain away from his ambassadorial post in London for another week or so. Mellon had originally planned to begin his return trip tomorrow. In asking for the extension, he pointed out that parliament is not in session and said his immediate presence in England was not necessary.

WOMEN FLYERS NEAR ENDURANCE RECORD GOAL

Valley Stream, L. I., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Frances Marsalis and Mrs. Louise Thaden, women flyers, were within hailing distance of their goal, the women's endurance record for a refueling flight in an airplane, tonight. By 6 p. m. tomorrow, according to word received from Washington by Casey Jones, manager of Curtiss airport, they will have established a new record of 124 hours.

The present record, held by Miss Bobbie Trout and Edna May Cooper, is 123 hours. Jones was advised by Charles Gale, observer for the National Aeronautical association in Washington. The two flyers took off at 2 p. m. on Sunday, so that at 5 p. m. they will have equaled the record. In spite of bad weather the plane continues to circle overhead, with enough gasoline to carry it until tomorrow midday.

RAILWAY AGENT ENDS LIFE AFTER ROW WITH WIFE

Donald C. Morris, 30 years old, a commercial agent for the St. Louis Southwestern Railway company, last night shot and killed himself in the bathroom of his apartment in the New Lawrence hotel, 1020 Lawrence avenue. Morris had been quarreling with his wife, Mrs. Mildred Morris, police were told. When they attempted to question her she became hysterical and was put under a physician's care.

After writing a note in which he blamed unemployment and poor health for his despondency, John V. Prater, 59 years old, last night shot and killed himself while sitting in a chair before a mirror in his hom eat 5711 Maryland avenue. His son, Charles, said that his father had feared to lose their home because of failure to keep up mortgage payments.

BINGHAM TELLS HOOVER SPEECH "WELL RECEIVED"

Dry Change Plea Pleases East, He Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.], leader of the Republican repeal forces in the senate, today advised President Hoover that his recent action in urging modification of the 18th amendment had been extremely well received throughout the eastern section of the country. Bingham told the President that a majority of Connecticut voters would support him for reelection.

HIRAM BINGHAM. [Harris & Ewing

Senator Bingham later remarked that he was facing a hard fight for reelection, as the rabid drys in his state were preparing to set up a third candidate, a dry, in an effort to unseat him. The Connecticut senator said the drys planned to use the same strategy that was employed in New York when former Senator James Wadsworth was defeated. At that time the dry vote went to the third candidate, thus giving the election to the Democrat opposing Senator Wadsworth.

Appeal Well Received, He Says.

"The President's appeal for a change in the 18th amendment was given a great reception," said Senator Bingham. "The average voter who opposes national prohibition took the position that so long as the President wanted the amendment changed it did not matter much as to whether or not he came out for direct repeal. The view taken was that congress, after all, is the body which will act on the 18th amendment. Many voters told me that with President Hoover for a change in the national prohibition, no question now exists but that the 18th amendment will be vitally changed."

"How about your chances for reelection?" Senator Bingham was asked.

Howell to Speak for G. O. P.

"It will be a hard fight," Mr. Bingham said. "The drys have already taken steps to set up a dry candidate so as to split the vote and throw the election to a Democratic wet. Apparently they do not care how wet a man is elected just so they can punish me."

Senator Robert B. Howell [rad. Rep., Neb.], brought a party of Nebraska Boy Scouts to the White House today but did not call on the President. He said in response to questions that he will make a few speeches for the Republican ticket in Nebraska this fall.

SWEITZER MAY BE WITNESS IN SIMPSON CONTEST

County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer is expected to be called to the witness stand in the court of Judge Thomas J. Lynch, who is hearing the Simpson-Church contest over the Republican nomination for congress from the 10th district.

Urban Lavery, counsel for James Simpson Jr., has challenged the validity of several thousand votes cast in the country towns of Cook county which fall under Sweitzer's jurisdiction in election matters.

Sweitzer is to be asked why there was no registration before the April primary, the lack of which constitutes the grounds for permitting the affidavit voting.

Democrats Lead G. O. P. in Registration in Nevada

Reno, Nev., Aug. 18.—(AP)—For the first time in many years Democrats lead Republicans in registration in Nevada. The unofficial total of all counties in the state gives the Democrats 21,674 and the Republicans 20,950. The total registration, including other parties, is slightly over 45,000. Heavy Democratic registration at Boulder City was largely responsible for the gain, although inroads were made elsewhere, including the Republican stronghold of Reno.

STRAWN BRINGS LEADING G. O. P. OF STATE TOGETHER

Drive for Funds to Be Launched.

Under the leadership of Silas H. Strawn, Illinois Republicans prominent in the business and professional life of the state met yesterday at a luncheon that was pronounced by some of those present as a most significant pre-campaign gathering.

Mr. Strawn, who has served as president of the American Bar association, the United States Chamber of Commerce, and the International Chamber of Commerce, recently accepted the chairmanship of the Republican finance committee for Illinois. He gave the luncheon as a preliminary to the opening of the fund raising campaign.

There were no requests for donations or pledges at the gathering, which was intended primarily to bring together a strong group of men who, it is believed, will be invited to become members of a state committee of about forty members which Chairman Strawn will name soon.

The guests, in addition to the leaders in Illinois affairs, included representatives of the G. O. P. national committee—Joseph R. Nutt, national treasurer; W. J. Kelly, assistant treasurer; Robert H. Lucas and Raymond Benjamin, assistants to National Chairman Everett Sanders, and Henry J. Allen, publicity director.

The Illinoisians included the following: Congressman Fred A. Britten, James D. Cunningham, Arthur Evans, Leonard Fiorsheim, James B. Forgan, Ernest R. Graham, Senator Otis F. Glenn, Clay Judson, John W. O'Leary, Roy C. Osgood, James Pope, George W. Rossetter, Fred W. Sargent, F. H. Scott, Gilbert Scribner, Frank L. Smith, Franklin J. Stransky, Taylor Strawn, Robert J. Thorne, Warren W. Wright, Thomas E. Wilson, and Roy O. West.

The principal talk was made by Mr. Strawn. He listed thirteen reasons for supporting President Hoover and concluded with an indorsement of the President's attitude on prohibition as revealed in his acceptance speech.

"I submit," said Mr. Strawn, "that any unprejudiced reader must be convinced that the President expressed himself fully and frankly on prohibition; that his stand goes beyond that of the Republican platform and that the suggestions he made are practical, and, if adopted by congress in the form of a resolution, they would meet the approval of the requisite number of states."

Vets Seek to Bar Hurley Talk at Legion Convention

Bristow, Okla., Aug. 18.—(AP)—A resolution protesting the scheduled appearance of Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war, before the state American Legion convention at Muskogee, Aug. 23-30, was adopted today by the Klingensmith Legion post of Bristow. The resolution contended a speech before the convention by the war secretary, who is an Oklahoma world war veteran, would be out of line with his stand on the bonus question and his action in connection with the clash between the bonus expeditionary force and the military in Washington.

WINNETKA SHOPS CLOSE FOR 7TH VILLAGE OUTING

Winnetka was a "deserted village" yesterday. All shops and business houses were closed and most of the residents journeyed to Skokie playfield, Hibbard road and Elm street to participate in the seventh annual community celebration. More than 10,000 persons, most of them children, were there during the day. Dancing in the evening ended the fête.

There were ninety entries in the children's pet show. Birds and poultry, rabbits, mice, reptiles, dogs, cats, and ponies were entered for the various prizes offered. A dozen foot races, a pie eating contest, horse shoe pitching, and baseball were other attractions.

The boys and girls who finished first, second and third in each foot race were given slips which entitled them to tickets for the Cubs baseball game Aug. 23. The winners will be taken in a body to the game.

"It surely pays to use good soap"

"How beautifully you've laundered the blankets, Dinah. They feel soft as down."

"You sho said it, Missy. Dem blankets come out fluffy as a baby lamb when I washes 'em in American Fam'ly. Dat soap suttinly has a mos' mollifyin' influence on woolens. And dere ain't a shrink in it!"

• • •

Try American Family when woolens need laundering. Use it once and you'll use no other soap. In hardest water it produces rich, creamy suds . . double the suds . . and it's the double-suds that makes the difference! Created especially for the hard water of this Great Lakes region, Kirk's American Family is pure soap. It contains no free lye . . no destructive acids . . no harsh abrasives.

The frothy lather penetrates deep into the texture of fine woolens and actually floats out the dirt. You avoid all hard, harmful rubbing which invariably causes the fabric to mat and shrink and lose shape.

All woolens . . from the thickest blanket to the daintiest infants' wear . . come from the washing soft, fresh and spotless when laundered in American Family's pure, mild double-suds. More than that, it's the ideal all-purpose household soap . . for all laundering and cleaning . . for woodwork, tile and linoleum . . the exclusive choice in 4 out of 5 Gold Coast homes.

And it's doubly economical . . particularly now that the cake is so much larger, with quality and price the same as before.

IT'S CHEAPER TO BUY GOOD SOAP THAN NEW CLOTHES

Cheap soaps are lacking in real soap value. They often contain free lye that eats and weakens fabrics . . roughens delicate hands. A big cheap cake may look like a bargain but the few cents difference in price can't begin to pay for the clothes it ruins.

SWANSON ASKS KELLY TO REVOKE PROBATION ORDER

Robbery Victim Flees City in Fear of His Life.

Cancellation of the probation granted to three confessed shotgun bandits was asked yesterday by State's Attorney Swanson in a hearing before Acting Chief Justice James J. Kelly of the Criminal court, who freed the men. The state's attorney was given permission to file a petition to expunge the probation order which Judge Kelly took under advisement. He announced he would give his decision later.

Meanwhile, it became known that Randall Prieve, 4830 Cottage Grove avenue, had fled from Chicago in fear of his life after causing the rearrest of two of the bandits freed by Judge Kelly. Prieve left home early Sunday, it was revealed, after a visit from the wife of one of the robbers, followed by a mysterious midnight call at his home by four men, two of whom pounded at his door and rang the bell for nearly thirty minutes.

Calls Meeting of Legislators.

After the court hearing State's Attorney Swanson announced that he had called a meeting of the Cook county members of the state legislature for this morning when he will ask them to take steps to amend the probation law making it impossible to extend this form of judicial clemency to gunmen robbers. The meeting will be held in the county building.

The state's attorney appeared in person before Judge Kelly to make his attack on the probation order. He was accompanied by two assistants, Homer Dodge and Granville Beardsley, who drew up the arguments in the petition.

Mr. Swanson first attacked the validity of the probation on the ground that two of the robbers, St. Clair McInerney and George Dilley, had pleaded guilty to four crimes each, and the third, Ralph Trimble, to three robberies. These crimes were in addition to the robbery of Prieve. McInerney and Dilley were rearrested on a warrant signed by Prieve as they left the county jail after being freed by Judge Kelly. Trimble was allowed to go. Later Sergt. Timothy Dwyer, who seized the other two, issued an order to rearrest Trimble when he reports at the probation office.

Cites Probation Law.

"The law says that probation may be granted to a person not previously convicted of a crime greater than a misdemeanor," Mr. Swanson told Judge Kelly. "In this matter we have two of the defendants pleading guilty to four robberies and one of them to three robberies.

"It is sometimes well to consult the dictionary. 'Previously' means 'prior to' and I say that when these men were found guilty on indictment 65,460 of an offense greater than a misdemeanor the court had no authority to grant them probation on indictments 65,461, 65,462, and 65,463, all robbery cases to which they also plead guilty."

Judge Kelly replied that there was some question about this point and added that probation has been granted in similar cases for twenty years, a statement to which the prosecutor did not agree.

Theft of More Than $200.

"The law specifically states that probation may not be granted in a larceny case where the theft is more than $200," Mr. Swanson resumed. [The robbers have confessed they obtained $2,000 in four holdups.] "Every gun robbery comprises a larceny accomplished with force. To conclude that probation may, therefore, be granted in a robbery case involving more than $200 would be absurd, because the law mentions larceny and doesn't specifically mention robbery, which is an aggravated form of larceny."

"Is any more force used in a gun robbery of $4 than of $4,000?" Judge Kelly asked. He added that in the absence of any decision on these points by the Supreme court he would read all cases cited by Mr. Swanson as limiting the court's power in probation matters before deciding whether he would vacate his order. The state's attorney replied that he would go to the Supreme court if necessary to establish his point.

Robbery of Prieve.

The robbery charge brought by Prieve involves only McInerney and Dilley. The latter was employed by Prieve's father, Frank R. Prieve, who has a roofing and sheet metal business. A year ago Dilley witnessed a payment of over $300 to Prieve. Soon after he left the premises. In a short time two robbers appeared, but they obtained only $25, as the balance of the money had been sent to the bank. One of the bandits was identified as McInerney.

"My son now has to take the burden of prosecuting the men for a $25 robbery, which occurred a year ago although I am told the bandits secured over $2,000 in the four robberies that resulted in their probation," the elder Prieve said yesterday.

Then the father told of his son's flight from the city.

"It was last Friday that Judge Kelly let them go and they were rearrested on the warrant signed by my son. That night the wife of McInerney called on my son, pleading that he refuse to prosecute. Randall said he was told by the policemen he would have to go to court and tell the truth.

Fears for His Life.

"After midnight he called me on the telephone and told me two men were banging on his front door and two more were in a big automobile parked across the street. He said he was afraid they were there to kill him. In the morning he and his wife took their car and drove away. I don't know where they went but I think he will go to court and prosecute when he gets back. Those men must have influence when they are able to hire an expensive criminal lawyer."

Attorney W. W. O'Brien represented the robbers at the hearing before Judge Kelly when they won their freedom on the robbery charges.

A new list of cases in which Judge Kelly has granted probation was made public yesterday by the crime commission. The list follows:

PETER PLUTO, GEORGE LEE, SAM CLARK, and WILLIAM LANNERS. On March 27, 1931, Pluto, Lee, and Lanners were granted probation for one year and on April 6 Clark was given probation. Pluto and Lanners were indicted in four cases, Lee in two and Clark in one of robbery. While on probation Lanners was indicted on another charge of burglary and sentenced by Judge David on Dec. 15, 1931, to one to ten years in the reformatory.

HARRY W. MOORE. Granted probation on Dec. 30, 1931, on three charges of embezzlement after he had pleaded guilty. The value of the property was set in each case at $195 to come within the probation statute. The amounts involved were $800, $1,500, and $1,000 for which probation could not be granted.

STANLEY AVILLO. Released on probation on a robbery charge April 2, 1931, after having pleaded guilty.

WILLIAM BAKER. Granted probation on April 10, 1931, after having been found guilty of robbery on a plea of not guilty.

STANLEY BABICZ. On Aug. 3, 1931, he held up a man with a gun. Judge Kelly granted probation over objections of Assistant State's Attorney Dodge.

JOSEPH KILIAN. Granted probation on two charges of robbery with a gun after he was found guilty of plain robbery.

JOSEPH BROZDSKI. Granted probation on three charges of robbery with a gun after pleas of guilty. Probation was opposed by representatives of the John R. Thompson company, whose restaurants the defendant held up.

A dozen or more applications for probation by gun robbers are on the call for hearing by Judge Kelly today.

Work Started on Federal and State Buildings for World's Fair

Architects' sketch of how federal and states buildings for Century of Progress will appear when finished. Work was started yesterday and before fall the buildings will be under roofs. The buildings are to be erected in a position symbolizing the unity of federal and state governments.

Horseshoe Shaped

Construction was begun yesterday on the Federal building and Court of States on Northerly island of the World's Fair territory. The states building will be roughly shaped like a horseshoe, two stories high, 500 feet across, and with two wings 500 feet long and 140 feet wide. The federal building, extending across the base of the horseshoe, will be 620 feet long and 300 feet wide. Exhibits from the national government, 48 states, and territories will be housed in the structures.

Girl Converts Schoolmates to Communism; Imprisoned

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Elizabeth Klein, an 18 year old high school girl, was sentenced today to four months in prison on a charge of converting two fellow students to communism. She denied the charge.

Macon County Officials Accept 10 Per Cent Pay Cut

Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Macon county officials agreed today to a voluntary 10 per cent reduction of their salaries, beginning Dec. 1. Assistants in their offices will take a similar reduction. It is estimated this agreement will save the county $7,000. Members of the board of supervisors are expected to reduce their own salaries from $5 to $4 for each day during meetings. This will afford an additional saving of $2,500.

CONSTABLE RAIDS 14 PLACES; SEIZES SLOT MACHINES

Six slot machines were seized in Blue Island yesterday by Constable George Harrison, who led a raid armed with warrants issued by his father, Justice of the Peace Samuel Harrison of Evanston. In 14 places visited six slot machines were taken.

In each of the four places the owner was left a typewritten note reading, "To the store owner: Will you please have the owner of this machine report to Samuel Harrison, 1561 Sherman avenue, Evanston, to make bond and arrange for trial." The notes were signed by Constable Harrison.

No slot machines were found in ten of the places for which warrants had been issued. The constable said he believed the owners were informed of the raid as the four other places were being visited. Two machines were found at 13101 and 14440 South Western avenue and one each at 13118 and 13139 South Western avenue.

Victim of Rare Disease Sues Company for $50,000

Robert Willis of Chicago Heights filed suit for $50,000 yesterday against the Sherwin-Williams Paint company, charging that he has become the victim of a rare disease, pneumoconiosis, as a result of his exposure to gas while working in the company's plant. The bill asserted that Willis worked for fifteen months in the "black ash department" of the plant and now is a patient at the county hospital.

SENATOR DAVIS IS INDICTED FOR LODGE LOTTERY

Named with Six Others by U. S. Grand Jury.

New York, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, who was secretary of labor in the cabinets of Presidents Coolidge and Hoover, was indicted with six other men by the federal grand jury today on charges of causing lottery tickets to be transported between states and with conspiring to violate the laws against lotteries.

There are eleven counts in two indictments against Senator Davis, all concerned with lotteries conducted by the Loyal Order of Moose, of which he was, while in the cabinet, the director general.

Faces Fine and Prison.

The evidence in the hands of United States Attorney George Z. Medalie deals with lotteries participated in by the Eagles, Shriners, and Knights of Columbus. No members of the last two named organizations were indicted, because, it was understood, the grand jury found true bills only against those men who profited personally from the lotteries.

Conviction of violating the lottery sections of the federal statutes carries a maximum sentence of $1,000 fine and two years' imprisonment; the conspiracy a fine of $10,000 and two years in prison. Conviction on all counts would make Senator Davis liable to imprisonment for twenty-two years and a fine of $29,000.

Senator Davis is twice charged with conspiracy, nine times with causing lottery tickets to be delivered or received after being moved from state to state, twice through the mails.

The other men indicted are:

Conrad H. Mann, active Republican politician of Kansas City, head of the organization department of the Eagles, a member of Bresident Hoover's last unemployment conference and last Monday named to attend the President's coming economic conference. There is one indictment against him charging conspiracy and violation.

Theodore G. Miller, head of the propaganda department of the Moose, indicted on the same counts that stand against Senator Davis.

M. J. Rivise and the Western Union Telegraph company, of which he is an employé, charged with causing tickets to be delivered and conspiring to do so.

B. C. McGuire and Raymond Walsh, partners in the B. C. McGuire Merchandise company of New York City, promoters of the lotteries.

Net Income About Five Millions.

While Mr. Medalie declined to discuss the evidence, it is reported that the income from Moose and Eagle lottery projects last year was in the neighborhood of $5,000,000, that the prizes reached a total of only $225,000, that about a fifth of the whole went to the lodges participating and that about $4,000,000 went to expenses and to the promoters, both those inside the lodges and the McGuires. This money, it is said, has been traced in the six months that Mr. Medalie's office has been working on the case.

Individual lodges of the Shrine and Knights of Columbus, including the New York chapter of the latter, participated in the Moose and Eagle lotteries and drawings, but none of their leaders were indicted, all funds having been turned into the lodges that were not retained as expenses by the McGuire company.

The lottery tickets were printed at Scranton, Pa., at the order of the McGuires. They were shipped from that place to localities where units of the organizations were and there delivered to individual members by the Western Union. The tickets were bound in books, usually 20 to a book.

Drawing Held Aboard Boat.

The member selling a complete book of them was rewarded with a prize. Each ticket consisted of two parts, one section marked for admission to a ball or other entertainment and the second section entitling the holder to a chance for cash prizes.

The drawing for one lottery was held aboard a boat on Long Island sound on Jan. 1. It was conducted by the Moose, the order chartering the ship after word got around that the drawing was to be held in a midtown hotel. Prizes of $150,000 were decided by the drawing.

The Western Union company and McGuire and Walsh in one of the indictments, are charged with handling tickets for a lottery to be drawn at the Shrine convention at San Francisco last month.

No warrants have been issued for the men indicted. They will be notified, Mr. Medalie said, and are expected to report at the federal building for arraignment within the next few days.

There has been considerable opposition brought from Washington, it is known, against indicting Senator Davis, who has for years been a stanch upholder of the administration. Within recent weeks Mr. Medalie has several times been called to the capital.

Davis Demands Immediate Trial.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Senator Davis of Pennsylvania, in a statement given out at his office today, said he would ask for an immediate trial on the indictment returned against him in New York in connection with an alleged fraternal lottery. He said he was "sure these charges will prove false."

The statement was telephoned by Senator Davis to his Washington office. There it was said it was not known where he was calling from.

"I have been informed," the statement said, "that an indictment has been returned against me, as well as a number of very prominent fraternal leaders.

"I have sent for a copy of the indictment and I shall engage counsel and ask for an immediate trial.

"I am sure these charges will prove false.

"I ask the people, especially those of Pennsylvania, to withhold judgment until the trial."

MOOSE CHIEF DENIES CHARGE.

Malcolm Giles, supreme secretary of the Loyal Order of Moose, said here last night that the Moose organization "never violated either the letter or spirit of the lottery laws."

U. S. REVENUE FOR JULY 10 MILLIONS UNDER LAST YEAR

Tax on Bank Checks Yields $1,094,287.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Notwithstanding the enactment of a billion dollar revenue bill, tapping more than a score of new tax sources, internal revenue collections for the month of July just past were 10 million dollars less than in the same month last year, according to statistics issued today by the bureau of internal revenue.

For July of this year the bureau reported collections totaled $61,686,467, including returns from the new taxes imposed by the last congress. During July of 1931, it was shown, collections totaled $74,169,258.

Capital Stock Collections Drop.

Generally, revenue from those taxes which were in effect last year was lower during July, 1932, than in the previous year, although many of the taxes were raised by the new revenue bill.

Revenue from the tax on transfers of capital stock was nearly one-fourth less during the July just passed than in the same month last year, despite the fact that the tax on stock transfers was raised in the revenue bill. Collections from the estate tax totaled more than $1,500,000 in July, 1932, as compared with more than $4,000,000 in July last year.

Bank Checks Yield Largest Revenue.

Among the new taxes, the largest collection was of the duty on bank checks, which totaled $1,094,287 for the month. Other large revenues from the new imposts were from gasoline, $539,461, and brewers' wort, malt, and grape concentrates, $221,359. The tax on automobiles amounted only to $47,629 during the month, while the gift tax levied in the new bill netted only $276.

Income tax collections for July this year totaled $17,457,131, as compared with $24,376,183 in July, 1931.

WHEATON FOUNDER'S SON IS 82; KEEPS ON WORKING HIS FARM

Washington Irving Wheaton, whose father helped found Wheaton in 1837, put in a full day's work on his farm yesterday after celebrating his eighty-second birthday anniversary on Wednesday. Mr. Wheaton lives at 310 Evergreen avenue, Wheaton, in the home built by his father 70 years ago.

Mr. Wheaton's father, Jesse Wheaton, settled there and purchased $50 acres of land from the government for $1.25 an acre. The son still works the 150 acres that remain, specializing in stock raising. Mr. Wheaton's mother, Mrs. Orinda Gary Wheaton, was a sister of Erastus Gary, father of the late Judge E. H. Gary, steel magnate. Her parents settled on the site of Wheaton in 1832, were driven to Fort Dearborn by the Indians, and returned in 1833.

More than 150 persons attended the birthday celebration in Mr. Wheaton's home on Wednesday. Among them was his life long friend, Henry S. Wood, 98 years old, of West Chicago. Mr. Wheaton said he felt fit and would continue to work his farm for years to come.

A TOURIST 'GETS TO THINKING' AND SAVES HIS $12,000

A two hour stopover in Chicago between trains saved Frank W. Stine, retired capitalist of Westfall, Mass., $12,000. The story was revealed last night by Lieut. John McGinnis at the detective bureau.

Mr. Stine visited Lieut. McGinnis last Tuesday night and confessed certain misgivings to the policeman.

"I've been touring in California with my wife," he said. "Two weeks ago I met two gentlemen who induced me to join them in a pool on the races. I put up no money, but in a very few days the three of us had won $120,000. I saw the money, genuine money. But the bookmaker insisted that we show we could have paid him if we had lost. My two companions raised their share and I flew my plane all the way back to Massachusetts to get $12,000. I'm on my way back to California now with the money, but I just got to thinking that maybe there's something suspicious abou it all."

"You've been saved from the oldest 'skin' game in the world," said Lieut. McGinnis. "I've heard the same story a hundred times, but usually after the victim had lost his pants."

DOCTOR BEGINS TEST OF WINE FATAL TO TWO

Dr. Chester H. Guy, coroner's physician, yesterday began an analysis of a jug of wine reclaimed from a city dump which caused the death of two men and the serious illness of two other persons. John Formalski, 43 years old, 1308 East 93d street, the host, and Charles A. Zazitis, 20 years old, 9318 Woodlawn avenue, died on Wednesday in the county hospital. Mrs. John Kalis, 51 years old, and John Kongragovis, who lived in the same building with Formalski, are in a serious condition in the Burnside hospital. Formalski, a junk dealer, found the wine at the city dump at 95th street and Stony Island avenue. He invited his friends to share the find at his home on Tuesday night.

WOMAN ENDS LIFE IN HOME.

Mrs. Cecile Jarrett, 31 years old, 1927 North Park avenue, committed suicide yesterday by swallowing poison in her home. Police said she was despondent over ill health.

TEST RAIL BUS AS SOLUTION OF TRUCK RIVALRY

New Vehicle Travels on Rails or Highway.

An ordinary motorbus, with an attachment that permits it to be driven on railroad tracks as well as highways, was demonstrated to representatives of several railroads serving Chicago in the Illinois Central yards at the foot of Randolph street yesterday morning. This rail bus attained fair speed on the track and negotiated switches successfully.

Although the bus was a passenger vehicle, the inventor and its manufacturers believe its greatest usefulness will be in the transportation of freight. Freight buses could be loaded at the factory, driven through the streets to the freight yards, and formed into trains up to 50 buses. The trains would be hauled by steam locomotives to a distribution point, where the individual rail buses would again take to the highways to deliver the shipments, without any handling or loading en route.

Developer of Safety Coach.

This scheme of freight hauling was developed by Frank R. Fageol, president of the Twin Coach corporation of Kent, O. He also developed the Fageol safety coach, which appeared on the highways in 1921 and helped to establish the bus transportation systems that have cut into railroad revenues so deeply. He believes that his "railbus" will enable the railroads to recapture a large proportion of their lost freight volume.

The equipment that permits the bus to travel on tracks consists of four sets of guide wheels with wide flanges which engage the rail. The guide wheels are placed in front of and behind each rubber tired wheel on the bus, about six inches from the tire, and turn freely. The tire is not flanged. A control beside the driver's seat raises or lowers the guide wheels.

Shown to Rail Men.

The railbus was shown to the railroad men, who represented the mechanical departments of their roads, by L. F. Wilson, president of the Wilson Engineering corporation. They plan to report on the demonstration to their superiors.

Because of the involved regulations and precedent in railroading, Mr. Fageol said the most likely adoption of the railbus would be first as inspection cars for officers of the roads, then as passenger vehicles on branch lines, and, last, as mobile box cars for store door delivery of freight. Federal and state regulations will have to be altered to enable use of railbuses, he said.

ILLINOIS GRANTED SIX MILLIONS FOR RELIEF BY R. F. C.

Loan Cut Three-Fourths; Urge State to Help Self.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—The Reconstruction Finance corporation would consent today to grant only six millions of the $23,249,475 requested of it as a loan to meet Illinois' relief needs.

In answer to the application filed on the state's behalf by William H. Sexton, Chicago corporation counsel; Wilfred S. Reynolds and De Witt Billman as representatives of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, directors of the corporation instructed them to return home and see if additional funds could not be raised within the state.

Cash Available at Once.

The six millions was granted as an emergency advance on the showing of Mr. Sexton and his associates that relief funds in Cook county would be exhausted by tomorrow night and that funds in the remainder of the state would not last much longer. The loan was pared down from Mr. Sexton's request for an emergency loan of $6,126,075. It will be made immediately available.

As for the remaining 17 millions asked by the Illinois delegation as necessary to carry relief work through the remainder of the year, the corporation's directors, headed by Chairman Atlee Pomerene, believed that Illinois should make further efforts to raise the necessary money at home.

Urge Special Session.

They advised Illinois' spokesmen to ask Gov. Emmerson to call a special session of the Illinois legislature and stated that before applying for further federal aid Illinois must give unmistakable proof that it has exhausted every possible resource.

The 6 million dollars granted today will make Illinois' debt to the corporation so far 9 million dollars, since 3 millions were loaned to the state in July. The new loan, it was staed, will permit relief work to be carried on in Illinois through September. At that time, unless money has been raised within the state, it is assumed that Illinois will have either to halt its relief activities or come to Washington again.

To Confer with Governor.

"The board has requested us to go to the governor and ask him to call a special session of the state legislature to consider whether Illinois can raise funds for relief purposes from public operations," said Mr. Sexton, after the board's action.

"In accordance with that request, we intend to see the governor upon our return to Illinois, and advise him of the board's desires."

Mr. Sexton said he did not know whether the state would seek further relief funds from the corporation in the event of its inability to raise its own funds. He pointed out, however, that the board of directors of the corporation would undoubtedly watch carefully the efforts made by the state to obtain the money on its own account and expressed the opinion that their judgment on any possible further requests from Illinois would be based on the steps taken by the state at this time.

Feel Tax Sources Exhausted.

"We felt in Illinois," Mr. Sexton said, "that we had exhausted every source of revenue for relief. Whether we can devise some new means will, of course, have to be threshed out in the legislature if a special session is called."

He recalled, however, that a special session had been called last year to devise some means of taxation to relieve the real estate taxpayers, the whole field of taxation was gone over.

Mr. Sexton described the need for further funds in Cook county as desperate. The unemployment situation there, he said, had steadily grown worse, 8,000 additional families having been added to the relief roster in July. This has brought the total number of Cook county families receiving help from the relief committee up to 130,000, he declared.

In addition to the help being given in Cook county, Mr. Sexton told the corporation official, relief work is being carried on in 44 other Illinois counties.

Mr. Sexton revealed that the relief commission was engaged in preparing a program of work relief to supplement the direct charitable relief now being given.

In addition to the Illinois loan, the corporation loaned $768,000 to Ohio for relief work in three counties. As in the Illinois case it accompanied the loan with a warning that before another application for funds for these counties would be considered it must be shown that local resources had been exhausted.

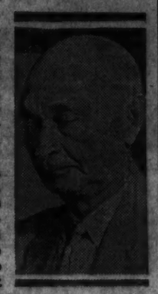
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Full publicity for all loans made by the Reconstruction Finance corporation was decreed today by South Trimble, clerk of the house of representatives, with whom the corporation is now required to file a monthly report.

The first of such monthly reports, containing details of loans made between July 21 and Aug. 1, will be thrown open to inspection next Monday, Aug. 22.



SOUTH TRIMBLE. [Acme Photo.]

Under the terms of the relief act, in which the publicity order is written, loans made under the original Reconstruction Finance corporation act as well as those under the more recent relief clauses, must be reported. The publicity order is not retroactive, however, and loans made prior to the President's approval of the relief bill on July 21 will not be affected.

Settles Quarrel of Weeks.

The decision of Mr. Trimble, a Democrat, who entered into office when the Democrats took over control of the house last December, closed an argument that has had the exponents and opponents of publicity quarreling for many weeks. The decision to make the loans public flies directly in the face of President Hoover's announced assumption, when he approved the relief bill, that the corporation's reports would be kept secret at least during the recess of congress.

It also constitutes a direct setting aside of the expressed wishes of the directors of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

During the debate on the relief bill, which broadened the powers of the corporation and increased its two billion dollar potential capitalization by an additional one billion 800 millions, senate leaders were inclined to side with the corporation's directors. Senator Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, was one of these.

The publicity clause in the bill was as follows:

"The Reconstruction Finance corporation shall submit monthly to the President and to the senate and the house of representatives [or the secretary of the senate and the clerk of the house of representatives, if these bodies are not in session] a report of its activities and expenditures under this section and under the Reconstruction Finance corporation act, together with a statement showing the names of the borrowers to whom loans and advances were made and the amount and rate of interest involved in each case."

Despite certain radical objections an understanding was reached that the secretary of the senate should be required to keep the reports secret during the summer recess. In the house, however, under the leadership of Speaker Garner, the sentiment of Democratic and radical congressmen distinctly favored publicity. No action binding the clerk of the house was taken.

Consults Lawyer Son.

In making his announcement today, Mr. Trimble declared he had consulted at length with officials and lawyers. Finding them about equally divided in opinion he had gone to a lawyer "in whose judgment and integrity he had every confidence." This lawyer, it was reported, was the clerk's son, South Trimble Jr.

"The statute specifically provides for the filing of monthly reports with the clerk of the house of representatives when congress is not in session," says Mr. Trimble's statement. "It does not appear, however, from a reading of the statute for what purpose the reports are filed.

"Throughout the consideration of this provision in the house of representatives there was common agreement in the debates that the purpose of requiring the monthly reports was publicity.

"No Other Purpose."

"The members that spoke against the adoption of the amendment stated they were opposed to the publication of the loans. No member expressed an opinion that the monthly reports were required for any purpose other than publication."

The statement cited speeches by members of congress favoring publicity.

Marjorie March, Actress, Will Wed Publisher

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 18.—(AP)—The engagement of Marjorie March, young English stage actress, and Walter Bibo, writer and magazine publisher, was announced here today by Miss March. They met last year in Berlin, where Miss March was appearing in a play, and Bibo, University of Pennsylvania graduate, was on vacation. She is the daughter of Capt. Sir Gerald Burton, V. C., killed in action in Flanders in 1917.

60 MUTES CHOP FIRE WOOD FOR RELIEF FIRES

Part of the made work program of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission is the wood chopping of sixty deaf mutes, who work in shifts of twenty a day at three locations in the city. The wood they cut up is being stored for use as fuel by needy families this winter. The wood choppers work at 63d street and Prairie avenue, 4501 Roosevelt road and 1835 North Damen avenue.

Members of the commission will inspect the work shop at the Chase park relief station, 4410 Ravenswood avenue at 11 a. m. today. Chairs, tables, benches, desks and cabinets used in relief stations throughout the city are made in that shop, by heads of families on relief lists. The same men do carpentry work at relief stations throughout the city.

The commission members will also inspect relief work at the Chase park, Wicker park, and Stanford park stations.

EMPLOYERS ACT TO CUT PRINTERS' PAY 15 PER CENT

Long Parleys with Job Shop Workers Fail.

After 20 months of futile negotiation for a revision of existing contracts with the Typographical union, closed shop book and job employers yesterday prepared to reduce the basic wage scale for printers arbitrarily from $1.29½ an hour to $1.10, or about 15 per cent.

If this plan, recommended by a general committee of union shop owners headed by Homer J. Buckley, gets the support of the employers of 75 per cent of the men affected it will be put into effect in 500 union shops on Sept. 1.

Plan Accepts 5 Day Week.

Through the Franklin association, 332 South Wells street, with which the union has its present contract, the employers have been asked to make known their individual stands not later than tonight. The official canvass, upon which the entire plan remains contingent, will be made on Tuesday by Sidney E. Stern, president of the association, and members of the committee. The plan would accept the five day week, six day operation to be optional, and make the night scale $1.20.

In normal times the closed shop book and job industry employs about 4,500 printers, according to Harry G. Cantrell, secretary of the Franklin association, Existing contracts, termed by employers untenable under the conditions, have two years yet to run.

"The present high wage scale is strangling an industry which in normal times has an annual pay roll of $20,000,000," Cantrell said.

Other Crafts Accept Cuts.

"The employers have been hesitant to take an arbitrary stand. We realize there is a contract and we have no wish to violate a contract, but this is a case of self-preservation. Unwilling to take unconsidered action, we have sought for 20 months to negotiate a revision. We have been strung along, although within the last year men in other crafts, pressmen, feeders, bookbinders, and paper cutters, have taken voluntary reductions averaging ten per cent.

"The immediate background for the committee's decision and recommendation was a meeting with President Howard of the International Typographical union on July 15. After five hours of discussion the employers' committee proposed to accept the five day week at $1.17 an hour. Although he did not approve the rate, he agreed to report to a special committee of the union and meet again with the employers. Repeated efforts to get in touch with him for a second meeting were unavailing."

START PUTTING PERSONALTY ON COUNTY TAX ROLL

Schedules to Be Estimated for 300,000.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The difficult task of putting personal property on the tax assessment roll of Cook county was started in earnest yesterday by County Assessor J. L. Jacobs. Up to this time the office has been devoting its time to persuading persons, corporations and partnerships to file tax schedules voluntarily; and to preparing the basis upon which to estimate the value of personal property for those who failed to file.

It was reported yesterday by Mr. Jacobs that 453,803 owners of personal property out of 813,329 to whom blank schedules have been sent have filed returns. So, it is up to Mr. Jacobs and his staff to make estimates for more than 300,000, if there is to be an assessment for every one who received a blank, as the assessor has repeatedly promised.

Many Schedules Too Low.

That is only part of the job. Many of those in business, according to H. G. Bollman, who is in direct charge of personal property valuations, have filed schedules which are unsatisfactorily low. This view was expressed after an inspection of personal property of several hundred who have filed schedules. This check has been made by Chief Deputy Assessor Harry S. Cutmore and by Mr. Bollman. This forecasts a reassessment of the property on many schedules.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Jacobs sent 20 deputies into the town of Lake to make a door to door appraisal of the personal property of stores and other business concerns. A large percentage of these places are reported to have submitted tax schedules previously, of which a large part are unsatisfactory to the assessor.

Corporation Returns Slow.

Less than 33 per cent of the 26,000 corporations, to which schedules were mailed, have returned sworn assessments. A large part of these are corporations of unusual size. It will require considerable knowledge to estimate the value of the personal property of such concerns.

One large establishment made a return of $900. Mr. Jacobs sent a dependable deputy to appraise the property. He returned with an estimate of $105,000.

"I know that the estimate of $105,000 is a most conservative figure," commented Assessor Jacobs. "One of my chief objectives is to get an equitable assessment, to be fair with every property owner. I cannot let one concern with $105,000 worth of personal property get away with a value of $900 and have another establishment of the same approximate value pay many times as much in taxes."

Must Mail Schedules.

Probably for the first time in the history of the county, owners of personal property were denied the privilege of handing in their schedules yesterday. The men employed at the counters were urgently needed, in the opinion of the assessor, for other services. A clerk was stationed outside of the closed doors and informed every one who arrived that the schedules will be received by mail, if signed and sworn to. Even that privilege will be shut off in ten days or two weeks. The books must be closed and the assessment made, and the owners have had a long period in which to present schedules.

The personal property books of the country towns—Schaumberg, Wheeling, Rich, Stickney, Elk Grove, Calumet, Riverside, Lemont, River Forest, and Hanover—were closed on Aug. 13. On Aug. 20 the books will be closed in the towns of Thornton, Palatine, Leyden, Oak Park, Maine, Bloom, Bremen, Barrington, Norwood, and Orland. In the remaining country towns the books will be closed Aug. 27.

Chicago Closing Dates.

Within the city the towns of Lake and West will be closed Sept. 3; Hyde Park on Sept. 10; Jefferson and Lake View on Sept. 17, and Rogers Park, North and South on Sept. 24.

It is now planned to have the personal property assessments for the first group of country towns in the hands of the board of revision on Sept. 1, the second group a week later, and so on. In this way both the assessor and the board of revision will be working concurrently, beginning Sept. 1, and continue until the 1931 assessment has been completed and approved.

DELAY EXECUTION OF BONHAM ON INSANITY PLEA

Howard C. Bonham, 30 years old, was granted a stay of execution until Aug. 26 yesterday by Acting Chief Justice James J. Kelly of the Criminal court. Bonham was to have been electrocuted one hour after midnight last night for the murder of Paul H. Tulupan, manager of the Claridge hotel grill, in a robbery Dec. 13, 1930.

Defense Attorneys Harold Levy and Joseph R. Roach obtained the stay on a petition alleging that Bonham has become insane since pronouncement of sentence. Judge Kelly set the insanity hearing for Aug. 24 and alienists will be selected at a conference of defense and prosecution attorneys today.

Prosecutor Walker Butler and Thomas Johnson Jr. demanded an immediate sanity hearing, but only 11 men were available for jury duty and Judge Kelly directed that a venire of 50 men be called for Aug. 24. If Bonham should be found insane he would be sent to the prison for the criminally insane at Chester. The stay yesterday marked the sixth time that Bonham has escaped execution since the original execution date was set for Oct. 23, 1931.

FALSE TEETH
Can Not Embarrass

Most wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their teeth dropped or slipped at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little Fasteeth on your plate. Makes false teeth stay in place and feel comfortable. Sweetens breath. Get Fasteeth at Walgreen's or any other good drug store. KILLED IN PLANE

RAY BONKAMP.

Ray Bonkamp, 17 years old, 5128 West 25th place, Cicero, a student at the Sterling Morton High school, was burned to death yesterday when a plane crashed in taking off at the Pontiac airport.

Bonkamp's companions, Lawrence Pouci, 17 years old, 53d street and 25th place, Cicero, a classmate, and Everett V. Stivers, 31 years old, 2326 South East avenue, Berwyn, instructor of aviation at the suburban high school, were severely burned.

Stivers owned the plane. He had taken off from the Municipal airport in the morning with the youths, who had attended his class during the school year. As they took off from the Pontiac airport the plane, believed to have been piloted by one of the youths, fell about 30 feet and burst into flames. Pouci and Stivers were taken to St. James hospital in Pontiac.

WOMEN URGE NEW BEACH TO RELIEVE OAK ST.

Bathhouse Project Is Called Hopeless.

Improvement of the shore line between North and Fullerton avenues to attract crowds of bathers from the Oak street territory, where riparian rights prevent the erection of bath houses, was urged yesterday by Mrs. Jennie L. Purvin, chairman of the committee on bathing beaches for the Woman's City club.

Proponents of facilities on the Oak street beach have been blocked by the agreement entered into by Lake Shore drive property owners when the park obtained control of the property. Only trees, shrubbery, walks, and bridle paths can be installed in the area.

Calls Oak Street Hopeless.

"It is foolish and a waste of time to ask the Lincoln park commissioners to make any improvements on Oak street beach," said Mrs. Purvin. "We found out 15 years ago that it could not and never can be done. The women's clubs have explored every possible angle of relief."

The present park board placed eight jetties between North and Fullerton avenues two years ago and sand has been accumulating at this point. Mrs. Purvin suggested that sand suckers should be sent there to hurry the formation of the beach. "This is in park domain," she explained, "and the commissioners can legally erect structures there."

Board Silent on Beach.

The Lincoln park commissioners held a meeting yesterday afternoon, but the Oak street beach question was not discussed. John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, asked the board to revoke its ordinance prohibiting peddlers from operating in the park system and the plea was taken under advisement.

The request of the Garibaldi society that the statue of Garibaldi, now partially hidden by shrubbery east of the sidewalk in the 1900 block on Clark street, be moved to a more accessible place in the park, also was taken under advisement.

ATTACKS FATHER; FOUND INSANE.

Bieno Di Vita, 22 years old, 3751 School street, who inflicted serious wounds on his father, Peter, whom he attacked with a knife and chair on Aug. 2, was committed yesterday to the Chicago State Hospital for the Insane by Judge Charles T. Allen in the Psychopathic court.

TOBIN, ON TOUR, FINDS CHILDREN FEEDING FAMILIES

Supporting their parents and six or seven brothers and sisters during the depression is just another vacation time contest for Donald McEathron, 15 years old, of Worth, and Walter and Edward Slowinski, 11 year old twins who live near Oaklawn.

The three are pupils in rural schools of Cook county. Yesterday Edward J. Tobin, county superintendent, with Catherine McClaughry and Nellie G. McMahon, directors of education, went on a tour of villages and farms skirting Chicago, to inspect the home-school vacation projects sponsored by Mr. Tobin's office. They found a number of pupils operating paying business ventures in conjunction with the contest created to encourage boys and girls to make profitable use of their spare time. The contest closes in October.

Earns While Dad Is Idle.

"I've earned $1,200 in the last four years with my paper route," Donald informed his callers, as he munched a red ripe plum. "Then there's the $300 I earned caddying at Walnut Hills. I've turned this over to my mother because my father, who builds bridges, was without a job for two years until just recently. I'm the oldest of the seven of us, and what I earn helps a lot."

It isn't all work and no play for Donald, who is so proficient at golf that he came out second—$3—in the annual caddy tournament at Walnut Hills course last year. His brother, Lowel, 13, went home with the cup, but this year Donald expects to win it. "I'm going to a professional when I grow up," he added proudly.

When the Slowinski cow gave birth to twin calves last January, the Slowinski twins promptly claimed them and named them Suzanne and Rose. Now Edward and Walter are in the cow raising business. But in the meantime they keep the family purse supplied with several dollars weekly through the sale of chickens, eggs, and ducks.

While Mrs. Slowinski explained that her husband, Joseph, has owned their acre home for 9 years, and has been out of work for two years, and that the services of a marble cutter aren't much in demand right now, Walter ran into the house for his egg chart and account book.

Bills Race Egg Money.

"We've sold 3,142 eggs since January," explained the boy with enthusiasm. "And $17.45 worth of ducks and $3.75 worth of chickens. But we had to spend $7.45 for clothes, that was for the children, and $10 we paid the undertaker, for my little brother who died. We take care of our calves and feed the pigs. There are ten little ones and two big ones. They'll bring a lot when they grow up. Then we help with the garden, too."

A few miles away, not so far from Archer and Cicero avenues, Supt. Tobin found a pair of farmerettes pulling onions. They were Gertrude Scholtens, 15 years old, and her sister, Henrietta, 13, students at Stickney school. They expect to earn $180 from their half acre onion project and what they don't use for clothing this fall they expect to bank.

"Sure, I'm going to bank my money," asserted Gertrude. "I'm not afraid of banks. Ours has only had one run."

Set Plants with Fingers.

The two girls spent $2.50 for a pound of onion seed which they started in a hot bed. They poked the plants in their garden with their fingers and while they were waiting for the onions to grow they paid "rent" by weeding lettuce in their father's truck farm. They expect to get 300 bushels from the half acre. Last year they raised parsley, the year before onions, and the year before that spinach.

Mr. Tobin pointed out that scholarship and achievement should dovetail together.

"It is the duty of the public school to guide its pupils intellectually, physically, and morally, even in summer. Vacation school-home projects were started three years ago to provide occupations and education from every point of view. We must have financial initiative to get into the habit of earning money and learning its value."

CRANE MAY CLOSE UNLESS FEES ARE PAID, SAYS BOGAN

Possibility that Crane college may be abandoned if tuition is not charged there this year was expressed yesterday by William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools. Board of education trustees are considering tuition for both the Crane and Normal colleges as an economy measure.

"It is humiliating for me to suggest tuition at Crane," said Mr. Bogan, "after pleading for free schools all my life. I should rather see a tuition fee charged, however, than to have it closed."

The superintendent's proposal was incorporated in a report several weeks ago of the school board's subcommittee on economies, headed by Trustee H. Wallace Caldwell. A tuition charge at the two colleges would result in a saving of $127,500 at Crane and $37,500 at Normal, according to the report.

Organized opposition to the plan has developed among Crane students, who have asked civic organizations to intercede with the board of education in their behalf.

MANITOBA PUTS RESTRICTIONS ON HIGHWAY SIGNS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 18.—The Manitoba government has authorized a series of strict regulations against indiscriminate erection of billboards and advertising signs. Hereafter no signs or billboards may be erected on the public highways, or within a quarter of a mile of them, without written permission from the minister of public works and from the owner of the property.

Signs erected in contravention of regulations may be removed by the government if the owner does not take them down within 30 days after receiving notice from the department.

Billboards running parallel to the highway are not to exceed 50 feet in length and 15 feet in height, measured from the bottom. Signs may not be erected closer than 200 feet to the center of the highway if they are 25 feet or less in length, or closer than 250 feet if more than 25 feet. A permit fee of $5 is to be charged for each sign 25 feet or less in length or $10 if more than 25 feet.

FAIR RENTALS
- - - but no "concession tax"

THAT IS WHAT WE AIM TO ACCOMPLISH FOR CHICAGO'S GREAT RENTING PUBLIC

We believe that the "Concession Tax" is an evil as much as is any other excessive tax—all the more so since it reaches directly into the pockets of the renters.

Certainly every thinking man and woman KNOWS that so-called rent "concessions" are offered only after the rent has been sufficiently marked up to take care of such "concessions."

We further believe it is common knowledge that whether a tenant pays his rent on a straight 12 month basis, or, on an 11 period basis at a higher figure, his total rent is exactly the same.

This being true, then on the 11 period basis, the tenant is virtually being "taxed" on each and every one of the eleven periods. This wholly wrong practice has been rightly called the "Concession Tax."

Consequently, believing that this "Concession Tax" places a hardship on the great majority of renters, we propose to use every influence at our command, to stamp out this "Concession Tax" evil. In its stead we aim to bring forth Fair Rental Values—without the "Concession Tax."

MINERS MASS AT TAYLORVILLE FOR PICKET DUTY

Troops Are Ready Should Trouble Flare.

Barricades Are Removed.

Until dawn it appeared that Taylorville citizens would repel the invasion of strikers, which was announced at Springfield Tuesday, but when the Tovey miners wavered and it was made plain that they would not return to work, Taylorville gave up and barricades were removed from the main highways. Armed guards who had questioned every person seeking entrance to the district were withdrawn and no one bothered the strikers as they descended upon the coal fields.

Stuyvesant Peabody of Chicago, president of the Peabody Coal company, conferred with his local officers here today. To reporters he expressed his appreciation to the community for its "gallant stand" behind the company which is trying to keep the mines in operation.

Says Mines Will Be Open.

The mines will be opened tomorrow morning, W. C. Argust, general manager of the company, said tonight.

"But I don't anticipate that the miners will go down in the pits," he said. "Not with all this company coming to see them. But we'll open it there is help. When the mines closed tonight the whistles were blown three times—the signal that work would go on tomorrow."

The mines have meant millions of dollars to the community of Taylorville, and while all the miners were working the town was determined that their right to work should be safeguarded. Sheriff Charles Weineke of Christian county deputized hundreds of citizens to act as possemen if trouble resulted, but these men were demobilized today.

No guns were in evidence when the cavalcade streamed into Kincaid.

One of the first acts of the crowd was to appoint a publicity committee, which issued a statement explaining that the mission was to persuade the Peabody miners that they should quit work as a further protest against the dropping of the old $6.10 scale, which the mine operators insist is impossible to continue. There is to be no attempt to organize a new union, said the committee. All the strikers are members of the United Mine Workers of America and they are protesting against the $5 scale, "which was twice voted down."

Well Supplied with Food.

The strikers are well supplied with food for the next two days, said the statement, and arrangements have been made for additional provisions when these are exhausted. The statement was signed by Paul Holmes and Phil Hopley of Witt and Jack Swarbrick, Jack Jackine, and James Goodwin of Nokomis.

The "zero hour" in the current incident is expected at 7 a. m. tomorrow when the diggers at Kincaid, Langley, and at Mine 58 in Taylorville are scheduled to go down in the pits. The strikers seem confident that there will be no work tomorrow.

"These boys still working," said one striker, a miner from Chatham, "were just waiting until we got here. Why, look at the figures. Yesterday there were 500 men working here at Kincaid; today there are only 71. Tovey had 868 yesterday and it's closed down tight today. Langley and Taylorville are working, but they only want an excuse to quit."

Cars Unite at Pana.

Mass movement upon this area began early this morning from the regions south of Taylorville. The cars came in small groups and united at Pana. At Springfield a crowd estimated at 7,000 gathered in Reservoir park at noon and without announcement, the men who didn't have their own cars were assigned to trucks and the procession began. In a front car rode Dan McGill, official of a Springfield local, who appeared to be the leader.

The southern Illinois group filed through Taylorville and out on route 24 to the junction with the road leading to Kincaid. The men got out to stretch their legs and peered down the road toward Springfield. They had waited only a few minutes when the first of the Springfield cars hove in sight over a hilltop, a large American flag flying from a front fender. The waiting column cheered and waved welcomes. The Springfield group turned down the road to Kincaid and the others filed in behind.

At intervals along the road were groups of state highway police, but they did not interfere with the strikers.

Fulton County Miners Quit.

Canton, Ill., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—With one exception strip miners in Fulton county who have been working steadily quit work today when more than 400 protest strikers marched in a body to the mines to request such action.

One Group Votes to Work.

Duquoin, Ill., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—The mining situation in Duquoin today was quiet and the anticipated invasion of picketing miners from neighboring towns did not materialize. Scores of special deputy sheriffs under Sheriff A. C. Davis, state highway patrolmen, and Duquoin police patrolled every highway leading into Duquoin.

At a meeting of the Majestic mine local union last night it was voted to refuse to work today. As a result that mine, employing 600 men and owned by Peabody interests of Chicago, did not operate.

Other miners who have accepted the new scale met today and declared their intention of returning to work tomorrow.

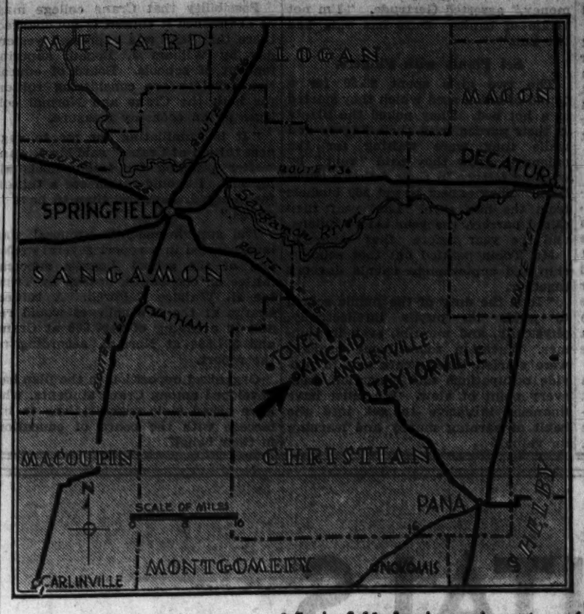
Hundred Men Quit Pits.

Galesburg, Ill., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Three nonunion mines at Knoxville, employing about 100 men, were closed today when striking union miners from the East Galesburg shafts picketed the grounds.

Mine Boss Is Beaten.

Harrisburg, Ill., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Henry Boner, top boss at Ogara mine No. 3 of the Ogara Coal company was beaten by three men at the mine today. Boner said he was inspecting ventilating machinery supplying fresh air to 200 men working in the mine when he saw the men loitering about the fan. When he asked them their mission one of the men grabbed him and attempted to stab him. The others attacked him with their fists. Boner's watch was scarred by the knife thrusts, saving him from serious injury.

Where Miners Are on the March



Map of section of state around Springfield showing main centers of interest in mine dispute. The miners are encamped at Kincaid after march from Springfield and many other points in southern part of state. National Guard units have been ordered to proceed to Springfield and Decatur. The Peabody mines which face picketing are close to Taylorville.

ILLINOIS OPERATORS SAY 25,000 MINERS ARE BACK AT WORK

The Illinois Coal Operators association yesterday reported 25,000 miners, more than half the peak number employed in coal mines, were back at work under the new $5 a day basis. This was pronounced an increase of 40 per cent since Wednesday.

Officials of the association expressed themselves as "more than gratified with the situation." They said orders for Illinois coal were coming and that the number of companies in operation would be increased in the next few days.

Seventeen major companies were reported hoisting coal or clearing up in preparation for production in more than forty mines. Among the larger companies the report listed the following:

Brewerton Coal company, Lincoln: Men at work cleaning up.
Centralia Coal company, Centralia: Full force of men.
C. W. & F. Coal company, West Frankfort: Full force of men at mines No. 1 and 2.
Freeman: Cleaning up mine No. 5 for work Monday.
Old Ben Coal corporation, Ezra: Full force of men at mine No. 15.
Peabody Coal company, Taylorville: Full force of men at mines Nos. 7, 8, 9 and 58.
Danville: Full force at mine No. 24.
Du Quoin: Full force at mines Nos. 14 and 15.
West Frankfort: Full force at mines Nos. 18 and 19.
U. S. Fuel company, Georgetown: Full force at work.

A number of smaller mines were also reported at work or making preparations.

Constable Free on Bond in Union Miner Killing

Benton, Ill., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Constable James Sutton was released under $10,000 bond today for the slaying yesterday of Joe Colbert, secretary of the local union at Orient No. 1 mine, where Sutton was night watchman. The coroner's jury recommended Sutton be held for action of the grand jury.

Sutton testified he shot in self-defense after Colbert had put his hand in a pocket as if to draw a weapon.

Mike McClatchey of West Frankfort testified he saw a knife lying near Colbert shortly after he was shot.

Sutton testified he had had trouble with Colbert the last thirteen years and Colbert had threatened him many times. He asserted Colbert shook a shotgun at him a few days ago.

RAIL EXECUTIVES CONFER AGAIN ON A NEW WAGE CUT

Report 20% Reduction Will Be Asked.

Executives of twenty class 1 railroads, serving all parts of the United States, held a conference at a downtown club yesterday for further discussion of the question of another wage cut for union employes. This proposal was first broached at a meeting of eastern railroad presidents in New York last week.

Following the conference a statement was issued by Samuel H. Schneider, secretary of the General Managers Association of Chicago. The statement was as follows:

"A meeting of representatives in the eastern, western, and southeastern territories was held to discuss the economic condition of the railroads, including the question of wage rates. A preliminary discussion was held and the matters are to be further considered at another meeting to be called later."

Refuse Further Comment.

The conferees, who included vice presidents, general managers, or personal directors of the larger systems, declined to comment on a New York report that the railroad managements would move for a 20 to 25 per cent wage cut under the arbitration procedure provided in the railroad labor act of 1926.

According to the New York report notification of such a cut would be served on the twenty-one railway unions about Sept. 1.

"The whole situation is still up in the air and nothing has been decided," was the only comment by Chicago executives.

Should the rumor prove correct the managements, in renewing contract with the unions on the wage question, would be departing from the procedure followed at the negotiations here last January.

Believe N. Y. Report Correct.

Opinion in informed quarters here was that the New York report was correct, but misleading. The managements, it was said, will ask a 20 or 25 per cent cut but with little or no expectation of getting it.

One commentator explained the situation thus:

"In the negotiations last winter the managements knew they had a good case for a wage reduction, hence they were able to lay their cards on the table and deal directly with the union chiefs. The union chiefs saw the justice of the case and accepted a cut for one year.

"The situation now is different. The managements are convinced that a renewal of the lower scale is essential after its expiration next Feb. 1. They also hold that an additional 5 per cent cut is desirable.

"But the rank and file of the union men feel less conciliatory now than they did last winter. Continued retrenchment by the management has resulted in layoffs for the men. Moreover, negotiations for the eastern consolidation are going forward over the opposition of the unions and the consolidation, when consummated, will cost thousands their jobs.

May Seek Arbitration.

"The managements feel that direct negotiations across the table can no longer be followed successfully. They plan, therefore, to resort to arbitration and, as a plaintiff would do in a heart balm suit, are preparing to ask for more than they expect to get."

The time and place of the next conference of executives has not been set, according to Mr. Schneider. When the executives have threshed out the question of wage cuts and other economies, the whole subject will be tossed back to the presidents before final action will be taken, it was said.

American and Three Others Killed in Cuban Roof Crash

IDENTIFY BODIES OF TWO YOUTHS IN MYSTERY FIRE

Victims Killed in Cottage of Family Friends.

The bodies of two youths burned to death in an explosion and fire early yesterday at 2118 North Meade avenue were identified later at the county morgue as Samuel Tarpian, 20 years old, 2545 North Mansfield avenue, and Frank Madaro, 19, 2270 North Mansfield avenue. The identifications were made by the father of Tarpian, Michael, who could not explain the presence of his son in the frame cottage.

John Krikarian, 40 years old; his wife, Helen, and their son, John, 18, the tenants of the house, left last Saturday for a vacation trip in Canada. Tarpian, who was friendly with the Krikarians, said that his son also was an acquaintance of the family, but had made no arrangements to care for the home in their absence.

The valve of the gas burner under the coffee pot was open and police expressed the belief that the fire was extinguished by boiling coffee. The explosion, according to this theory, was caused when one of the youths lit a cigaret after the gas flame had gone out, police said. Neighbors told police that they had seen no one enter the cottage and said that the shades were drawn Wednesday night before the explosion.

Two men were recovering yesterday in the county hospital from injuries and burns suffered in an explosion in a garage at 1804 Grand avenue which caused the death of Jack Sullivan, 5 years old, 1843 West Grand avenue. The injured are Harold Pearson, 38 years old, 1818 West Grand avenue, and Bernard Clogan, 25 years old, 1775 West Grand avenue, the owners of the garage.

OWNERS DEMAND GRAND JURY ACT IN CLEANERS' ROW

Independent Operators Tell of Union Threats.

A grand jury investigation into the cleaners and dyers' war, which broke out again Wednesday night with the bombing of three independent, non-union shops, was demanded of State's Attorney Swanson yesterday by the Blue Bird Cleaners, 1032 North California avenue, one of the bombed places, and other independent operators.

Attorney Martin S. Gordon, counsel for the Blue Bird cleaners, said that his clients had been threatened by James A. Gorman, president of the Retail Cleaners and Dyers' union, local No. 17,742; A. Goldstein, secretary of the union; Aaron Maltz, south side business agent, and Al Boris, another business agent.

Confer with Swanson.

Mr. Gordon made his request for the grand jury investigation at a conference with the state's attorney, in which Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker, officials of the Michigan Cleaners and Dyers, two of whose retail shops were bombed Wednesday night, and Assistant State's Attorney Edwin C. Dufficy participated.

The matter was referred to Mr. Dufficy of the racket bureau, who said no grand jury was in session now, but that one would be available next week. If he can obtain "worth while information" from questioning the operators of the bombed shops he will take it to the grand jury, he said.

Attorney Gordon told the prosecutors that his clients, who handle work for small tailor shops, and other independent operators, have no masters' organization, such as the Cleaners and Dyers institute, headed by Dr. B. M. Squires. He said they frequently gather at various places for social and business purposes. Gorman came to one of these meetings and told the men that they would be "covered with dirt" if they didn't become union shops, the attorney said.

Free Business Agent.

Meanwhile, it was learned that Maltz was arrested and questioned by police on Wednesday, but released a few hours before the bombings occurred. George Kassivas and Thomas Tsokos, owners of a shop at 7460 Vincenes avenue, complained to Prosecutor Dufficy that Maltz suggested to them that there would be trouble if they continued to send their business to the Michigan Cleaners and Dyers, located at 1339 West 63d street. They said they were told to patronize the New Drexel Cleaners and Dyers, 4722 Cottage Grove avenue, a union shop.

Murray Humphries, a Capone gangster, is part owner of the New Drexel Cleaners. He admitted this to Chief Schoemaker last December and it was confirmed yesterday by Joseph Singer, manager of the shop.

Singer said he did not know whether the company is still a member of the Cleaners and Dyers' institute. Humphries told Schoemaker in December that his partner, Abe Oslan, was a member. Oslan could not be reached yesterday and Dr. Squires, head of the institute and arbiter for disputes between the operators and the union, was playing golf. Gorman, the union president, was out of town.

"He is always out of town when there is a bombing," said Prosecutor Dufficy. Both Gorman and Boris, the business agent, were arrested near the Michigan cleaning plant in March, 1931, after three armed guards employed by the plant had been slugged.

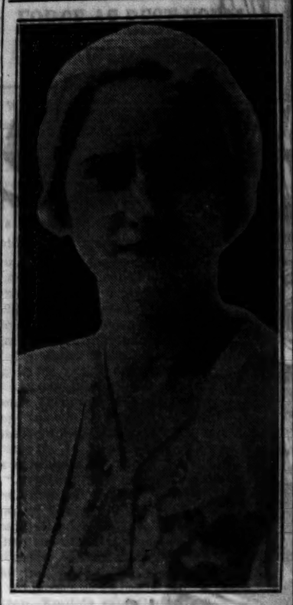
The Michigan plant and its subsidiary, Checker Cleaners, Inc., have been the object of many acts of violence. The Checker company operates 20 retail establishments owned by the Michigan concern. Two of the places bombed Wednesday night were the Checker shop at 2746 North Clark street and that at 3202 West 22d street. Both the parent concern and its retail branches are supposedly protected from violence of any kind by an injunction granted by Judge Philip L. Sullivan. The Blue Bird concern also was granted an injunction by Judge William J. Lindsey.

Compares Cleaning Prices.

Louis Holman, president of the Checker cleaners, disputed the police theory that price cutting was responsible for the bombing outrages. He pointed out that during the early part of the year his shops were charging 98 cents for cleaning and pressing, while some union shops were charging 73 cents. Now, he said, the Checker price is 79 cents, while some union shops are charging only 33 cents.

All the 107 members of the Cleaners and Dyers' institute are union operators and their price is 98 cents, but Mr. Dufficy was told by some of the independents that the unions themselves open shops in their territories and cut prices to a losing figure in an effort to force out the independents.

CALLED TO COURT



Mrs. Ruby Firth Spencer, wife of Harvey Spencer, who is accused of luring girls to pose for nude pictures. She has been subpoenaed to court when case comes up again Monday.

WIFE IS ORDERED TO TESTIFY IN NUDE PHOTO CASE

Mrs. Spencer to Face 'Other Woman.'

A subpoena for Mrs. Ruby Firth Spencer, 28 years old, manager of a beauty shop at 2509 Devon avenue, was issued yesterday by Judge James F. Fardy. She is the wife of Harvey Raymond Spencer, 31 years old, who induced girls to pose before him in the nude on promise of jobs.

Spencer and Constance Selbach, with whom he lived at 5510 Harper avenue, and who, police say, posed as his "secretary" in the nude photograph racket, will appear before Judge Fardy in the Jury court Monday on a statutory charge. Spencer also is charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor and having obscene photographs.

Wife Unwilling to Talk.

The subpoena was obtained by Detective Leo Anderson of the Scotland Yard detail after Mrs. Spencer refused to answer questions or to appear voluntarily in court. Sergt. Michael P. Naughton located her the previous day, when she told him she would appear for questioning the following morning. When a squad car called for her, however, she refused to go, saying a lawyer had advised her not to, and that she would not be forced to testify against her husband.

The subpoena was obtained to make her testify against Miss Selbach, Sergt. Naughton said.

Stanley Richards, 27 years old, 2021 West Huron street, arrested recently for showing indecent pictures to two 12 year old girls on the Oak street beach, appeared before Judge Fardy yesterday. When he asked for a jury trial two weeks ago another judge was sitting in the Jury court. It was with considerable surprise that Richards found himself before Judge Fardy.

Prisoner on Probation.

Judge Fardy recognized Richards and recalled that he had placed him on probation several months ago on similar charges when Eugene D. Sullivan, Republican committeeman of the Thirty-second ward, intervened on the grounds that Richards was married and that it was his first offense.

He refused Richards' plea to reduce his bond, raised from $6,000 to $10,000 by Judge Joseph A. Graber when a jury trial was demanded. A continuance to Aug. 22 was granted, however, to enable him to get an attorney. Meanwhile he was ordered sent to Dr. D. R. Rottman, head of the Municipal court psychopathic department, for examination.

Four men, three of them middle aged, the youngest 34 years old, were fined $200 each and costs on charges of annoying children in Lincoln park and vicinity when they appeared before Judge John A. Sbarbaro in the Chicago avenue court yesterday. They were taken to the Bridewell when they could not pay the fines. The men were:

Four Fined $200 Each.

Tom Mongoso, 43 years old, 970 Concord street; Leo Farino, 52 years old, 1425 Mohawk street; James Kasemo, 34 years old, 9 West Harrison street, and Steve Mikijelj, 59 years old, 2 West Ohio street. Mongoso, Farino and Kasemo were arrested by Lincoln park police, who testified they had annoyed children at an orphans' picnic in the park Wednesday. Mikijelj, it was testified, sought to force a 12 year old girl into the bushes near Oak street beach.

New Commandant Will Reach Great Lakes Sept. 2

Word was received yesterday at Great Lakes Naval Training station that Rear Admiral Watt T. Cluverius, newly appointed commandant of the station, will arrive Sept. 2 to take up his new duties. Rear Admiral Cluverius will be accompanied by his wife, who is the daughter of the late Admiral W. T. Sampson, commander of the American fleet in the Spanish-American war. Capt. Halsey Powell is now acting commandant of the station.

TOMORROW NIGHT AT 7:30—

THE SPIRIT OF MUSIC WILL LEAD MORE THAN 100,000 PEOPLE TO SOLDIERS' FIELD

To See and Hear
America's Greatest Music Festival—
Three Crowded Hours of Thrilling Music and Spectacular Entertainment!

Tomorrow night the huge Soldiers' Field stadium again will resound with the voices of the people of Chicagoland harmonized in song as they gather for the annual Chicagoland Music Festival.

More than 100,000 attended in 1930. Last year another capacity audience heard great music, saw a grand spectacle, and joined in making an even greater festival than the year before.

DON'T MISS IT THIS YEAR!

Experience the rare thrill of singing the old favorites with more than 100,000 people . . . try to keep your feet still as the massed bands of 2,000 musicians strike up your favorite march . . . hear the dramatic presentation of the famous "1812" overture with giant bells and cannon augmenting the Festival Concert Band of 100 . . . hear Negro Spirituals sung by more than a thousand voices . . . hear the "Soldiers' Chorus" from "Faust" by a male chorus of 300 . . . the "Hallelujah Chorus" as you've never heard it before . . . the mighty song battle between two male choruses . . . see the fascinating Grecian dance pageant by six hundred girls . . . and don't forget the spectacular fireworks display with many novelty pieces.

Be there tomorrow night at 7:30 p. m. and enjoy it all! Get your tickets early and be there when the bands start playing! Gates for the Festival performance will open at 5:30 p. m.

ALL SEATS 25c

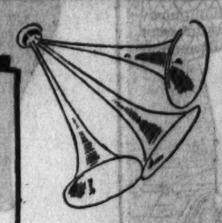
SEE AND HEAR

Music by 35 Massed Bands
Dramatic Presentation of the "1812" Overture
Faust "Soldiers' Chorus" by male chorus
Negro Spirituals by 1,000 Voices
Mighty Song Battle Between Two Huge Choruses
The Hallelujah Chorus
Community Singing by Audience of 100,000
Grecian Dance Pageant by 600 Girls
Spectacular Fireworks Display

Get Your Tickets Now!

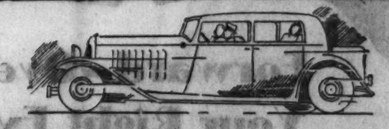
You can get tickets at the Chicago Tribune Advertising and Public Service Offices: 1 South Dearborn and Tribune Tower lobby.

In addition, there will be fifty ticket booths around the entrances to Soldiers' Field to take care of ticket buyers beginning at noon tomorrow. Gates for the Festival performance will open at 5:30 p. m.



Why You Will Be Able to Hear Every Note

Sound engineers during recent months have perfected an amplifying system using 700 watts of power. The Tribune has installed this new system. A battery of microphones will pick up every note and drum beat, every word of every song, which will be brought to you through huge amplifiers placed so that every person in the Stadium will be able to enjoy the entire performance. Every seat at Soldiers' Field will be a "front row" seat!



It Will Be Easy to Get To and From the Field!

People who attended last year's Music Festival—and there were more than 100,000 of them—will remember the complete absence of any kind of traffic congestion before or after the performance. The high efficiency on the part of all police departments who co-operated kept traffic moving swiftly at all times.

SWANKY GARAGE KEEPS SENATORS OUT OF WEATHER

But It Costs the Taxpayer $100,000 or More.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—An exclusive and expensive new underground garage, just completed on the capitol grounds, is one more reason to make a senator glad the taxpayers back home sent him down here to Washington.

This new building, a block long, cost well over $100,000 to construct and will cost a tidy sum to maintain. It is the last word in luxury for a senatorial motor car and the last word in comfort for the statesman who doesn't want to get his feet wet in sloppy weather.

Through Burnished Doors.

Here's the way it works:

The senator who doesn't have a chauffeur to drive him in style to the sheltered "turn-around" from which he may step, protected from the dust and dirt of Washington democracy, into the shelter of the senate office building, drives his own motor to the corner of New Jersey avenue and C street, coasts gently down a small incline and finds himself in front of massive aluminum doors. An attendant touches his cap, murmurs "Good morning, senator," and the aluminum doors swing up.

The senator drives into a room a block long and about half a block wide. Its roof is the bottom of a grassy terrace up on the street level. The columns supporting the roof are painted cool green and delicate gray. A costly ventilating system swishes fresh air through the spacious aisles.

No Dust Can Touch Them.

The senator drives down one of these aisles until he comes to his own particular parking space. A placard above the space bearing his name gives the personal touch to the picture. His car parked, he proceeds down the aisle to the opposite side of the mammoth garage, walks into a long corridor made festive with modernistic disks of chromium for light fixtures.

No matter what the weather outside, no sun or snow or dust or dirt has touched him since he left his own home, remember. This protection still continues as he walks through the corridor beneath the street over to the basement of the senate office building. Here he finds himself confronted by two bells. If he pushes one with three senatorial punches, an elevator comes scurrying to carry him to the floor he wishes in the office building. If he taps the other bell, also three times, he calls the little subway car which rushes him to the capitol.

It is all very elegant.

House Wants One, Too.

So elegant, in fact, that the 435 members of the house of representatives, over at the other end of the capitol, thought they ought to have the refinement of an underground garage connected with their new office building. Tentative plans were under way last year. Then the economy move started. Several representatives, notably Representative Stafford [Rep., Wis.] and Representative Treadway [Rep., Mass.], made such a fuss about the extravagance that the plans were abruptly dropped for the time being.

The authorities have made a gesture of compromise, however, to the disgruntled house members. Ninety-six of the 273 places are allotted the 96 senators. A number of others go to the various capitol officials and to the senate trucks. And the 96 oldest representatives [in point of service in the house] are rewarded with places in the garage "for senators only."

Cost a Mere $100,000.

Questioned specifically about the cost of the garage, the architect's office explained that "it really wasn't much of a job, just hollowing out the ground above." The money for it came out of the $772,000 congressional appropriation for the "terrace, fountain and garage" which in turn was a part of the $1,722,500 appropriation for the "enlargement of the capitol grounds."

"Over $100,000" is the nearest approximation to the cost of the garage.

MINISTER QUITS HIS CITY HALL WEDDING WORK

After promising to refrain from seeking business in the corridors of the city hall, the Rev. Wesley Sledge, 58 years old, of 310 East Fifty-fifth street, a Negro minister, was freed from a disorderly conduct charge yesterday. The minister was arrested for loitering in the halls to catch couples coming out of the marriage license bureau. City Prosecutor T. J. Reinert told Judge Frank M. Padden in the license court that the Rev. Sledge had made his promise to Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court. This was concurred in by the Rev. Sledge's attorney, and Judge Padden entered a nonsuit.

FOULOIS URGES AIR FORCE AS BEST FORM OF WAR SECURITY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, chief of the army air corps, today urged the maintenance of a strong air force as the best national security against attack. He spoke before the National Aeronautical association, now holding its eleventh annual convention. The major general asserted that under existing conditions the air arm constitutes the first line of defense.

The Foulois plea for a greater air force was backed up by Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.], president of the association. The Connecticut legislator urged creation of a reserve of 100,000 pilots trained in the rudiments of flying. He also called attention to the necessity of developing speedy military planes if the United States is to be as well prepared as its neighbors.

"Aviation is unquestionably the first line of defense," Gen. Foulois said. "The army air corps must be prepared, trained, and equipped to take the field immediately on the outbreak of any trouble. We cannot wait for an emergency and then begin to prepare."

Gen. Foulois said that the five year program adopted in 1926 lacked more than two years of completion, while the speed of military planes had been increased to 200 miles an hour.

"We are not looking for trouble," Senator Bingham said. "We do not want war with anybody, but we believe the best way to avoid war is to be well prepared, and no nation can be said to be well prepared whose airplanes are not as fast as those of her neighbors."

Senator Bingham said his program for an unorganized army reserve of 100,000 pilots would stimulate the entire aviation industry and would not only build up the national defense but also would provide manufacturing plants capable of turning out airplanes, motors, and equipment without delay in case of emergency.

STOP BOYCOTTING US! JAPS WARN CITY OF SHANGHAI

Mayor Receives Sharp Protest.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 18.—(AP)—The controversy partly responsible for the destructive Sino-Japanese conflict of last winter has bobbed up again to disturb the peace of the Far East.

Consul General Kurmatsu Mural of Japan today submitted to Mayor Wu Teh-Chen of Greater Shanghai a sharp protest against what he termed the revival of the anti-Japanese boycott by Chinese terrorist oganizations.

Consul General Mural, himself wounded by a bomb in the hands of a crazed Korean in March, charged that chambers of commerce in many Chinese cities were backing up these "lawless elements" with the intention of stifling Japanese trade.

Criticizes Chinese Papers.

Unless Chinese authorities suppress the agitators, he warned, the situation "is likely again to assume a grave aspect."

Suppression of the anti-Japanese boycott was one of our four demands the Japanese naval commander made last January in an ultimatum which finally resulted in the destruction of Chapei and Woosung, with the loss of thousands of lives and millions of dollars in property. The anti-Japanese boycott has continued in sporadic fashion since the cessatin of hostilities.

Assassin Plot Leader Indicted.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Aug. 19 [Friday].—Dr. Yoshio Imamaki was indicted today for conspiring to assassinate Premier Admiral Makoto Saito and other cabinet members. Sueichi Obayashi, district head of the Jimmukai nationalist organization, was indicted with him. Three youths who were arrested with Imamaki will also be indicted. One of them, it is alleged, was instructed by Imamaki to assassinate Saito.

SEAWAY PROJECT IS ATTACKED AS "A "PIPE DREAM"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 18.—Peter G. Ten Eyck, chairman of the Albany, N. Y., port district commission, today attacked the proposed St. Lawrence seaway project recently embodied in a treaty which awaits ratification by the United States and Canadian governments. He spoke before the Montreal Kiwanis club.

He declared the estimated cost of the venture would be greatly exceeded if the project is carried out, and said that cheaper transportation and power would not come up to the predictions.

"The whole project has been a pipe dream from beginning to end, a beautiful illusion that can have no foundation in good business and sound economics," Ten Eyck submitted. He suggested that politics, and not economics, is behind the seaway.

STATE OPENS BID ON OUTER DRIVE PROJECT AUG. 31

Montrose to Foster Ave. Extension Planned.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—The state highway department will open bids on Aug. 31 to extend the outer drive north from Montrose avenue to Foster avenue with a grade separation at Wilson avenue. Proposals will be received at the same time for other Chicago paving in Roosevelt road, Ogden avenue and South Cicero avenue, and for city street work in Dekalb, Chicago Heights, Joliet, Aurora, Wheaton, and Elgin.

News of the Aug. 31 letting was given to the press today as the highway department opened bids in its third attempt to award a contract for paving Higgins road from the city limits at Canfield road to Austin avenue at a price comparable to similar construction nearby outside the city limits.

All Bids Rejected.

All bids in two former lettings on the Higgins road job were rejected by State Engineer Sheets. The state as yet has not awarded any contract for Chicago paving, although motorists of the metropolis contribute $20,800,000 a year to the state highway fund in gasoline taxes and license fees.

The apparent low bidder on the Higgins project in today's letting was John M. Bransfield company of Chicago, with a proposal of $191,145. Ten others who also submitted bids were all Chicago contractors. The Bransfield company was also low in the June 15 letting with a bid of $217,386 and in the July 20 letting with a bid of $192,826. Competition in the June and in the July bidding was likewise limited to Chicago firms.

The Higgins pavement consists of 2.3 miles of 40 foot concrete. Today's apparent low bid is at a rate of $83,500 per mile. Last year, a contract was awarded to the George Welch company of Beloit for a quarter of a mile of Higgins road pavement inside Cook county but outside of Chicago at a rate of $51,400 per mile. This year, Jaicks Brothers received a contract for paving Milwaukee avenue in Niles at a rate of $63,000 per mile.

Hints at Unfair Tactics.

"The prices sought by the Chicago contractors are apparently high," said George Barton, engineer for the Chicago Motor club, "and Mr. Sheets is to be commended for rejecting the June and the July bids. The fact that no outside contractor has bid for Chicago work justifies a suspicion that competition may not be as open as it might be. It is a fact that would bear investigation by the state."

Bids were also received today for widening Cicero avenue from 62d street to 87th street. The apparent low bidder is the Calumet Coal company of Chicago with its proposal of $37,335 for 3.88 miles.

The plans for the outer drive extension call for two one way pavements 39 feet wide, separated by an esplanade. The work will start this fall and highway officials hope the job will be open to traffic before winter.

Other Chicago Projects.

The other Chicago projects on the Aug. 31 letting are:

Roosevelt road from Albany avenue to California avenue, 21 feet wide on south half of street .38 of a mile, from Talman avenue to Campbell street, 15 feet wide, .07 of a mile.

Other municipal work in the metropolitan area in the state's Aug. 31 letting is as follows:

Chicago Heights—One mile of 40 foot pavement on route 1, south of Lincoln highway, and .72 of a mile of 40 foot pavement on the Lincoln highway on the east side of the city.

Joliet—Two 10 foot strips, .62 of a mile in length, on Chicago street, route 4.

The state will also receive proposals at its next letting for paving approaches to a grade separation in the Joliet road at the Baltimore and Ohio Chicago Terminal railroad crossing at McCook, Ill., and for the substructure of a new bridge over the Fox river for Algonquin road at Algonquin.

AVIATION NOTES

Th only Chicago entry in the Cord cup race, a sweepstakes handicap derby to be flown in sections simultaneously from Los Angeles and Washington that merge at Bartlesville, Okla., before finishing at the national air races in Cleveland on Aug. 27, the opening day, is a Monocoupe [Warner 110 h. p. motor] owned by William P. Lear and flown by Clarence Clabaugh of Waukegan. Clabaugh plans to take off for Washington in the plane today for the handicapping tests. He will carry Foster Hanaford as passenger on the race. Clabaugh said he hopes to win the race with the aid of a special radio set, which will enable him to receive all aviation radio broadcasts, including the beacon. The radio was designed by Mr. Lear.

United Air Lines claimed a new record for regularity of service yesterday, with 99.8 per cent of the 1,127,378 miles scheduled for July flown on time. All but 1,100 miles of the 670,396 miles scheduled on the coast to coast route were completed, half of it being flown at night. The company also reached a new traffic peak, carrying 10,700 passengers last month, the first air line ever to carry more than 10,000 passengers in one month.

MUNDELEIN IS HOST TO SMOOT, MORMON LEADER

Cardinal Mundelein, head of the archdiocese of Chicago and member of the college of cardinals of the Roman Catholic church, was visited yesterday by Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, one of the twelve apostles of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. In the latter communion, commonly known as the Mormon church, the apostles, together with the president, make up the governing body.

The Mormon church of late years has been noted for its interest in welfare work among the younger people. This activity includes athletics and vocational training. Senator Smoot said after his interview with Cardinal Mundelein that he had been much impressed by the work of the Chicago Catholic Youth organization and by the vocational training given by the Catholic church at Lockport and other places of the archdiocese.

Senator Smoot departed last night for Salt Lake City. He was accompanied here by former Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg.

Senator Smoot and Mr. Kellogg said economic conditions were improving. Mr. Kellogg added that the processes of improvement are world-wide in their reach. He praised the recent reduction of naval expenses in Italy as an evidence of that nation's interest in economy.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

TWO NEWS ITEMS AND A CHART.

Two items of news and a chart published recently in THE TRIBUNE can profitably be read together.

The chart shows the trend of bond prices over recent months. The line curves downward with scarcely a break from early in March until the first week in July. Then the recovery began and it has continued with scarcely a break. Current prices have risen to about the level of mid-April.

Now, it may be only a coincidence that the curve swung down when congress settled into its stride and the recovery began the moment congressmen called it a session and reached for their hats. It may be only a coincidence, but it isn't. The extremes to which liquidation was carried were not as irrational as many observers stated. The words uttered in both houses, the long delay in balancing the budget, the inflationary schemes which were put forward, the stubborn opposition to any reduction of government costs, and the tax proposals which were only less damaging than the tax law which was passed all contrived to destroy confidence in the security of the dollar and in the possibility of a speedy recovery. It was a congress without effective leadership to force moderation and without self-discipline to control the vagaries of a majority of the members. Only when congress had adjourned did confidence return.

Already, as one of the two news items referred to makes clear, the need is felt for a revision of the most important work undertaken by the last congress: the revenue bill. Senator Smoot feels that the inequalities imposed by the tax law must be ironed out, and he is talking in terms of a general sales tax as an auxiliary means of raising revenue. There is no question of the need for tax revision if recovery is to continue, but any one at all familiar with congressional processes will recognize, as Mr. Smoot seems not to, that new taxation will hardly be in lieu of previous levies but in addition to them. Congressmen stubbornly refuse to do the one thing that needs doing above all: to reduce expenditures. That is the only way to make the tax burden tolerable. The way to remove the inequalities of the law of 1932 is to remove the necessity for the inequalities.

Why congressmen behave as they do is suggested in the recent article by Mrs. Genevieve Forbes Herrick in which she called attention to the fact that large numbers of representatives and senators are back again at the capital. Washington is a stifling hole in the summer months, but there the boys are, sweating but happy. It may be cooler back home, but back home, as Mrs. Herrick observed, the congressman receives no deference; in Washington, on the contrary, he is somebody. Officialdom treats him with respect. He knows no parking rules. When he gives the triple buzz the elevator man hustles the car to fetch him and takes him where he is going before any other passenger is accommodated. In Washington a member of congress acquires the pleasant delusion that what he says and does is inevitably right. It may be pleasant for the gentlemen concerned, but, as the bond curve shows, it is ruinous to the people of the United States.

RECOGNIZING RUSSIA.

The soviet government has expressed through its organ, Isvestia, its annoyance at the fact that neither the Republican nor the Democratic platform declared for diplomatic recognition of the soviet régime, or, in more accurate words, for the restoration of diplomatic relations with Russia. As usual the argument is largely based upon bunk. For example, we are told that our failure to do so is economically injurious to us. The truth is that our trade with Russia could not be increased by diplomatic representation. It can be increased only by the granting of credit on conditions which we ought not to grant in existing circumstances. We could undoubtedly sell a large bill of goods to Russia if we disregarded the prospects of getting our loans repaid as agreed. Other nations are lending to Russia and trading with her in consequence. We have yet to have it demonstrated that the policy is a wise one. Advice from Isvestia on this question is not very persuasive. A previous British government restored diplomatic relations with Moscow after an interruption and was promptly and pungently informed by the soviet press that its little game would not work and that not a ruble more trade would be gained, because G. B. was in for some discipline for having treated bolshevik emissaries in London rough.

Our policy of nonrecognition was established by so ardent an internationalist as Woodrow Wilson and has been retained by all the Presidents since. It is based legally in part upon certain financial claims, but our American reasoning includes not only consideration of bolshevik ethics, which do not recognize obligations of previous Russian governments to "capitalist" governments, but also consideration of the fact that the communist régime is an enemy of every other noncommunist nation and that its instrument, the Third Internationale, is making mischief, directly or indirectly, in every country in which subversive propaganda and agitation seems profitable.

The restoration of diplomatic relations with Moscow would give cover to more mischief-making in this country, and recent communist plotting against banks suggests its possibilities. The recognition of the soviet régime by the most powerful capitalist country in the world would be advertised by communist agitators throughout the world as a great triumph. In our country this could be ignored. But in every unstable country it would increase the prestige and influence of Red agitation and in some of these countries might be the final factor in its success. No one who knows conditions in these deeply disturbed regions will think this fanciful. It is neither to our material nor our moral advantage to ignore it.

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL ON VOLSTEAD.

Attorney General Mitchell did not wait long to add a note of his own to the part of Mr. Hoover's speech in which the President said that he could not consent to a continuance of the prohibition régime and recommended the return of liquor control to the states. Mr. Mitchell said that nothing Mr. Hoover said was to be construed as indicating that the law would not be enforced so long as it remained the law.

The régime of Mr. Hoover is one of conflict between the United States department of justice and coöperating federal agencies and the lawless element which supplies liquor and an otherwise law abiding citizenship which buys it. What makes it intolerable is Mr. Mitchell's head-on collision with his fellow Americans—regarding Mr. Mitchell as the top departmental authority responsible for enforcement. Violent acts committed in violation o. .aw are matched by violent acts committed in its enforcement.

Mr. Hoover concedes that under national prohibition nothing less can be looked for. He abandons the attempt to better the situation by getting more enforcement, knowing that the evil is inseparable from its cause. Mr. Mitchell's position is that the intolerable shall continue to be tolerated. Enforcement proceeds as usual regardless of the fact that it contains many of the intolerable factors. In other words, the interim period between the political decision that conditions cannot be endured and the legislative recognition of it shall be as bad as the period before they were condemned.

With a good deal more show of reason and public morality Mr. Mitchell could announce that the evils perpetrated by prohibition enforcement shall cease. To enumerate, a few of them are killing of citizens, the debauching of young girls to obtain evidence, the use of provocation by federal agents to get evidence, extortion by agents to permit violations, the misuse of the federal administration and the coercion of the federal courts to get convictions.

If federal prohibition in its last days cannot be made at least no more foul than the old saloon the latter will come back as the lesser of two evils.

MORE BOMBING.

Bombs are not articles of normal or harmless use. They are not made in quantity in lawful commerce like firearms. They must be specially fabricated. There is supposed to be some legal checkup or registration of the sale of explosives, and a thorough inquiry ought in some cases at least to reach the makers. Bombing operations are not single operations, but involve plotting and coöperation, and where they are a part of a system of terrorism in a racketeering enterprise it should not be impossible to run down the conspirators and obtain evidence of the complicity of individuals.

We do not assert that this sort of detective work is simple or easy, but alert and persistent surveillance of the activities of men who the police know or should know are interested in a particular situation, as for example in the cleaners and dyers' business, in which bombing and other violence repeatedly appear, ought to prepare the police for more effectual action when these outrages break out. The notoriety and frequency of this crime and the circumstances in which it is employed justify a specialization in detective work which ought to produce better results. A few successful prosecutions and stiff sentences would end it.

Editorial of the Day

THEY.

[New York Times.]

Human annals show no parallel to the unselfishness, the abnegation, the utter devotion which They are now exhibiting in behalf of Mr. Hoover. Who are They? The persons, groups and associations undesignated who are now "rigging" the stock market; who are now, as Mr. Will Rogers suspects, buying and selling among themselves, in order to hasten the return of prosperity, in order to assure Mr. Hoover's reëlection.

Consider the simply astonishing extent to which They must be loving Mr. Hoover more than They love themselves. It is nearly three years since the crash, and in that time They have not lifted a finger to help themselves. With an indifference truly sublime They have seen their stock holdings sag toward the vanishing point, their bonds and mortgages melt away, their banks failing by the thousands, their entire fiscal structure under pressure. They have seen the existence of the national currency in peril, and have heard the collapse of the dollar spoken of as a matter of days only. All about them They have seen men of great wealth reduced to penury.

Yet all this time They knew what had to be done in order to stave off destruction. The only way of escape was to halt the fall in prices, reverse the fatal trend, and bring back prosperity. But did They make any endeavor to lift prices by buying and selling among themselves in Wall street? Did They make any attempt to rig the market at a time when They would have had the best wishes of the vast majority of the American people for their success? It is on record that They did not.

Even the talk of revolution did not galvanize Them into action. It has been proved in the radical publications that They are the masters in control of the present economic and social system; yet They stood supinely by while that system was apparently breaking up. They did nothing to raise prices while the number of unemployed in the country mounted to four million, to six million, to eight million, to ten million. Being far from stupid, They must have realized the grave threat to our entire social structure in this enormous and ever expanding mass of idle workers.

Then it became a question of reëlecting Mr. Hoover, and an extraordinary change came. The lethargy from which They could not be wrenched by consideration for themselves, their wives and children, their class interests, their country, dropped from them as if by magic when They bethought themselves of Mr. Hoover. Once it was a question of insuring the success of the Republican ticket, who would be the weakling to doubt or the craven to pause? As one man They leaped to their telephones and began buying and selling among themselves, with results now familiar. In this rush to do for Mr. Hoover what They would not do for themselves we have one of the supreme examples of unselfishness in all history.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

COLLEGE EXPENSES.

EXPENSES of a college education are being defiated. Numerous schools, both state universities and those not receiving legislative appropriations, are announcing cuts in tuition, dormitory room rent, and table board at "commons." Those are the necessities. Luxuries, to which college youth had become accustomed and which often ran to excesses, prune themselves according to the amount of cash available for such purposes.

At a time when Dad's wallet is flatter than usual, normal impulse for an independent youth or maid is to drop out for a year and seek a job. But there are not jobs enough to go around right now. Hence several eminent educators have urged students, unless it's absolutely impossible, to continue their courses, even to take postgraduate work, in order not to glut an already overburdened market. So reduced college expenses, if they enable more students to remain in college, serve a national economic purpose besides preparing the graduate more thoroughly, in the opinion of the educators, for his or her ultimate position.

Whether a college education, often obtained wholly or partly by self-support or by family sacrifice, "pays" is not our theme. That class of business men who once sneered at the graduated senior wishing to enter business with theoretical knowledge against the practical knowledge of chaps who had not spent four years on the campus has grown smaller over the years. We well remember our first application for a newspaper job and the sports editor's query, "College education?" To our explanation of "Only a year and a half; I need money now," his reply was, "Oh, well, you can get over that much in time." Now most sports writers are former collegians.

No doubt too many young people went to college because it was a "nice place" to spend four years. Probably too many of that type still will attend. Depression tightening of purse strings, however, will convince a majority that college is something other than a country club and that they are there, at some one's sacrifice, for a definite purpose.

Those who value extra-curricular activities, insisting they are essential to round out the future citizen for usefulness in any field, also find rays of hope. Unofficial—naturally unofficial—analysis of conditions at the University of Iowa records that "dates" are now willing to walk home from a party instead of insisting on the former taxicab. Alcohol, it also explains, is now $6 per gallon for synthetic gin purposes instead of the former $10 and $12. Fraternities and sororities in general have reduced their entertainment assessments.

With continued faith in our young people, the Wake-Line believes they will meet and overcome almost any troublesome problem—perhaps better than their elders. They're often thoughtless, always surprising, but at heart wholesome, and loyal in emergency, these youngsters.

THE GULLS.

The gull about the harbor flies,
Content with his unvaried cries.
Only the stormy petrel braves
Far reaches and remoter waves.
There's many a man that, like the gull,
Prefers the banal and the dull,
Nor deigns to envy braver souls
Who seek the shining, distant goals,
Suffers low flights nor ever soars
Beyond the purlieus of the shores.
Man's soul has wings for higher reaches
Than skimming only life's low beaches.

ONE DOES NOT HAVE to be an Edward Moore, musical critic, to speak for the Chicagoland Musical Festival to be held at Soldiers' field tomorrow night. After being there last year one has no fear in urging those who missed it then not to miss another. The vast crowd in attendance is worth seeing. The thousands of voices in mighty chorus are worth hearing. The admission fee is nominal.

DREAMS.

The night is stormy without—the wind is blowing up a terrific gale, and it bends the trees almost to the ground. The lightning flashes continuously while the thunder roars and crashes like the report of a mighty cannon.

My soul responds to the ferocity of the night, and great desires well up within me. I can see myself as a courageous knight of old, rescuing fair maidens from the very teeth of dire perils; I win tournament after tournament in the field, wresting my fame and fortune from the hands of men who have long gone unchallenged. There are none who can control me. My fiery steed is the lightning and the thunder's roar is my only herald.

But alas! The storm dies down and my own ardors abate with it, leaving me weary and worn—just an ordinary mortal caged and held down by the relentless four walls of my stuffy apartment.

WHAT HELPS CONSUMPTIVES.

A LETTER asks for an article on the treatment of consumption, and particularly on the newer points. The inquirer specifies food, rest, climate and sunshine.

Probably the most interesting developments in recent years are the various surgical procedures that have come into use. In the later stages consumption becomes a process of abscess formation. What in consumption is called a cavity would be called an abscess in another part of the body. Since the lungs are placed inside the bony, noncollapsible chest, the abscesses there tend to remain open, to fill up with pus, and to heal poorly. The way to cure an abscess is to collapse it and let the walls grow together. There are several operations to collapse the lungs, have the cavity walls come together, and grow together, that healing may be promoted. There are other operations to drain the pus out of the cavities. In those cases to which it is suited the proper operation is much the best treatment of consumption.

The efforts to get antiseptic chemicals into the bronchi and the cavities by pouring them into the trachea are procedures that offer much in appropriate cases.

The new methods in feeding come from Germany. The diets now used are planned to supply minerals, vitamins, and the necessary calories. The old plan of giving milk, cream and rich heavy foods at frequent intervals and in large amounts is not now in vogue. While it is regarded as a good sign when patients put on weight the importance of that is not as highly considered as was the case a few years ago.

Climate is definitely of advantage in pulmonary tuberculosis. The best climate is one where the atmospheric humidity is very low, there are no fogs, and things seldom become damp or mildewed when left out; where there is less than twenty inches of rainfall yearly, where there are few cloudy days. The temperature should not be high in summer and neither too low nor too high in winter. There must be some wind but no windstorms, and the air must be clean. A climate where meat can be jerked is very apt to be a climate that is good for consumptives. As a rule the elevation should be more than three thousand feet in order that the sun ray may not be harmfully filtered.

Since most of those who chase the climate cure are nonresidents, there are certain relations of their daily life that must be borne in mind. The consumptive, being away from home, is apt to develop homesickness. The advantage of the climate cure is not great enough to offset the disadvantage of homesickness. As a rule the only people who are cured by the climate cure are those who go to the new climate to live there permanently; who learn the ways of the people and conform to them—in a word, they are those who start out to fit in and who succeed in their undertaking.

Most consumptives seeking the climate cure will need to rest in bed or live quietly for several months. The man who does not have financial backing sufficient to carry him for idleness for one year will not get enough good from the climate cure to make it advisable for him to try it.

There is nothing new in the rest treatment of consumption. The consumptive belongs inactive and usually in bed until he is no longer thrown into a fever by taking exercise or moving about. After the months in which rest is the best medicine the consumptive takes there comes the time for prescribed exercise for the purpose of building up the muscles and promoting endurance.

PROBABLY NOT BRIGHTS.

N. C. writes: For the last few months my urine shows albumin but no casts. I have no swelling of feet or limbs. I am 73 years. Am dizzy and quite nervous, but think this is caused from hardened arteries. Do above symptoms show indications of Bright's disease?

REPLY.

Probably not. The chances are you have an enlarged prostate and some cystitis. This would cause some albumin and pus. If the inflammation extends to the kidney you will have casts and probably microscopic evidence of blood.

IT IS NOT TRUE.

A. L. writes: I have heard that eating fried parsnips every day will keep the skin clear of pimples, blackheads, etc. Is this true?

REPLY.

No.

WEIGHT FOR AGE.

Mrs. C. G. writes:

1. What should a 59 year old man, 5 feet 8½ inches tall, weigh?
2. A woman 57 years old, 5 feet 2½ inches tall?
3. A boy 15 years old, 5 feet 3½ inches tall?

REPLY.

1. 151 pounds.
2. 122 pounds.
3. 115 pounds.

The weights given are taken from a table of average weights. The best weights run some fifteen pounds lower than average weights. The use of the term average implies that there are normal people well below the average and others well above it. Normal weights vary according to size of bone, body build, racial stocks, climate, and family relationships.

TRY TO SLEEP TOO LONG.

S. N. writes: I am 15 years of age and go to bed about 9:30 and rise about 8. I seldom fall asleep before 11. I continue to wake up about 3 o'clock in the morning and stay awake for about an hour. I do not eat before going to bed. What is the cause of this and how can it be prevented?

REPLY.

My guess is that you are trying to sleep too much and nature rebels. You are in bed nearly eleven hours and you need only eight hours' sleep. Readjust your schedule.

STAIRWAY ORDERED.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—[Friend of the People.]—In the building opposite us is a family living in an attic flat. They have no rear entrance and just a small stairway leading down the front. Is this allowed in a frame building? What authorities should be notified of this condition? K. F. W.

You are advised that this department has notified the owner to erect a second stair from attic to grade at rear of building. This order will be enforced.

ATTORNEY NECESSARY.

Berwyn, Ill., Aug. 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Under the following conditions can A, a representative staff of a publication, prosecute B, a controller of the institution? B was given a sum of money from subscribers to the publication. At the time B was to pay C for services rendered to A, B informs C that these funds have been used for other purposes. B's name does not appear on the contract made between A and C. Can A and C prosecute B jointly? Under what charge may B be prosecuted by A? L. J. B.

We assume that the funds were not used for legitimate purposes of the business. On such facts there clearly would be remedies against B. We advise you to place the matter in the hands of an attorney and permit him to choose between available remedies.

JOINT WILL.

Berwyn, Ill., Aug. 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—An old couple contemplate drawing up a joint tenancy will, as they both own what little property they have in joint tenancy, not as tenants in common. The husband is 75 years of age and the wife 71. They cannot afford to pay an attorney and have asked me if I thought their both joining in one will as joint tenants was legal in Illinois. As I do not know I am taking the liberty of asking you to advise me. D. M.

A joint will is possible, but since it is somewhat unusual we would consider it somewhat more dangerous. If the parties are unable to employ an attorney we would advise them to get printed forms from a stationer and make out two similar wills.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 19, 1916.

NEW YORK. — A dispatch from Washington will be published in the New York Tribune today as follows: "Gen. Funston has dropped a bombshell in the carefully laid plans of the administration for a joint commission to solve the border problem. In a telegram received at the war department and which the administration is making every effort to keep secret, Gen. Funston recommends the immediate withdrawal of Gen. Pershing's expeditionary force from Mexican territory. War department officials were dumfounded when the Funston telegram was received. Orders were immediately issued to keep the message from becoming public and Gen. Funston was advised, it is understood, not to wire any further recommendations of a similar character."

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—A tropical storm of great violence, approaching a hurricane at times, is sweeping the Texas coast. Reports from Brownsville say the terrific gale played havoc with the military camps, including the camp of the First Illinois cavalry. Soldiers and National Guardsmen at Fort Brown have been driven from their quarters and have taken refuge in the city hall and other public buildings of Brownsville. The Illinois field artillery encampment at Leon Springs also was ripped by the storm. A message from Brownsville says that half of the New York guardsmen's tents are down.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson and the thirty-one railroad executives he summoned to Washington are at loggerheads over the plan for averting a general transportation tieup which he proposed with the approval of the unions. At a conference the President called on the railroad officials to accept the compromise proposal granting the eight-hour basic work day and accompanied the demand with thinly veiled threats to invoke drastic government action to prevent any disturbance of transportation unless the carriers and their employes speedily compose their differences. The railroad officials refused to accede to the President's demand and will make another effort tomorrow to induce him to modify his plan so as to provide for arbitration of the entire dispute.

LONDON.—Assaults by British and French forces against German positions north of the Somme in France have resulted in regaining of additional ground by the attackers, according to the British and French war offices. The French advance was in and around Maurepas and the British gain was in the direction of Ginchy and Guillemont, near the southern end of their section of the Somme front. The Anglo-French attack took place along the whole line from Pozieres to the Somme.

ROME.—The Austrian attacks in the Tyrol have been repelled, according to the war office. However, the Teutonic lines along the Isonzo are holding under a terrific bombardment.

LONDON.—The Germans are about to launch a naval attack in the Baltic near the Riga section, according to Swedish reports.

PETROGRAD.—The Austro-German effort to throw back the Russians in Galicia has resulted in great losses and met with no success. The Russians have pressed forward in several sectors and on the Bystritza-Bolotvina river occupied Lysiets, seven miles southwest of Stanislau.

CHICAGO.—A petition seeking letters of administration for the estate of the late Dr. John B. Murphy, probably will be filed in Probate court today by Attorney Andrew J. Ryan, who stated that the estate consists of more than $1,000,000 worth of real estate and personal property valued at $250,000. Dr. Murphy left no will. Besides Mrs. Murphy the heirs are the three daughters, Mildred L. and Celeste Murphy and Mrs. Cecile M. Benedict, wife of J. T. Benedict, general manager of the A. Plamondon Manufacturing company.

FROM GOV. PINCHOT.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 15.—The conditions you describe in your recent editorial, "Bureaucracy on the Air," would be interesting if they existed in Pennsylvania. But they do not exist.

Your editorial would lead the casual reader to believe that news coming from departments of the state government at Harrisburg is subject to censorship, that no information may be had regarding any activity of the state government unless it is passed upon by a press representative of a department or of governor; that information given to the public through the state police radio station is subject to the same censorship.

The truth is that there is no censorship.

Any newspaper representative who asks the proper authorities for information is given that information without hesitation. His inquiries are answered in full.

You mentioned the action of the editor of the Capitol News, the official clip sheet sent to newspapers of Pennsylvania, who "approves or disapproves" of news stories furnished by the several departments. What this editor does is just what any other editor does. He throws away material that has no news value. He edits copy submitted to him. He boils and condenses contributions. And I may say to you that he does not pass upon "matters of a political nature," for the simple reason that the clip sheet contains nothing of a political nature. The purpose of this clip sheet is to give the newspapers of Pennsylvania accurate and timely information about departmental activities at Harrisburg and elsewhere. No effort is made to advance any one's political cause.

It may interest you to know that recently Pennsylvania newspapers were asked whether or not they suggested discontinuance of the clip sheet. The return in favor of the sheet was in the ratio of 20 to 1.

This tempest in a teapot is simply the result of the belief of a radio station owned by a Harrisburg newspaper that its revenues would increase if in addition to its own time on the air it had the time allotted to the police radio station. I understand this newspaper paid for and distributed a pamphlet containing a record of proceedings before the representative of the radio commission at Washington—not the Pennsylvania Newspapers' association, whose initials appear on the cover of the document.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and all other newspapers can be quite sure that no press censorship exists in Harrisburg. And evidence of this is found in the fact that the chairman and other officials of the Republican state committee, an organization certainly not friendly to me, send their newspaper stories to the editor of our clip sheet, who is custodian of the news room in the capitol and through whom all spot news clears to the correspondents. GIFFORD PINCHOT.

TAXES ON OLD GOODS.

La Grange, Ill., Aug. 15.—A federal tax is being collected by many druggists and others on stuff that has been lying on their shelves for years. Why doesn't the government issue revenue stamps like those used on tobacco? Then the purchaser will know that the government is getting the tax. J. C. A.

TAX REDUCTION.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Is 20 per cent reduction on 1931 taxes sufficient? Let us register our demands at once with Mr. Fred W. Sargent, who is head of the citizens' committee on public expenditures. We must have no less than 33 1-3 per cent. A TAXPAYER.

THE OPTOMETRISTS' SIDE.

Hancock, Mich., June 25.—To me, as associate director of the truth-in-print department of the American Optometric association, has been assigned the task of commenting on a rather misleading article under the title, "How Your Glasses Are Made," in THE TRIBUNE of June 5. The article appeared to be simply a bid for business by dispensing opticians and their protégés, the eye physicians who in many cases are not "specially trained."

Dr. Edward Jackson, ranking high among ophthalmologists, speaking before the American Academy of Ophthalmology, said in part:

"Is there not something grotesque in the claim that the examining of eyes for glasses should be done only by the medical profession, if the average graduate of medicine is sent out ignorant of methods of measuring refraction, or with only the most superficial and perfunctory knowledge of the subject? What is there in the medical training of the past, what is there in the medical curriculum of today, to train the student to painstaking accuracy in mathematical measurements?"

It is evident that the claims put forth in "How Our Glasses Are Made" as to eye physicians' special training and ability to compute lens values are, to say the least, a monumental exaggeration, which, likewise, applies to the innuendoes that all lenses are surface ground by the optician according to lens computation of the oculist. P. SCHOLLER, Opt. D.

IN DEFENSE OF SIGNBOARDS.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—In reply to Mrs. Howard C. Phillips I would suggest that her club take action on some industry which would not hurt the laboring class. I wonder if she knows the amount of work the outdoor advertisers give to men in their employ. I suppose she thinks the bulletin boards grow there. I am one workingman who does not buy anything that is advertised over the radio. The outdoor people at least have to employ help to advertise.

COUSIN EVE.

Sheboygan, Wis., Aug. 9.—Just as we were about to importune Cousin Eve of THE TRIBUNE through the columns of the Voice of the People to make another trip abroad and tell us of her travels, we noted with pleasure that our desires were granted in last Sunday's edition of THE TRIBUNE, with the first installment of her "Hard Times Cruise Across the Atlantic." We don't recall having read any book of travels that afforded us so keen a pleasure as Cousin Eve's travels in Italy and France about a year ago. She gives us the more intimate and personal view connected with the historic and cultural interests, which aid immeasurably in making an impress on the mind. Some of these places we had visited ourselves, and it's always pleasant to renew old acquaintances through the pen of so observant and gifted a writer as Cousin Eve, especially in these days of little travel or none at all.

We follow THE TRIBUNE every day, but from now on THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE will be the major attraction, taking it for granted that Cousin Eve will further embark on a cruise of Germany and give us the benefit of her observations. May we take this opportunity to thank THE TRIBUNE for James O'Donnell Bennett's illuminating article anent the "Village of Kohler"? Being a close neighbor of Kohler, we of Sheboygan like to believe that this model industrial center is our very own. VICTOR H. RABB.

THE SINGING OF THE ANTHEM.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—It would be a fitting climax to THE TRIBUNE'S Music Festival to have "The Star Spangled Banner" sung by the young lady who sang it at the Democratic national convention. Her interpretation and rendition of the national air was the finest I have ever heard. The government should hire her to sing it at all occasions possible as a matter of education in the art of singing it. J. J. R.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 18.—Great Britain and her dominions, after threshing out intraempire problems here for nearly a month, tonight were in agreement on a program of trade preferences which they hope will launch the empire on its way to prosperity.

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett of Canada revealed that only the technical phrasing of the various accords remains to be achieved and indicated that everything would be "washed up" by tomorrow night, in time for the farewell imperial conference session Saturday morning.

The Russian "dumping" issue, which threatened for a time to disrupt the conference, was the last obstacle to be hurdled. Canada, which had fought all along for Britain to give specific assurance that steps would be taken to prevent Russia from underselling Canadian products, gave ground and was defeated on the issue.

Accepts Blanket Promise.

Prime Minister Bennett had to be content with a blanket promise by the British that if and when unfair competition arose from any source and threatened to destroy the preferences granted under interdominion agreements they would act. Britain held that to mention Russia by name would be an insult to a "diplomatically friendly power."

The battle over Russia raged all day until at length the issue was narrowed to the difference between "shall" and "will." Bennett wanted the word "shall" used in connection with Britain's pledge but the British stuck to "will." Bennett's insistence drew from Lord Hailsham, British secretary for war, the question, "Do you think we are thugs whose word cannot be taken?"

It was learned tonight that Bennett's collapse on the Russion question was hastened when Canadian industrialists on whom he had been relying deserted his cause.

Britain has agreed to a Canadian tariff board which will settle customs troubles and the Canadian manufacturers are pinning their faith to it. One properly selected board, in their opinion, is worth a dozen preferences.

Rumor 5 Cent Wheat Preference.

Under the final agreement reached between Canada and the United Kingdom it is reported that Britain will agree to a preference of five cents a bushel on Canadian wheat. In other quarters, however, the figure is put at three cents and again at six cents. In any case, no Canadian thinks it will make much difference to Canada's sales in the British market.

The conference issued today the report of the committee on methods of economic coöperation within the empire. It is a bulky document most of which has already been published in the reports of the subcommittees.

One new point is the announcment that Britain has agreed to finance the empire marketing board for another year, until September, 1933. This will cost Britain about $1,500,000 and is a sop to the disappointed dominions as the establishment of the board was a sop a few years ago when Britain refused preferences.

The committee recommended the establishment of a committee of not more than two from each commonwealth state to consider means of facilitating economic consultation and generally to carry on the work of the conference between meetings.

Baldwin Gives Reception.

The series of meetings between delegates of the various parts of the empire continued through the evening and until late tonight. There was a recess, however, for a reception given by Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council and head of the British delegation, for every one who had any connection at all with the conference.

The drafting experts will continue their labors tomorrow on the details and the phrasing. It is expected that pacts between the United Kingdom and the dominions other than Canada will be completed in the morning and that the accord between Canada and the United Kingdom will be in final form by the afternoon or evening.

ONE KILLED, FIVE SERIOUSLY HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Ralph Elliott, 33 years old, of Hoopeston, Ill., was killed yesterday and five others were seriously injured in an automobile collision at Cicero avenue and 135th street, Crestwood. Elliott was driving to Chicago with his wife, Myrtle, and three other Hoopeston residents when the car collided with an automobile driven by Ralph Martinetti, 18 years old, 2235 Lemont street, Blue Island.

Miss Juanita Holmes, 26; Miss Anna Schade, 25, and Harold Swisher, 28, who were riding with Elliott, were taken to the St. Francis hospital in Blue Island with Mrs. Elliott and Martinetti. Elliott, son of a Hoopeston jeweler, was bringing a suitcase full of old gold for sale in Chicago.

Harold Tobin, 26 years old, 7632 Colfax avenue, and Robert O'Keefe, 29 years old, 3439 South Marshfield avenue, were seriously injured yesterday when their automobile struck a safety island at 53d street and the outer drive.

Mrs. Allyn Harrin, 33 years old, 2053 Chase street, Wheaton, suffered cuts and bruises yesterday when the automobile she was driving was struck by a Chicago, Aurora and Elgin train at the Washington street crossing in Wheaton. Mrs. Harrin had just taken her husband, a Chicago attorney, to the depot and was returning to her home. George Halleman, motorman, said Mrs. Harrin apparently saw the train and attempted to beat it to the crossing.

Elliott's death and one other yesterday increased the 1932 Cook county motor toll to 729. The other victim:

Mrs. Hannie Covelceck, 40 years old, 4825 South Hoyne avenue. Died in the Women and Children's hospital of injuries suffered Sept. 12, 1931, when she was struck by an automobile at 47th street and Seeley avenue.

LAWYER THROWN OUT OF COURT, DEMANDS INVESTIGATION BY BAR

Charging that he was forcibly ejected from the court of Municipal Judge Samuel Trude last Aug. 11, Joseph Roth, a lawyer, yesterday complained to the Chicago Bar association that attorneys habitually are treated with disrespect by Municipal court attachés. The request for an investigation was received by Charles P. Megan, president of the Bar association.

Attorney Roth, in a letter, said he appeared at the Traffic court, 1121 South State street, to ask that the case of a fellow lawyer be continued. Roth asserted Deputy Bailiff James Finkel refused to allow him to stand near the bench when he stepped forward to speak to the judge.

When he attempted to explain, Roth charges, the bailiff grabbed him by the neck and arm and thrust him back. After he finally was allowed to speak to the judge he complained of the rough treatment but Judge Trude waved him aside. Then Finkel and another attaché seized him and evicted him from the courtroom, the letter recited. The following day Attorney Roth complained to Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby, the letter recited, but Judge Sonsteby took no action.

ITALIAN ARMY GOES OVER TOP IN WAR TEST TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Aug. 18.—Two corps of Italy's newly mechanized army will go over the top in the hills of Umbria at dawn tomorrow in the annual "war" between blues and reds.

The maneuvers are characterized this year by the large number of men to be employed. Not since the war have maneuvers been carried out on more than a divisional scale. Tomorrow the two army corps, which will battle each other, will be made up of three divisions supported by artillery, cavalry, signal and transport units. The games will simulate a complete engagement involving strategic general staff operations rather than tactical manipulation of units.

"Fight" on Historic Site.

The scene of the maneuvers will be at Lake Thrasymanus, on the shores of which Hannibal inflicted a disastrous defeat on the Romans 2,200 years ago. Bordering the lake are medium high mountains comparable to those on Italy's northern frontier so that operations on mountainous terrain, on which Italian troops would be engaged in case of a real war, may be studied.

Premier Mussolini, who is spending a holiday on the Adriatic coast not far from the fictitious battleground, will attend the maneuvers as commander-in-chief of all armed forces and head of the supreme defense commission. Members of the senate and chamber of deputies as well as visiting military experts and all military attachés will also be present.

Fifty thousand soldiers will take part in the games. There will be 2,000 officers, 6,000 horses and mules and 2,000 motorized vehicles. The games, according to an announcement tonight, will give "a demonstration of the power and efficiency of Italy's newly motorized mountain army."

They will be presided over by chief of the general staff, Gen. Alberto Bonzani, and directed by Gen. Grazioli.

U. S. Eyes Naval Cut.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—The Italian announcement that 130,000 tons of fighting ships are to be retired beginning Aug. 25 aroused keen interest in naval and state department circles today, although formal comment was lacking.

A checkup of comparative naval data records and naval year books disclosed that Italy could retire 130,000 tons of ships without affecting more than a few tons of under age modern ships.

In diplomatic circles the opinion expressed today was that the Italian government had reached the conclusion following extensive fleet maneuvers that the small cruiser, destroyer, and submarine represented the most useful type of ships for its needs.

TWO SMALL GIRLS WOUNDED IN N. Y. GANG SHOOTING

New York, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Gangsters blazed away at each other in a Brooklyn street late today and two little girls were wounded.

The little girls were among a dozen playing on the sidewalk when two men walking by paused and started to argue. Just then an automobile with four men came along, witnesses said, and bullets began to fly.

Whether the pair on the sidewalk joined in exchanging shots with those in the machine, or whether one man was the target for all pistols was not made clear.

Deposit liabilities of the 104 banks closed in Cook county since 1929 have been reduced $29,062,208, or approximately 24 per cent, as of June 30, 1932. This was announced yesterday by State Auditor Oscar Nelson.

The sum of $13,717,653 has been paid back to common depositors, the auditor said. A total of $5,545,961 has been paid out on preferred and secured claims. In addition the obligations of the banks have been reduced $9,978,594 by offsets, a process whereby a borrower's debt is reduced by a sum equaling the amount of his deposit, or the the deposit obligation of the bank is cut in amount equal to borrower's debt.

On the days of their closing the 104 banks carried deposit liabilities of $122,614,026, the auditor stated. Since then the closed banks have contracted $2,661,540 in new liabilities and have earned $2,906,595 while in receivership.

Banks Still Owe $99,683,037.

Including these and other items of debit and credit, the banks still owe $99,683,037, Mr. Nelson said. Virtually all of this sum is represented by obligations to depositors.

However, receivers of the banks have paid off other obligations, as a result of which the depositors, in the long run, will benefit greatly, the auditor added.

There is, for example, the item of bills payable, of which bank receivers have paid off $16,443,273. Most of the bills payable were contracted by the weakened banks in a last effort to get cash to meet runs before they closed.

To get the cash they were obliged to put up collateral worth several times the amount of the loans. By meeting the bills payable the receivers have been able to recover the collateral, which will eventually be liquidated for the benefit of depositors.

Other items listed in the auditor's statement were as follows: Receivers' salaries, $432,381; attorney's fees, $792,887; general expenses, $2,259,145.

Receivers Collect $47,961,496.

Receivers have collected a total of $47,961,496 from bank debtors at a net cost of $568,318, or 1.2 per cent of the money collected, the auditor stated.

Liquidation has been retarded in the last three months because of the auditor's established policy of refusing to sacrifice bonds and real estate in an unfavorable market, it was stated at his office.

"A general improvement in both the bond and real estate markets can now be anticipated," Mr. Nelson said.

RECEIVER FIGHTS PROBE OF CLOSED BANK BY AUDITOR

H. A. Smith of Wilmette, receiver of the closed Highwood State bank of Highwood, refused yesterday to permit an auditor representing State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county to examine the bank's books as a preliminary to a possible grand jury investigation. The state's attorney then sought an order from Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady at Waukegan to compel Receiver Smith to give him access to the records. The matter will be argued today.

The state's attorney ordered the investigation by his auditor, Charles Bond, after receiving charges from depositors in the bank that shortly before the closing directors and members of their families withdrew their deposits, whereas other savings depositors were required to give sixty days' notice.

Receiver Smith said these charges were unfounded.

DEFENSE RESTS IN PROSECUTION OF BAIN CHARGES

Trial Near Its Close as Rebuttal Opens.

The defense of John Bain on the charge of conspiracy growing out of the collapse on June 9, 1931, of his bank chain rested yesterday before Judge John M. O'Connor.

Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber will present the first of his rebuttal witnesses this morning. Their testimony, he said, will consist principally of attacks upon the veracity of Bain and his three co-defendants, who are his sons, John H., and Robert A. Bain, and his son-in-law, W. Merle Fisher. All testified in their own defense before Judge O'Connor, who is hearing the case without a jury.

The final phase of the defense testimony consisted of the assertions of thirty-odd character witnesses that up to the time of the bank crash Bain and members of his family bore good reputations for honesty.

Each of the character witnesses was asked by Attorney Francis X. Busch for the defense what was the reputation of the four defendants "for honest and fair dealing and as upright, law abiding citizens" prior to the bank crash. On behalf of the defense it was explained that the limitation placed on Bain's tenure of his good reputation was not a defense admission that subsequent events have blackened his repute, but because only his acts prior to the bank crash are attacked in the indictment.

Among the witnesses were Justin M. Dahl, vice chairman of the board of the Chicago Title and Trust company; Henry S. Henschen, retired banker; George T. Donoghue, superintendent of south parks, of which Bain still holds office as a commissioner; a number of ministers, housewives, and small business men.

One witness, Alexander Smullan, 12125 Harvard avenue, based his estimate of Bain's character on the ex-plumber's behavior on the golf course. He added that his esteem for Bain increased when Bain gave him $1,000 for a church for which he was soliciting funds.

John S. Neil, an auditor, gave a lengthy report on the assets and liabilities of the Bain banks, as the defense estimates them. He was subjected to an equally lengthy cross-examination by Prosecutor Raber, who drew from him admission that his report contained a number of errors.

2nd North Western Bank to Make 10 Pct. Payment

State Auditor Oscar Nelson yesterday announced depositors of the Second Northwestern State bank, 2956 Milwaukee avenue, will receive a ten per cent dividend Sept. 1. The checks to depositors will total $190,000. The bank closed June 10, 1931. A ten per cent dividend was paid two weeks later. An order authorizing the receiver, Norman O. Geyer, to make the payment was entered by Circuit Judge Joseph Burke.

ISSUE SCRIP MONEY IN IOWA FOR USE DURING FARM STRIKE

Malvern, Ia., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Scrip, a substitute money for use in Mills county during the farmers' holiday, made its appearance here today. The first supply was put into circulation by the Malvern Cold Storage company.

H. H. Lisle of Hastings, chairman of the Mills County Farmers' Holiday association, said: "It is more money, not credit, that the farmers of this county need. The purpose of our scrip is to supply farmers with substitute money as a matter of convenience until the holiday is over."

The scrip, in the form of a promissory note, serves as a warehouse receipt. The issue states that the company will pay to the bearer the sum designated within sixty days of the date issued.

A stipulation is printed beneath that no single piece of scrip shall be issued in excess of $10 and the scrip will be accepted for its face value for any article offered for sale by the company.

"This may be indorsed as a check," Lisle said. "It is our intention that none of the scrip shall get out of the county."

JUNIUS MORGAN, ART COLLECTOR, DIES IN EUROPE

New York, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Junius Spencer Morgan, first cousin of J. P. Morgan Sr., died today at Valmont, Switzerland, relatives here were informed. He was about 68 years old.

Noted as an art collector, he was awarded the order of the Crown of Italy at Princeton university last January. He had interests in a number of financial and banking corporations, but was not a member of J. P. Morgan & Co. He had been ill in Switzerland for some time.

Survivors are his widow, a son, Alexander P. of New York, and a daughter, Mrs. Henry M. Gardner of Princeton, N. J.

Morgan was graduated from Princeton in 1888. He went there from St. Paul's school, Concord, N. H.

After graduation Morgan formed the New York banking house of Cuyler, Morgan & Co., from which he retired early in the century when he established a home in Paris.

HOLD SERVICES IN NEW YORK FOR DR. S. B. SNIFFEN

Funeral services for Dr. Stewart B. Sniffen, a psychiatrist formerly connected with the University of Chicago, were held yesterday at the home of his father, Dr. D. Austin Sniffen in White Plains, N. Y. Services which friends here will attend will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at Lake Forest cemetery.

Besides his father, Dr. Sniffen is survived by his widow, the former Marion Renwick Moseley of Highland Park.

Dr. Sniffen was a graduate of Columbia university and studied in Berlin and Vienna. He was taken ill about a year ago, at which time he resigned from the University of Chicago. He died last Tuesday in Baltimore.

SCREEN GIVES WAY, MAN FALLS 16 STORIES; DIES

980 Canal Employes to Get Month's Pay Soon

A month's pay roll for 980 employes of the sanitary district was approved by the trustees yesterday. The compensation is for the last half of May and the first half of June and will amount to approximately $250,000. Trustee Ross A. Woodhull announced that local banks will take 1931 tax warrants to assure the pay.

BEG YOUR PARDON

An item describing a meeting of trustees of Elmwood Park, at which the question whether eating huts are love nests was debated, quoted Trustee T. Vincent McNeil as saying he took some members of the Parent-Teachers' association on a tour of inspection of the huts and they approved them. Mr. McNeil states he did not escort the tour, but learned that a group of the association had approved the huts after inspection.

An item yesterday referred to William H. Weber as chairman of the Republican state central committee. He is chairman of the Cook county Republican central committee, Franklin J. Stransky is chairman of the state body.

An item Aug. 15 said that James Gammonly, personal bookkeeper for John Bain, had testified that he received $20,000 in cash for his employer on June 8, 1931, the day before the Bain bank chain crashed, and locked it in a private file in Bain's office. The evidence shows that the money was placed in the file by John McCrimmon, another bookkeeper.

IOWA FARMERS' STRIKE SPREADS, BUT PRICES DROP

Tighten Road Blockade at Sioux City.

Sioux City, Ia., Aug. 18.—(AP)—The farmers' strike became more effective here today as Nebraska and South Dakota farmers fell in with the movement, extending the marketing blockade to all main highways leading into Sioux City, including the bridge over the Missouri river.

The result is that all was quiet tonight on roads where hundreds of adherents of the nonselling movement maintained effective barricades. This peace, after nearly a week of turmoil, meant for the weary picketers both victory and defeat.

Success lay in the completeness with which these striking farmers kept their neighbors from marketing produce and the spread of their movement to other sections of Iowa, South Dakota, and Nebraska.

But Prices Fall.

Failure resided in falling prices, which meant that their purpose in picketing has not yet been achieved, and in the alacrity with which stockmen and producers were turning from trucks to railroads to ship their products here.

The strikers late today stopped an automobile driver. When he was instructed to proceed, after his car had been searched, he drew a revolver and shot into the crowd, the bullet narrowly missing a farmer. The picketers pursued him, obtained his license number, and announced plans of filing assault charges against him.

Strike Movement Spreads.

In Boone, Ia., the peaceful picketing of all roads began. Three masked men poured out a truckload of cream.

Farmers in southeastern South Dakota, after a speech by Milo Reno of Des Moines, president of the Holiday association, resolved to begin a similar strike soon.

Residents of northeastern Nebraska began patrolling federal highways in their neighborhoods and were planning an even closer watch of highways into Sioux City.

Farmers in Union county, S. D., just across the Big Sioux river, last night defied Sheriff N. Slocum when he tried to convoy five trucks through the lines. They disarmed him and the truckers followed his advice and returned home.

An appeal was made to U. S. Attorney Olaf Eldem at Sioux Falls, S. D., that interstate commerce was being restricted after a truck carrying packing company meats was halted at Stevens, S. D.

Hog prices here fell 25 cents today because, commission men believe, buyers are seeking their supplies at other markets. The strike in other parts of Iowa made no apparent effect on prices or receipts.

Stop Corn Shelling.

Kankakee, Ill., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Fifteen members of the Farmers' Holiday association were visiting farms in the vicinity of Chebanse today warning those shelling corn to stop and abide by the "strike." No violence was reported and those asked to stop shelling were reported doing so at once.

HUNT MEANEST RACKETEER WHO PREYS ON IDLE

A man described as Chicago's meanest racketeer was the subject of a police search last night. He uses the aliases of Fred Richards, Fred Richardson, George White, and others, and preys on unemployed men.

His method is to stop at garages and service stations and ask for the names of several unemployed men, saying he knows of several steady jobs driving trucks.

Provided with the names, he approaches his victims and persuades them to advance him the few dollars they possess. The money, he explains, is a down payment on the insurance policy which the employing company requires each driver to take out.

Thus far he has sent several scores of victims to the Union Metal Products company, 310 South Michigan avenue, which he names as the prospective employer. The company employs no truck drivers here.

Dr. J. C. Stubbs, Chicago Physician 43 Years, Dies

Dr. Joseph Chase Stubbs, former president of the Illinois Hospital association and a practicing physician in Chicago for 43 years, died yesterday. He was 67 years old and a member of the staff of St. Anthony de Padua hospital. He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Frieda Boehm Stubbs, and a daughter, Letitia F. Stubbs. Funeral services will be held Saturday at 1:30 p. m. at his late home at 1905 South Millard avenue, and at the South Millard Avenue Presbyterian church.

Admits Selling 10 Stolen Automobiles in Waukegan

Edward L. Miller, 34 years old, of North Chicago, yesterday confessed to disposing of ten stolen cars in Waukegan, after three days of questioning by Chief Edward Alstrom of Waukegan. Among Miller's customers was Policeman Chester McMullin of Waukegan. Miller was turned over to federal authorities for prosecution under the Dyer act, as eight of the cars had been stolen in neighboring states.

COIN HARVEY AND FATHER COX FAIL TO UNITE PARTIES

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 18.—(AP)—East and west still were twain today as the "blue shirt" followers of the Rev. James R. Cox, Catholic priest of Pittsburgh, chugged by automobiles and motor trucks back to their homes in the east and the supporters of W. H. (Coin) Harvey dispersed to their homes in the south and west.

Ambitious plans to unite the followers of both leaders under the common banner of a jobless-liberty party, for a united nation-wide political campaign this fall, had ended in failure as the weary delegates straggled home after separate conventions that attracted only a handful compared with the thousands who had been expected by the leaders.

Father Cox, who led about 500 of his "blue shirt" followers here from Pittsburgh, was nominated for President at the jobless party meeting and Harvey, veteran of the free silver movement of the 90's, remained the presidential nominee of the liberty party.

BISHOP CRANSTON, 93, OF METHODIST CHURCH, IS DEAD

New Richmond, O., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Bishop Earl Cranston, 92 year old dean of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church, died at his home near here tonight after an illness of several months.

Bishop Cranston, a leader in the movement to bring about reunion between his church and the Methodist Church, South, had a colorful career. Graduated from Ohio university in 1861, he enlisted in the Union army and rose to a captaincy.

Elevated to the bishopric in 1896, he was sent to the orient and played a large part in uniting Methodist missions in Japan and then served as missionary supervisor in China, Japan, and Korea, and later in Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico, and Europe.

TEACHERS CABLE MAYOR CERMAK TO ASK PAY AID

A cablegram protesting against the payment of salaries to city employés and not to school teachers was sent to Mayor Cermak last night by the south side teachers' organization.

"Since your illness city employés have received three pays, the teachers only one, although they are twice as far behind in overdue salaries," the message read. "City employés and teachers all need and deserve their salaries. We protest the discrimination against the teachers during your absence.

"The school tax levy has been reduced $15,000,000 and every demand of the citizens' committee has been met. Yet teachers still suffer. Your prompt reply to our previous radiogram cut red tape and procured our last cash pay. The south side teachers are grateful and, with faith in your fairness, again respectfully ask you immediate aid."

The message was prepared by Robert Keenan and Robert Russell. The organization will meet this afternoon in the Hayes hotel.

Meredith Hare, New York Attorney, Dies in Colorado

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Meredith Hare, 62, attorney and a member of one of New York's oldest families, died today at his summer home at Trinchera ranch, Fort Garland, Colo. Hare, a graduate of Yale and of Columbia law school, was a member of the Racquet and Cosmopolitan clubs and the Downtown association in New York. His widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Sage Hare, and son, David, survive.

Tourist Dies as He Drives His Auto Through Suburb

John Batts, 63 years old, 433 South Oak street, Pasadena, Cal., died at the wheel of his automobile yesterday afternoon as he was driving on Ogden avenue in La Grange. Heart disease was the cause of his death. He and his wife, Cora, had been touring the east and were on their way back to Pasadena.

In Memoriam.

COLEMAN—J. P. Coleman. In loving memory of our beloved, who passed away one year ago today, Aug. 19, 1931.
He bid no one a last farewell,
He said good-by to none;
His loving heart had ceased to beat,
Before we knew it he was gone.
He did not fail to do his best,
His heart was true and tender.
He worked hard for those he left,
And ever will be remembered.
LOVING WIFE, SON, DAUGHTERS, AND SISTERS.

Lovely Island Praised by All Visitors.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE news story in yesterday morning's TRIBUNE about David Alan Munro of Highland Park having been arrested on Wednesday with three other American colonists at Palma on the Island of Mallorca in the Balearic islands because there were too many Americans settling in the isles [the police were reported to have given this as the real reason for the arrests, although not having registered his passport was the reason on Mr. Munro's arrest warrant], reminds me of the many interesting things I have heard about Mallorca recently.

It really sounds like Paradise to hear it described by any one who has lived there long enough to know and love it, and it isn't any wonder that Americans who are living on incomes that have been reduced greatly have gone there to stay a month, a year or perhaps even indefinitely. There is no income tax, everything is so much less expensive than anything we Americans are accustomed to, in this country or abroad, and it is such a heavenly place with a beautiful climate for twelve months of the year that there has grown up an interesting colony on the island, mostly Americans and English.

Natives Object to 'High Life.'

One who has just come from there, having been there all winter, tells me that it is not the Americans who are there living quietly and simply that are causing the trouble, but the gayer ones who are having wild parties and generally showing the Mallorcans a bit of "high life" that they don't like at all.

Those who aren't taking part in this "high life" feel bad, of course, to have the Mallorcans get such a bad idea of Americans, for unfortunately the simple [I use the term in its nicest meaning] Mallorcans don't seem able to differentiate between good and bad "uns," as shown by the arrest of young Mr. Munro and Sibyl Sutton Vane, for they are not among those who are causing the trouble, so my informant assures me.

Mr. Munro is running Palma's one and only English language newspaper, the Palma Post. Both are serious in their work and anxious to keep Mallorca the charming little isle it has been for so many years, and they resent as much as any one the influx of Americans and Britishers who are there just for a "big time."

Munro Edits a Newspaper.

Mr. Munro is married to an attractive young Syrian and his mother, Mrs. Fayette S. Munro of Highland Park, is on her way now to visit her son and his wife. She will land at Palma next Tuesday. An interesting fact about the Mallorcan Theater guild is that in the first play it produced last winter, "The Dover Road," most of the players had been with the New York Theater guild, and Mrs. Holbrook Clarke, who spent the winter in Palma, tells me that it was a splendid production.

Mallorca isn't like the South Sea islands, you know, with nothing but the climate to enjoy, for it is near enough Barcelona for all the leading Spanish orchestras and artists and those from other countries, too, who visit Spain to go to Palma, and the cultural and artistic advantages there are unusual for such a small place.

Mrs. Ellen Dudley Root and her daughter, Denyse, and Mrs. Root's mother, Mrs. Peter Dudley, are among the Chicagoans at Mallorca now and when last heard from were enjoying life at Pollensa, an attractive little coast village where there is an interesting artists' colony. They plan to sail for New York on Sept. 8.

Hubert Osborne a Visitor There.

Hubert Osborne of Chicago is visiting the E. M. Harrises of New York at their villa at Bonanova, also on the coast. Mr. and Mrs. John M. Lester (Margaret Hately) who used to live in Chicago but who have been living in Devonshire, England, for some years, have a villa at Bonanova this year, and there are scores of other Americans and Britishers who are living quietly in the old Moorish villas along the coast of Mallorca.

Mrs. Charles Daniel Frey and Miss Betty Frey and the younger members of the family, Barbara and Charles Jr., are spending the summer at Mallorca, and so are the Gerald Wellesleys of London, Mrs. Wellesley being the former Betty Ball of Chicago.

Mrs. Susan Rowe Lord and Mrs. Frances Keyes Stillwell are two ex-Chicagoans who have a villa in Mallorca, having leased one last year on a three year lease, and the Robert Van Santa and their two children are among others who have deserted bustling Chicago for the quieter and calmer life of Mallorca, having been there for the last two years.

Freshmen Get Help of Juniors in Selection of College Wardrobes

The freshman-to-be is getting the help of juniors and seniors in the selection of a college wardrobe in Chicago's stores. The shops are displaying smart styles in practical garments for the student. Some of the popular models are, left to right: A teatime frock of black velvet; a crinkled satin crepe evening gown; a novelty tweed suit for campus wear; a stylish fur trimmed cloth coat and a three piece tweed suit trimmed with fur. The pictures were posed by college girls acting in the stores as consultants.

Girl's Fight to Forget Love Tragedy Is Theme of Novel

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"All I Could Never Be," by Anzia Yezierska. [Brewer, Warren & Putnam.] Published Aug. 12.

ANZIA YEZIERSKA is herself the heroine of a life story so intense and so full of drama that anything that comes from her pen must necessarily reflect that life. At 16, as an immigrant without money or one word of English and little education in her native tongue, she came to America. She is today recognized as a distinguished American novelist How she built the bridge across her ignorance single handed, unaided, almost inch by inch, by working all day in sweat shops and at any form of drudgery which was demanded of her and studying English at night, at times starving, without adequate clothing, without shelter, but always passionately intent upon learning, learning . . . the story of Anzia Yezierska is an epic in itself.

Any one who could do what she did with her life for the ideal of knowledge could never be anything but passionately honest in her use of the tools which she had fought to acquire.

Anzia Yezierska understands the poor. She understands the ambition which drives a certain type to sacrifice everything on earth for an ideal. She understands her own people, intense, emotional, goaded by some inner urge to deeds which sap body and mind. "Hungry Hearts," a volume of short stories, was one of the most poignant things ever written about the Anzias of the world. "Salome of the Tenements" was also memorable. "Bread Givers" was a bitter but terribly real picture of the dominance of the patriarchal father over his daughters and an unforgettable picture of a girl's struggle, passionate, intense, against poverty, hunger, and the bitterness of life so that she might gain an education.

"All I Could Never Be" has the same quality as Anzia Yezierska's former books have had—a quality of tenseness and passion toward life and especially of the acquisition of abstract knowledge. It is the story of just such a life as the author herself lived. Its heroine is a Ghetto girl who becomes a well known novelist, and the author has succeeded in making poignantly real that girl's eagerness for an education.

There is a love motif in "All I Could Never Be," the story of the love of the young immigrant for a college professor whom she idolizes and idealizes and whose interest in her proves to be not so ideal as she had dreamed of its being. To shake off the shackles of her love she turns to novel writing, unsuccessfully so far as freeing herself from her obsession is concerned, and in desperation she tries to return to her former life of drudgery.

In her analysis of the yearnings of a human soul for freedom from its inherited bondage, in her drawing of the terrific emotional tenseness of the heroine, Anzia Yezierska has been extremely successful. "Unhappiness, misery—they're like old clothes that fit me," the heroine says. "But joy and gladness are like silk and satin instead of the coarse cotton I'm used to. And so you must forgive me if, when I try to tell you how I rejoice, I can only weep and thrust on you the shadow of my unreasonable sorrow." And again, "I can't laugh. I won't laugh. I'm the product of abused generations that had laughter squeezed out of them."

At one time the heroine became a waitress and the author's setting down of the panorama which passed before her eyes is a skilled novelist's judgment of his inspiration. "Endless was the pageant of life," she writes, "the kaleidoscope of humanity between the kitchen and the dining room. Material enough for hundreds of stories—novels—plays. Here was the living stuff that cried for a new Dostoevski, a new Tolstoy to be born. Fanya saw it, felt it, but the power to express had vanished. Without Henry Scott she was dumb—impotent—a violin without a player—a hearth heaped high with fuel and no one to ignite it—a human being pulsing, sentient—bound to earth for want of one transforming breath of love." There is solid emotion in that paragraph.

That is the characteristic of "All I Could Never Be." It is not a great book. But it has strange emotional quality which gives it, like all Yezierska's work, honest, intense reality.

BY MAE TINEE.

Good Morning!

The powers who paired Kay Francis and William Powell for this gay, naughty-nice, romantic, melodramatic extravaganza, showed a shrewd sense of what's what. They have also proved to the world and the players themselves that these two popular brunettes are quite as able to trip a light, fantastic toe as to revolve in a dance macabre.

"The Jewel Robbery," though tuneless, is on the order of the sort of thing that Maurice Chevalier and Jeanette MacDonald accomplish so effectively with music. It relates the adventures of the beautiful, luxury and laughter loving wife of a dull baron and a Parisian Jimmy Valentine de luxe.

The two meet in amusing and sensational fashion in the jewel emporium where the baron is engaged in purchasing a famous diamond for his wife. They are immediately intrigued with one another. You are quite sure that The Robber will return the sparkler which he so politely separates from The Lady, but, unless your imagination works faster than mine, you will have simply no idea of the amazing cycle of events set in motion by the burglar's clandestine visit to the baroness!

The picture is treated throughout with merry casualness. Neither director nor players permit you to believe for a moment that they're taking themselves seriously. The story is the airiest of sophisticated froth and so is the dialogue.

You will find "The Jewel Robbery" as full of action as a Fairbanks film and staged with a luxuriousness that would make a De Mille's mouth water. The first scene shows the heroine in her bath, attended by as many nymphs as ever waited on Cleopatra. She is enveloped in creamy billows of suds like uncooked meringue, and there is about her then and from there on a positively sybaritic atmosphere. All softness, fragrance, laughter and languor is the Baroness Teri, with a surging undercurrent of pep that makes her doubly irresistible.

As for Mr. Powell, well—there is no beauty in the man, but surely he has everything else! He is as agile at traversing the roofs of Paris as he is adept at making love and brings to his Romeoing the sure, insouciant touch that has lent such glamour to his gunman exploits. The apt supporting cast pleases much.

"The Jewel Robbery" handed me an hour of real pleasure. I hope it may do the same for you.

McVicker's Theater Will Reopen with Celebration Today

The reopening of McVicker's theater at 10 o'clock this morning after many weeks of darkness will be celebrated by the State Street council. The first ticket will be sold by an official of the council. The Marx Brothers' new comedy, "Horsefeathers," is the opening feature picture. Reopening of the theater was hailed by Barney Balaban of Balaban & Katz as a sign of better times.

Bridge Players Offer Valuable Tips on Keeping Hands Pretty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"I have been messing around the garden and have to keep my fingers turned in," explained the west of the the bridge table.

"Why don't you dip the nails in cream before you go gardening?" North suggested.

South volunteers that if you just dig the nail into a cake of soap and let the under rims come off as much as they can take there won't be any finger alibis.

East, not the dummy she appears to be at the moment, moves that if you can't wear gloves to protect the hands, as she can't and won't, a good thing to do is to cover the hands with a good vanishing cream before attacking the dirty job.

"And I know a grand thing to whiten the skin," she adds. "A tablespoon of peroxide with a few drops of lemon added. I tried it on my elbows and it worked fine."

Thus we learn about hands and arms from the bridge table.

But grandmother's tiddlywinks table is good for a hand tip or two, useful at the moment. Grandmother knew there wasn't anything better than tomato juice to take off gardening and vegetable paring stains. Tomato juice she knew as a skin bleach better than as a cocktail. And cucumbers held a wealth of skin bleaching lore for her, too. If she wanted to get rid of an onion smell quickly she took a little mustard and rubbed it over her hands. And no sink in her well ordered kitchen was without its lemon half for rubbing hands over after the household duties.

And one of her, with as lovely hands as you ever saw, moonshaped nails and all, had her small bottle of olive oil in the same place, always ready for a hand massage after dishwashing and floor mopping duties.

For perspiring hands she used to recommend a few drops of tincture of benzoin to the wash basin.

Members of D. A. R. See Citizen Soldiers at Fort Sheridan

Three hundred members of the Daughters of the American Revolution yesterday attended the celebration in their honor at the citizens' military training camp at Fort Sheridan. The delegation was headed by Mrs. B. C. Van Leer, national defense chairman of the D. A. R., Mrs. David J. Peffers, state regent; and Mrs. A. J. Van Thielen.

The visitors were guests of the officers at an afternoon tea dance, and watched the camp members at drill and during the period of supervised athletics. The 2,000 citizen soldiers passed in review in the afternoon before the visitors and Maj. David B. Falk, executive officer of the camp.

Dr. Millikan Has Airplane Device to Record Ray

Pasadena, Cal., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Dr. Robert A. Millikan, relentless hunter of the cosmic ray, has set a new trap for these greatest of all energy messengers that come from the clouds in space. It is a very sensitive, self-recording electroscope, ten times as sensitive as any that he has hitherto known.

Within the month he expects to have it in flight in some of the highest flying military airplanes of the nation to see what can be learned about the source of the mysterious cosmic radiation, whose short wave length is the equivalent generating potential of upward of 500,000,000 volts.

The new electroscopes have been devised by Dr. Millikan, Prof. I. S. Bowen, and Prof. H. Victor Neher, three noted physicists. Not only are these electroscopes tenfold more efficient than those used in past research work, but the ingenious stability of their construction is such that they are unaffected by the vibration or moving platform of airplanes.

This, it is explained by the physicists, offers the opportunity for some very interesting observations in airplanes at high altitudes.

Juniors Help Freshmen Buy Their Clothes

Stores Present Displays of College Wardrobes.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

FEWER trunks and carry-alls will go to college this fall. But the few lucky pieces of baggage that do go in for higher education will be heavy with loot for the first important impressions. And the clothes that will be dragged out of the depths of these capacious trunks will be models that will start campus chatter and make any snooty roommate shrivel with envy.

College wardrobes are assembled in this era of specialists with the aid of super-consultants—sophmores, juniors, and even an occasional senior with a flare for clothes. These students give helpful hints in the way of proper and unostentatious but eye-filling wardrobes for the jittery new freshman to be.

Practically every smart shop in town is entertaining quite a few of these knowing aids for the perplexed and undecided.

You'll generally find these breezy young counselors intrenched in a room of their own, close to the various deb and subdeb departments, but they will shop all over the store with you and tell you all sorts of interesting clothes ideas while they shop.

For instance, do you know that the east is quite different from the west? Do you know that co-eds really go feminine on the western and midwestern campus, in the classrooms, and every day of the week? The answer is revealing—it's the male audience and because that masculine audience is missing at Smith and Vassar and at other female centers of learning the eastern college girls wear flat heeled walking shoes and strictly utilitarian apparel from Monday to Friday. But how they do dress for the week-ends.

But wherever you decide to enjoy your college education a typical wardrobe with necessary clothes for at least the first three months will be a knitted or angora sports suit or dress, or ensemble of sweater and blouse for campus wear; two afternoon dresses, a silk crêpe and a velvet affair that can double for dinner; a sheer wool daytime frock, one of the new models with the high sort-of-judicial collared type with white pleated silk detachable collar and cuffs.

All the girls who know insist upon a polo coat in every wardrobe. If an indulgent male parent offers a fur coat, grab it before the offer cools, and if you can coax a swanky fur trimmed suit or cloth coat from the maternal finance company you'll probably be able to do some swell coaxing elsewhere in time of need.

There'll be so many suede jackets on the campus that you'll look like an orphan unless you bring one. They are plenty good looking this season in deep red, old gold, and Irish green, and the natural colored kasha lining is a new warm idea.

Your conscience, stricken or not, will guide you in the delicate decisions about the number of evening gowns. The temptations are abundant. You'll see sophisticated clinging affairs of slinky satins, skin clinging gowns of that lustrous new Bagheera fabric, and devastating velvets, all made for slim young heartbreakers. They are equaled only by the collections of dangerously demure evening wraps, in most cases a mere yard or so of luxurious chiffon velvet, a handful of chic to cast over your shoulders and wrap coolly around your ribs.

What you sink in evening vanities you can take from the budget reserved for hats, for notwithstanding the yelping chorus that prophesies sudden destruction, sundry sniffles and other dire and doleful results of such cerebral exposure, the most timid seekers for knowledge still flourish lustily with air cooled brains. Hats have been known to tumble from a trunk, but two are all you'll need and one is enough if you have some berets.

Jewelry is left behind. An occasional necklace still can shock an unadorned crank about such things, but you can stow a pet pearl necklace, some maidenly earrings and some bracelets, and not be obstracized.

Your lounging outfits are something to stumble over unless you have expert illumination as to what a good college lounger wears. You'll wear either "roughies" for warmth or velveteen for swank and both brisk tailored pajamas and robes are fashioned of both these fabrics.

Take plenty of gloves, short, long, white, brown, and black. Handbags are only for town expeditions. What small change you jingle during the week lingers loosely in your pockets or, more conservatively, in a wee little flat envelope.

You save your laces and chiffons and fancies for week-ends and wear glove silk tailored lingerie for the daily grind and exercise and ice. Frigid females who shiver and shake one warm-hearted soul suggests those form fitting, wrinkleless wool wonders, the vassarettes.

You'll probably never again get the thrill out of a wardrobe that you do when you shop for these new college clothes, especially when such expert assistance is available and so many good looking things are displayed all with price marks that certainly prove that college going apparel can be distinctively original without excess expenditure.

PITY THE FAMILY THAT NEVER GETS DISH OF GREENS

With Lots of Corn Bread and Lots of Butter.

BY JEAN GUTHRIE.

It's the season for "greens."

There's only pity for the family that never has tasted them. Fresh and tangy in the flavor of themselves, the vitaminous leaves are more delectable if the mistress of the kitchen allies them with some ham, bacon, ham hocks, or that still humbler side meat known only as salt pork to those commercial-minded persons whose souls lack the poetry of cookery.

As for the greens, we can take beet tops, mustard, spinach, the smaller dandelion leaves, that other flavorsome plant called lamb's tongue by some, lamb's quarters by others. There are more, but their boon is not often vouchsafed city folks. Spend a week in the country now and you will receive a liberal education in the edibility of plant leaves.

Maybe Nebuchadnezzer was not mad, after all, when he ate grass!

How to Prepare It.

Whatever the plant, wash and drain the leaves. With small delicate varieties no water will be required for cooking other than the water which clings to the leaves. And now comes the dividing of the ways. Those who belong to the covered pan school hold forth for a heavy cooking pan with a lid which fits snugly, allowing the greens to steam tender in ten to fifteen minutes. For various reasons —especially if the washing water is soft instead of hard—this may cause some discoloration and darkening. On the other hand, flavor—if it isn't too strong in the first place—is often developed and improved by being retained by a cover. Large, coarser leaves should be cooked in about 2-3 cup of water, preferably uncovered, to allow any strong odors to be driven off.

When your sense of sight, taste, and smell and your wrist watch proclaim the leaves and stems tender and succulent, lift out, cut slightly if desired and serve dappled with fresh butter and dashes of salt and pepper. For a pleasant variation, when baby beets are in season, add to the greens a few small red ones, which have previously been cooked to the proper state of crisp tenderness.

Best in Southland.

You have to be from the south, or a farm, however, to know the finest mixture of all, greens and bacon drippings. Cooks from below the Mason and Dixon line, or from R. F. D. addresses almost anywhere, know how the men folks relish greens, cooked, drained, and then fried, but not browned, with bacon drippings.

With a surplus of greens to be had from markets, gardens, or friends in the country, many thrifty housewives this summer are going in for real greenery canning bees. The main difficulty seems to be that the more the greens the more the sand, and the more the sand the more the sloshing necessary if we would avoid gritty eating in January. So far, however, it has been difficult to persuade the lord and master (so-called) that the sand in his responsibility to be removed as his ingenuity devises. And since that quality is doubtless at low ebb after a strenuous season at golf, a story in point arrives just in time to save the situation.

Cans Four Bushels.

From a Connecticut farm a woman has just written a Chicago friend: "I have just had to can four bushels of beet greens for winter eating with bacon drippings—like the ones we had when you were here, so I made George wash them in the electric washing machine and he was only too glad to do it, because he never favored doing them by hand. If you were here now we would have some, with corn bread."

Her last sentence strikes the climax, but she didn't mention the butter. Lots of greens, lots of corn bread, but lots and lots of butter, and then let come what may on the morrow! Today we have dined.

FROZEN CUSTARD PERFECT CLIMAX TO AUGUST MEAL

Vary Delicious Dessert with Tempting Flavors.

A few weeks ago I told you about our new bulletin of recipes for frozen desserts adapted to the mechanical refrigerator. There were so many calls that a reprint has been made, and now there are plenty for everybody. Please accompany your request with a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BY MARY MEADE.

In your hunt for cool climaxes for summer meals have you been thinking in terms of custards? Not baked or boiled ones, but smooth, refreshing frozen delicacies with the combined goodness of eggs and milk to do chilly things to the palate?

Naturally you've counted Philadelphia ice cream among your list of friends for as long as you've had domestic leanings. For its rich lusciousness makes it one of the most highly honored forbears of the frozen dessert family. But in the last few years, with mechanical refrigeration becoming the rule instead of the exception, a good sized army of cold custard relatives has appeared, which almost promises one a different frozen dessert for every day in the year.

Answer to Problem.

But flavor and the long, cool, slipping sensation which are the glories of frozen custards aren't all the jewels in their crowns. In these days when it's almost too hot even to eat we can always seem to find a way to luxuriate in cold vegetables. But too much coldness with little food value—a combination we find in fruit ices and drinks—is rather an unsatisfactory diet, so frozen custards answer the problem perfectly with a good balance of sugar, eggs, and rich milk solids offered at their frostiest and best.

Flavors and variations in these French custards are wide and alluring. Frozen pineapple and maraschino, frozen mint, even frosty nut custards, tutti frutti puddings, and maple creams are to be had for the freezing.

FROZEN HONEY CUSTARD.

Simply delightful for bridge on a hot day! To prepare it beat the yolks of four eggs until very light. Add a pinch of water and one-eighth teaspoon of salt. Turn into a double boiler and cook two minutes over boiling water, stirring constantly. Cool and whip in two cups of evaporated milk and one cup of strained honey. Freeze in a one-to-eight salt-ice mixture or in trays of a mechanical refrigerator. In the latter stir twice during freezing.

FROZEN VANILLA CUSTARD.

This simple custard may be used as a treat in itself or as a point of departure for several other delicacies. It calls for:

1 can evaporated milk
4 teaspoons cornstarch
2 cups milk, scalded
4 egg yolks
2-3 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Place the evaporated milk in a pan of cold water, bring to a boil and boil five minutes. Chill immediately until cold. Mix the cornstarch with the sugar and stir into the scalded milk in a double boiler. Cook with frequent stirrings about fifteen to twenty minutes, then add the egg yolks and cook four minutes. Stir in the vanilla and chill in a refrigerator tray. When cold whip the evaporated milk till stiff and fold into the custard. Return the custard to the tray and freeze three to four hours.

MINT CUSTARD.

Here's the first variation from the just-given custard. Omit one-half the sugar, and just before cooling the thickened custard beat in one-third pound of crushed after dinner mints. Stir well until dissolved, chill as before, fold in the whipped, evaporated milk, and freeze.

PINEAPPLE CHERRY CUSTARD.

This dessert also starts with the vanilla custard given above. Just before folding the whipped milk into the cold custard add three-fourths cup of chopped maraschino cherries, one-half cup of drained crushed pineapple and one-half cup finely chopped pecans. Turn into the refrigerator tray and freeze.

Hot Waffles Take the Cake When Cool Fall Days Arrive

BY FLORA MARTIN.

Unless there is unseasonable heat we'll soon be putting our summer togs as well as our warm weather menus in storage for another year. So let's have at least one cool weather dish ready as soon as the weather warrants it.

What would be a better treat for the cooler days than waffles, served hot off the iron? They're one of the chummiest and most informal of foods for hostesses who delight in having a few friends drop in for a jolly early Sunday morning breakfast, Sunday evening supper or for a luncheon during the week.

Recipe for Plain Waffles.

There are countless different kinds of waffles that can be served. The plain waffle can be made as follows:

Sift 1½ cups pastry flour with ½ teaspoon salt, 3 teaspoons baking powder, and 1 tablespoon sugar. Beat 2 eggs thoroughly and add 1 cup milk and 1 tablespoon melted butter. Stir the liquid quickly into the dry ingredients and keep stirring until the flour just disappears. Pour only enough batter into a hot waffle iron to fill and then bake to a golden brown. This recipe will supply you with six servings.

By adding and omitting a few ingredients in the above recipe one can have almost any kind of a waffle. A cheese waffle may be made by stirring in 2 tablespoons of grated American cheese at the last and omitting half of the fat. Cornmeal waffles are made by substituting cornmeal for half of the flour; apple sauce waffles by using only half of the portion of milk and half a cup of sweetened apple sauce stirred into the liquid. For chocolate waffles substitute three tablespoons of cocoa for an equal amount of the flour.

Pecans May Be Used.

Although those variations should keep the waffle iron working overtime, you might also remember that the addition of 1-3 cup of finely chopped pecans to the foundation recipe just before baking will turn out a tasty pecan waffle. A bacon combination is excellent, too, and can be made by substituting ¼ cup of minced bacon for the fat in the recipe.

Another idea worth trying is to sprinkle two or three tablespoons of minced bacon or ham over the top of the plain waffle just before putting the lid of the iron down. And, of course, you'll want to try a bacon, tomato, and lettuce sandwich some time, using the waffle quarters instead of toasted bread.

HOUSEHOLD HINT.

A small dish of charcoal placed in the corner in the refrigerator will absorb all odors. The charcoal should be renewed every two or three weeks.

A PANTRY CREAM RECIPE

For Sunday Nite Suppers

Tomato Rarebit

2 Tablespoons Butter	½ Pound Longhorn Cheese (grated)
2 Tablespoons Flour	2 Eggs well beaten
1 Can PANTRY TABLE CREAM	½ Teaspoon Salt
1 Cup Tomato Juice	½ Teaspoon Mustard
¼ Teaspoon Soda	⅛ Teaspoon Cayenne

Melt the butter in a double boiler and add the flour. Add the PANTRY TABLE CREAM gradually and cook until thick. Then add the tomato juice that has been mixed with the soda. TIME OF YEAR TO PAY ATTENTION TO GRAPE ARBOR

Has Interest for Both Sides of the Home.

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

Just about this time of the year a glance at the grape crop prospects holds interest for the housewife planning for preserves, jams, and jellies made with grapes, and interests as well the man of the house who may have renewed aspirations in the way of acquiring soothing or exciting grape juice concoctions.

The juice grape crop in California, designated in official market reports as "the wine grape," is estimated as a total of 383,000 tons. Prices in Chicago for the 26 pound lugs sold from freight cars are expected to be near the freight and handling charges per box, or about 75 cents to a dollar.

The largest grape harvest in California is represented in the raisin grape, having this year a prospective yield of 1,133,000 tons. The table grape yield in California will be approximately 308,000 tons.

Larger Harvest Expected.

The Chicago market deals with other states each fall when grapes ripen. Much of the supply here for various types of preserves and juices comes from Michigan. The harvest, which will be at its height about Sept. 15, will be around 70,000 tons, or more than 12,000 tons in excess of last year.

The main crop in Michigan is the well known blue skinned Concord grape. Varieties from California range in color from white to red and black. The principal juice grapes of that state are either of the black or white varieties, including the black alicante, mission, barbera, and mataro. The white juice grape of the muscat variety is known best in Chicago.

Supply to Be Plentiful.

Table grapes have been prominent in fruit displays for more than a month, starting with the white seedless, and now including the ribier, black, and the red malaga and tokay. From now until early spring, when fresh grape supplies are imported in sawdust packed casks from South America, the variety and supply will be plentiful and low in price, dealers anticipate.

USE OF UNCOMMON VEGETABLES AIDS IN PROVIDING VARIETY

By using a few of the more uncommon vegetables the housewife can add many attractive dishes to her menu and provide a varied diet, suggests Miss Ruth Cessna, specialist in foods and nutrition at Iowa State college.

Standard vegetables such as peas, beans, and tomatoes always will be the mainstay in the diet, but other vegetables can be used for a variety and when combined with commonly used ones provide new ways of serving. Among the unusual recipes which Miss Cessna suggests are: Carrot custard, steamed carrot pudding, orange and carrot marmalade, American chop suey, chives soup, sautéed eggplant, escaloped eggplant, stuffed endive, parsley vegetable casserole with cheese, and escaloped salsify.

U. S. DIETITIANS SOCIETY TO MEET IN GOTHAM NOV. 7

The fifteenth annual convention of the American Dietetic association will be held in New York City at the Pennsylvania hotel, Nov. 7-10. About eight hundred dietitians of the United States and Canada are expected to attend.

Among the speakers will be Dr. Henry C. Sherman, and Dr. Mary Swartz Rose, Columbia university; Dr. Lafayette B. Mendel, Yale University Medical school; Dr. Alfred F. Hess, New York City; and Dr. Paul E. Howe, Washington, D. C. Inspection trips to hospitals, markets, foreign restaurants and colleges have been arranged.

Round Steak, Ham, Pork Selling at Low Prices

In its regular weekly report issued for the guidance of consumers the committee on marketing information of the Meat Council of Chicago states: "Round steak is recommended to the housewife of Chicago as an unusually economical buy in retail meat stores during the coming week-end. Smoked hams and fresh pork shoulder roasts also are selling at attractive prices at the present time."

Ready-to-Serve, But Rich in Vital Food Elements

The problem of getting children to eat plenty of nourishing food is more simple than you think. Try this: Don't force them. Short rations for a few days will arouse a keen interest in the most unwilling eater . . . and serve "ZO," the great vitamin cereal, each meal. It actually helps create appetite by supplying necessary elements lacking in the modern diet. It is extra-rich in food values growing children need. Food iron for rosy cheeks! Food lime to build good white teeth and straight sturdy legs! Vitamins B and G from the actual wheat germ to protect health. The whole family will delight in "ZO's" crunchy bits of goodness. Why not try "ZO" for breakfast tomorrow? At your grocer's for only..... 15c

I Like You So Much

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Gold Franklyn calls Dr. Elverton, who has a surgery in a poor district of London, to attend her indolent, dependent, young half brother. The doctor offers to give Barney Pierce, a well to do accident victim, a lift to his destination, and Pierce waits while the doctor makes his call. He catches a glimpse of the pretty creature who summoned the doctor. Pierce determines to help the plucky young orphan girl. The doctor is to sail the next week to New York and Havana on a leave, taking the ship doctor's place. Mrs. Doria Hathaway, a widow, friend of Pierce's, is to sail on the same boat. She wants a maid-companion for the Atlantic crossing. The doctor sends Gold to see Mrs. Hathaway and she gets the job. Pierce regrets putting Gold under the demoralising influence of the mercenary Doria. He decides to sail himself. David Dorrance, who wants to interest Pierce in a business deal, sails on the same boat. Gold is angered by Pierce's cynicism and distrust of women. Gip Allen, Gold's half brother, stows away on the boat. Pierce overhears Gip threatening Gold and, unknown to her, arranges to get Gip third class passage, and from New York sends him to his Texas lumber camp for a six months' try out. Gold accepts Dorrance's offer of a position as his secretary on the Havana trip. She also does some work for Pierce, under Dorrance's instructions, but refuses compensation from Pierce. Nevertheless, he places five hundred dollars to her account in the bank. Dorrance wants Gold to make a better appearance and gives her a special dress allowance. Dr. Elverton and Doria fall in love and become engaged. Doria has a last fling at gambling and loses her own and borrowed money. She appeals to Gold for rescue and Gold writes her a check for five hundred dollars.

INSTALLMENT XLVII.

SALVATION.

"If you can lend me the money, Gold," said Doria, "I can settle everything. I'd pay back what I borrowed in the casino and keep back enough for my bill at the Biltmore, and it would all blow over. Burke won't notice about my rings. He doesn't like me in a lot of jewels anyway." Now she sat back on the floor, relaxed against Gold's knees, and dried her eyes. "Thank you, dear," she cried, on a wave of gratitude, "but—but—about paying you back——"

"There are special circumstances, Doria; you don't have to pay."

"But, dear, when I'm Mrs. Burke Elverton I'm turning over a new leaf and keeping a conscience."

"Perhaps. But this is just a sum of money that you don't need to repay."

"I expect Burke will do all my accounts from now on," sighed Doria, humbly, "and it will be difficult to squeeze it out——"

"Doria. Be quiet. This is a gift."

"My God! You're so splendid, dear! How on earth can you——?"

"It doesn't matter. It's a sacrifice of a bit of pride; that's all, and not much of that, as long as it's not spent on myself."

She got up and found the check book that had lain untouched in a drawer since its delivery.

Then for the first time in her life Gold Franklyn wrote out a check.

"Isn't that funny, Doria? The first time in my life I sign a check it is for the rich Mrs. Hathaway!"

He looked as usual, lord of the earth.

"Ah, you darling! But I expect, Gold, you'll soon be signing lots of checks on your own account. You'll be a great business woman; very successful. Won't that be grand?"

"Yes, it'll be grand," Gold answered, and handed the check to Doria, who was now on her feet, color back in her round face, her brown eyes tender and dewy with their washing of tears.

"Me, all I want is to be happy with Burke," Doria murmured, "no more ambition."

"You aren't unique!"

"Why do you give me this money, you darling dear?" begged Doria at the door.

"I promised you I'd do anything I could for you at any time you came and asked me, because you offered me the loan of your lovely things."

"You didn't take my loan. I've taken your gift." She recalled: "I said I should."

"And then, Doria, it's because you looked so happy this morning! So happy! You must hold on to happiness like that. I daren't refuse anything I could contribute to it."

"Of course, I'm happy, too."

"You ought to be," said Doria, a little hesitant and puzzled over this girl she now called friend. "Good night, dear," she said in her warm voice that had the little croon in it.

She was gone.

Gold threw the check book down on the writing bureau after she had shut the outer door on Doria. So Barney Pierce's money had gone! "But not for myself," she thought, "I kept my word." She began thinking again over that sum of five hundred dollars; a large sum for her services; and yet not so enormous, perhaps, for a rich man to reward a girl who had worked hard and intelligently for his temporary convenience. She felt soft all over, and vulnerable, and almost as if she could cry like Doria. And her mood was shamefully uncertain, variable and bewildered for a woman who should be equipping her mind to enter big business. When she lay in bed presently she dreamed of tomorrow, of the party at Plaza de Mariano, which, Dorrance had said, should be the best of all.

A specially busy day ensued before that party. Dorrance's apartment hummed with telephone calls, and the voices of visitors and the tinkle of ice in long drinks. Those pleasant men in their tropical white, those men who looked so dark and lazy and easy, and were—she knew now—keen as razors, were in and out all day. Barney Pierce came in: "Letters, Barney?" said Dorrance. "Miss Franklyn will do them."

They were in the smaller reception room of the apartment, the room which she and Dorrance used as an office. There Barney stood, as it had become so usual for him to stand, near her, hands in pockets. His white clothes were excellently tailored, his hard face dark as bronze, darker than his hair, and his light gray eyes. He looked, as usual, lord of the earth.

They were more than an hour over the score of letters.

He was different this morning; he was still lord of the earth and yet there was a kind of jubilation about him, satisfaction, content—she did not know.

As her pencil jabbed at the writing pad for the last word, he said, abruptly:

"I believe this is going to be a good party tonight."

"So I'm told."

"You'll dance with me most of the time, won't you?"

"I don't know," she said, "it's my duty to please everybody."

"But I'm somebody to be pleased."

His voice was light and gay; no cynicism in it. She looked up at him. "Of course I know that. You're going to be closely connected with our firm."

"'Our firm.' So you are holding on to Dorrance?"

"With teeth and claw!" she laughed.

"He thinks a great deal of you," said Barney, abruptly. "I know. He told me. You're going to have the opportunity to become a real business woman. Is that your highest end and aim?"

"It is my highest end and aim. It's my ambition."

He took this lightly, too. "I've interesting news," he said, "Elverton is to marry Doria Hathaway as quickly as it can be arranged."

"I knew that last night."

"So he's got what he wants."

"Did you know he wanted it?"

"I'm surprising you, child. I knew it from about the first night out from England in the Mercuria."

"But——"

"Go on!" said Barney, "go on! go on!"

"But surely he knew that you——"

"Elverton doesn't make many mistakes, either. He knew what I wanted from the first night out, if he didn't know it before."

"Before?"

"You see, he knows I am in love with a girl I saw in London. That doesn't matter at the moment. What matters is: You're going to dance with me at this party."

"Thank you, Mr. Pierce."

He laughed out at that, but gently. His eyes were shining. He looked pleased; more pleased than she had ever seen him. "What are you going to wear?" he asked.

What a trivial question to come from him—asking a woman what she was going to wear! As if he cared!

"White."

"White!" That's something new, then." His voice still vibrated with pleasure.

Many Chicago Residents Go to Mallorca

Lovely Island Praised by All Visitors.

Noyes, becomes the bride of George Towner Senseney on Thursday, Sept. 8, at 5 o'clock in St. Chrysostom's church, she will be attended by a large retinue, including her cousin, Mrs. Rodman Griscom III. [Betty Golt] of Tucson, Ariz., as matron of honor, and Mrs. John H. Noyes, her sister-in-law; Mrs. Joseph Brooks [Alicia Patterson] of New York, Mrs. Michelson Dick, Mrs. James W. Rogers, Miss Betty Scriven, Miss Katharine Kales, Mrs. Lloyd Laflin and Miss Pauline Davis as bridesmaids.

John Senseney of St. Louis will be his brother's best man and among the ushers will be John H. Noyes, David Leavitt and George Artemonoff of Chicago, and Howard O'Fallon of St. Louis. The service is to be read by the Rev. Dudley Stark and is to be followed by a reception at the Lake Shore drive apartment of the bride's parents.

Among those I saw having luncheon yesterday at the Palmer house were the former "Ginny" Carpenter and her husband, "Pat" Hill, that attractive young couple who look enough alike to be brother and sister instead of husband and wife. They had just reached town from Charlotte, Vt., where they have been with Mrs. Hill's father, John Alden Carpenter, and are to be in Mr. Carpenter's town house on Rush street until autumn when they will return to their home in Fort Worth. Mr. Carpenter is expected to return to Chicago in about a week.

Yacht Races at Lake Geneva.

Yesterday was gorgeous at Lake Geneva—here, too—and although the stiff breeze had enough of an autumn tinge to it to make polo coats and heavy sweaters necessary for those who watched the Inland Lakes regatta from about twenty-five speed boats, it also made the races the most exciting and picturesque of any so far this week.

Charles Edwards of the Lake Geneva Yacht club was first in the class C race in the O-MI-O-Mi and "Bill" Graves of the White Bear club was the winner in the class E race, sailing the Falcon. The class A race in the afternoon was won by Charles Bell of Minneapolis in the Sally Too.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Reynolds will arrive in Chicago this morning from a prolonged sojourn abroad, and in a week or so they'll say good-by to their large circle of friends here and go west to take up their permanent residence in southern California. Their apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive will be closed before their departure.

Miss Florence Carr has returned to Shadowbridge, the Lake Forest estate of her father, Robert F. Carr, after a fortnight's visit at Watch Hill, R. I., with Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Marston of New York, whose son, Edgar Marston, has been a popular figure in younger social circles since he took a position in Chicago about a year ago.

Everett Wymans to Return Today.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett L. Wyman will return to Lake Forest today after a visit in Nantucket with Mrs. Wyman's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Griffith Mark. Her father, Clayton Mark, is staying on in the east for a few weeks.

Mrs. John L. Senior is chairman of the committee in charge of a card party for the benefit of the Chicago Lying-In hospital, to be given this afternoon at Mrs. Robert J. Thorne's residence in Lake Forest. Also on the committee are Mrs. Thorne, Mrs. Joseph M. Patterson, Mrs. Morris L. Johnston, and Mrs. William R. Odell.

A special meeting and tea was held on Wednesday at the residence of Mrs. John Nuween Jr. in Kenilworth to introduce new north shore members of the Chicago Connecticut College club.

Many Attend Supper-Dance.

The largest party at the Thursday buffet supper-dance at the Drake last night was one given by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Skeel for their house guest, Miss Betty Schmidtbaur of Milwaukee, and Miss Betty Keck of Syracuse, N. Y., the fiancée of their nephew, Dwight Simmons of Kenilworth.

It was a gay party of young people and included in it were Miss Charlotte Hinds of Syracuse, who is visiting the family of her fiancé, Francis Truman, in Evanston; Miss Frances Clark of Oak Park, Miss Dorothy Campbell, Miss Charlotte Moody, Miss Mary Will Riley, Miss Betty Sackett, Dwight and Wells Simmons, Mr. Truman, Robert Nelson, Ralph Whitsett, Tom Wigglesworth, Harry Stone, and Jack Higbee.

Last night's party at the Drake was a particularly festive one, with many more guests than there were places for, and numerous extra tables had to be set up. Horton Conrad and his bride, the former Betty Knode, were there; also the young Richard Flemings and several others of the "young-marrieds."

The Gustave Hesserts had a party of nine.

What a Game! Sally's Guests See Cubs Win

Enjoy 15 Innings of Baseball Thrills.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Fifteen innings of marvelous baseball, one of the those large portions being served these days at Wrigley field, provided an exciting party for my hundred young guests yesterday afternoon. A day full of thrills it was and they began just before the start of the game when we went down to the field to have our pictures taken with Charlie Grimm, new Cubs' manager and latest baseball hero.

For the first nine innings it was just another baseball game, apparently in bag for the Cubs, but the Braves fooled us just about the time the game should have been over. They got another run and the score was tied. If you should ask one hundred boys and girls they'd all tell you there's nothing more exciting than a major league ball game with a tie in the ninth.

For six more innings both teams struggled and fought, the Cubs even changing pitchers twice for pinch hitters. There were tense moments when it looked as if the Braves were going to leave the Cubs one run behind and win the game, but at the critical point somebody committed an error or somebody else filed out and it was time for another inning, the score still three to three.

In the twelfth inning Charlie Grimm doubled again and we took heart as we did each time in the succeeding innings when there was a single or a double or a bunt and our hopes weren't realized until the last half of that memorable fifteenth when Stephenson struck the blow that won the game.

A lot of innings we saw and it was just the kind of a game we had set our hearts on. The band playing somewhere in the grand stand . . . shaking hands with Charlie Grimm . . . watching that picturesque Guy Bush . . . that tense moment in the ninth inning when the score was tied—these were some of the high lights in a grand game that sent my guests home happy. Do you wonder that we thought it one of the best in a summer of thrilling parties?

Some Children Don't Develop in Group Work

Shine When Taught Individually.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Once upon a time long, long ago, the child who was to be well educated was given a tutor, often an eminent scholar. Now he goes to big buildings with thousands or hundreds of children and studies with a larger group of other boys or girls, or both.

Some children fit that sort of life well, are stimulated by it and learn better so. But do all? At this question, we may begin to think of ourselves or some other child who does not. "But," we imagine, "that's a rare exception." Are we right in thinking so?

Some experiments were made several months ago on 1,200 children selected from the first five grades of the Wilkes-Barre, Pa., public schools. Half of these were considered "dull," the other half "bright."

This is what was done. These children were given an intelligence test in groups of 30. After that a month was allowed to elapse and the test was given again, but this time to each child alone.

What happened? All the children did better when tested individually, both the bright and the dull. But the improvement was as 4 to 1 in favor of the dull ones. What did this mean? Other ways were devised to testing high school students and their reaction to group and also individual work, with similar results.

The conclusion reached was that some children work better in a group, while others work better individually—are actually handicapped by working in a group. As a result some children are branded as stupid or mentally backward all through their school lives when they may not be fitted for group education.

But the point the director of guidance made after this interested me still more. He said that we think of success in a school group as a prophecy of what success a boy or girl will meet with in adult life. But that most occupations are of an individual nature and that the social contacts at work are apt to be more often between individuals than between members of a large group.

Some children with fine minds do not develop in group work and so he believes we should definitely provide some means for individual attention to these children.

Two Hollywood Wives Become Film Authors

Story May Be Used for Garbo's Return.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 18.—Two wives of well known and successful Hollywood husbands have put one over on the spouses by collaborating on a movie story which they have sold to M.-G.-M. for much money and which may be the comeback vehicle for Greta Garbo. The wives are Mrs. Albert Shelby Levino, otherwise known as Margaret [or Peg] Levino, and Mrs. Berthold Viertel. Mrs. Levino's husband is a well known American scenarist. Mrs. Viertel's husband is a well known German director.

The story they wrote jointly and sold to M.-G.-M. is tentatively titled "Christina" and is about the beautiful, but not dumb, daughter of Gustavus Adolphus. Garbo may start work on it in October. In the meantime Bess Meredyth is at work on the screen adaptation.

Now that Mrs. Ann Alvarado has tucked her final decree of divorce into her pocket, and taken over the custody of the couple's 7 year old child, handsome Don Alvarado and Marily Miller are being seen together in the cafés more publicly than ever. Marilyn is going to New York to play in another musical comedy this fall, but whether they will announce their engagement or whether Don will go east also, when Marilyn does, is not known because repeated inquiries have failed to bring a word from either Marilyn or Don.

Edward R. Small of Reliance Pictures has taken an option on film rights of Max Miller's "I Cover the Waterfront," and Small announces he is planning to make the San Diego reporter's best seller into a film. It will be necessary to devise some thread of plot to weave Miller's incidents together. Things are booming for the tall good looking but bashful San Diego youth whose book has hit its seventh printing. He was signed by the Columbus Film corporation last Monday to turn out some screen originals.

Edmund Lowe will be cast as the central figure in the film version of "I Cover the Waterfront," according to Small's announcement, as soon as Lowe finishes "Mayor Harding of New York." The deal for the book rights is being made with Hutton, the book publisher, by Small.

Bushy Berkeley, dance director for Eddie Cantor's "Kid from Spain," admits he earns at least $250 a week in papers filed in connection with the alimony litigation of Esther Enos, actress, his ex-wife. "Bus" filed a legal paper in which he advanced the thought that Miss Enos could, and should, support herself, but the court told him to come forward with $300 and that the fate of the other $3,700 asserted arrears claimed by Miss Enos would be gone into in later hearings.

Mushy Callahan, the Los Angeles boxer, didn't know whether to be glad or sad when told he had been chosen for a bigger rôle than the other boxers in Paramount's cast for "Madison Square Garden." Callahan's part requires him to be knocked out by Jack Oakie, and the director thought Mushy, of all the boxers, looked the most realistic in a kayo pose.

GASOLINE ALLEY—MIDNIGHT SHOW

WASHINGTON, CROSSING NEW JERSEY WITH CORNWALLIS BEHIND HIM, REACHED THE DELAWARE RIVER AT TRENTON AND PUT THAT RIVER BETWEEN HIS TROOPS AND THE BRITISH ARMY. AS WASHINGTON HAD TAKEN ALL THE BOATS WITH HIM CORNWALLIS DIDN'T CROSS BUT LEFT HIS HESSIAN SOLDIERS IN TRENTON AND RETIRED TOWARD NEW BRUNSWICK TO WAIT FOR THE RIVER TO FREEZE OVER.
AND THIS IS THE SPOT, NINE MILES ABOVE TRENTON, WHERE WASHINGTON MADE HIS FAMOUS CROSSING OF THE DELAWARE TO ATTACK THE HESSIANS.
I'D HAVE USED THE BRIDGE.
WASHINGTON'S CROSSING PARK.
HERE ON CHRISTMAS NIGHT, 1776, WITH THE RIVER FULL OF FLOATING ICE, THE AMERICAN FORCES LANDED ON THE NEW JERSEY SIDE AND MARCHED TOWARD TRENTON.

LABORATORY YIELDS NEW FACTS ON KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN

Its "Bulk" and Vitamin B Help Relieve Constipation; Also Has Blood-building Iron

New laboratory experiments demonstrate that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has sufficient "bulk" to exercise the intestines, as well as Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract.

In addition, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

Now you can overcome common constipation by this pleasant "cereal way," and banish the headaches, backaches, loss of appetite and energy that so frequently result.

No need to worry along with pills and drugs, which often lead to harmful habits.

Instead, just eat two tablespoonfuls daily of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—adequate for most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved in this way see your doctor. The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Special processes make ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable. It is not habit-forming. Equally tasty as a cereal, or used in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Hard to Analyze Girl Who Sues an Ex-Fiance

Money Won't Mend an Injured Heart.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Would a girl that really loved a man sue him for breach of promise if the man has found out there can be no happiness between them and he advises her to leave him for some one else?

"There is a child involved. The man is a widower. Would the girl, if she loved the man, want to drag him and his child through a court suit? J. B."

The one kind of girl or woman whose emotions are beyond analysis is the kind who sues or threatens to sue for breach of promise. She's a species not understood at all by this particular adviser. We couldn't give an unprejudiced answer. We feel that any girl who, for her own sake, wouldn't avoid the breach of promise court hasn't much feeling to appeal to. We may be wrong. We know we're wrong in certain cases where men have led girls on to believe for years that they would marry them. We know we're wrong where men have kept the girl from other opportunities. Nevertheless, we still claim that a breach of promise suit has an odor about it that is hard to down.

There is this slight consolation to a man who wants to get out of an engagement without a suit. The court returns are rather poor of late days. It isn't the racket it used to be. Still, that doesn't save a man's love letters from being read before a tittering jury, does it?

We can't even say that a girl doesn't love a man because she brings a suit against him. Love is made up of peculiar ingredients, sometimes. Revenge is certainly involved in the emotion where a breach of promise suit is brought. And the fury of the woman scorned. But it isn't the kind of love we like to read about, we like to believe in.

Men are at such a disadvantage where getting out of an engagement is concerned. A girl may break one without the slightest dent in her pocketbook, ever. Where a suit is threatened, it is better to wait awhile and see if the gods won't send the woman a substitute suitor before you talk marriage to another woman. We note that most of the suers can bear up until a rival woman appears on the scene.

New Capelet Shoulder Effect Charming Feature of Youthful Cotton Blouse

WOMAN'S AND MISS' BLOUSE.

A new capelet shoulder effect gives charm to this youthful blouse, and it should be delightfully cool. A tub silk in primrose yellow made the original blouse, which was worn with a white tub silk skirt. Embroidered organdy, dotted voile, and batiste are lovely materials for summer days.

The pattern, 2929, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 1¾ yards of 35 inch material.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover have as their guests at the White House Mrs. Thomas A. Edison and her daughter, Mrs. John E. Sloane of South Orange, N. J., who will remain for a few days and accompany their hosts to the camp in the Rapidan for a week-end visit.

Brig. Gen. George S. Simonds, commanding officer at Washington barracks succeeding Gen. William D. Connor, who is now in command at West Point, has arrived with Mrs. Simonds and their daughters, the Misses Frances and Marjorie, and are established at the barracks. They have recently returned from Europe, where the general was military adviser to the American delegation to the disarmament conference at Geneva. The two daughters graduated from school last year and will be among the Washington debutantes the forthcoming season.

James Cunningham Becomes Chairman of Armour Institute

James D. Cunningham has been named chairman of the board of the Armour Institute of Technology, following the resignation of Philip D. Armour, grandson of the founder, it was announced yesterday. Mr. Cunningham has been identified with the institute since 1923 and chairman of the development committee since last September.

The development plan which Mr. Cunningham's committee put into operation has been approved by engineers and educators.

Mr. Cunningham was formerly president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association. He is now president of the Republic Flow Meters company and is a member of the Western Society of Engineers and of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

72 Bells for U. of C. Chapel Arrive Here

Custom Officials Impose Duty of $32,821.

Hear the tolling of the bells—
Iron bells!
What a world of solemn thought
Their monody compels!

Seventy-two bells, forming carillon to be installed in the Gothic chapel of the University of Chicago as the gift of John D. Rockefeller Jr., arrived in the East Chicago yards yesterday. They were weighed and assessed by customs officials, who imposed a duty of $32,821. Still carried on three flat cars and one box car, they continued their journey through switching yards and are due to arrive at 73d street and Stony Island avenue at dawn today to be unloaded.

The bells will be unloaded and carried to the chapel beginning today, and their installation in three bell chambers in the tower is to be begun next week, as soon as the steel structure that supports them has been erected. Work on the installation and the carillon control mechanism will require more than three months, university officials said, but it is hoped that the bells will be heard for the first time on Christmas morning.

On the side of the largest bell, which weighs some 36,926 pounds and has a diameter of 117 inches, there is an inscription that reads: "In loving memory of my mother, 1839-1915, this carillon is given. John D. Rockefeller Jr." The large bell is tuned to C sharp, completing a scale of 5½ octaves encompassed by the range from the smallest bell, which weighs but 10½ pounds. The total weight of the carillon is 220 tons. The bells were made in Croydon, England.

The bells will complete the $2,000,000 chapel given by Mr. Rockefeller and dedicated four years ago. The building is situated on the Midway, at Woodlawn avenue, and was designed by Bertram Grosvenor Goodhue, the noted Gothic architect. The chapel tower was designed for the carillon, which is the second largest in the world. It will be heard for a distance of three miles and maye be heard in the loop when there is a south wind.

The bell ringer to play the carillon is to be selected from among the student body of the bell ringing school at Malines, Belgium, by Mack Evans, university choir master, and Dr. Charles Gilkey, dean of the chapel. They are in Europe now for that purpose. The program for the carillon has not been compiled, but will have to be arranged to complement the chimes from the Alice Freeman Palmer memorial bells in Mitchell tower, which sound the hour and hymns thrice daily, and the chimes of the First Unitarian church, at 57th street and Woodlawn avenue.

Artists Get $15,000 for Works in Sale Held in Grant Park

Cash proceeds from the sale of art work at the outdoor show in Grant park amounted to more than $15,000, according to the estimates last night of Cati Mount, promoter of the venture. The show opened on Aug. 6 with 56 artists, but before the close last night there were 275 exhibitors.

When cash was not forthcoming some of the artists traded their works for rent, clothing, jewelry, food and dental and medical services. A dog figured in one transaction.

Patou Creates Smartest of Plaid Ensembles for the Autumn Voyager

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The French dressmakers are busy on travel clothes for the autumn voyager, and several of the best houses are making ensembles of this sort in plaid material. O'Rossen makes suits that have plaid skirts and plaid topcoats, with a plain jacket. Jean Patou has the best plaid travel ensemble in town, and it is shown in our sketch.

This ensemble is made of a decorous and modest plaid woolen, for it has only two colors and the plaids are done in fine crossed lines of brown on a beige ground.

The coat of this ensemble is one of those new, loose travel coats that are the smartest to be found. No belt at the waistline, no fitting. The wide revers and the collar are strictly tailored and the sleeves are plain.

The plaid woolen skirt is a straight skirt with one inverted box plait down the center front, and a plain belt at the top, made also of the plaid woolen. A white piqué blouse having shirtwaist sleeves and a round collar and bow of piqué is worn with this skirt.

Over the blouse Patou places a sleeveless brown jersey sweater with a V-neckline, which may be worn or removed.

Gifts of $57 Give Free Ice Fund a Boost

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Contributions to THE TRIBUNE free ice fund totaling $57.10 gave the lagging fund a substantial boost over the $1,900 mark yesterday and indicated that friends will not forget the less fortunate in gifts of ice.

The list was headed by Mrs. Levy Mayer, for years a constant supporter of the ice fund, who sent a check for $25. She sent one also for the same amount to the Camp Algonquin fund. And again this year came the annual gift from the children guests at Sherwood Forest hotel, Green Lake, Wis., many of whom are from Chicago.

The youngsters put on a play, "The Gypsy's Secret," under the direction of Miss Phebe Williams and had programs printed for the occasion. Those who took part were Eddie Kander, Marian Bloom, Elizabeth Felsenthal, Nancy Lee Adler, Marylyn Hirst, Marjorie and Frances Schloss, Frances Blim, Jae Birk, Philip Mooney, Johnny Kander, Arthur Stern, Tommy Franklin and Shirley Klein. Music was furnished by the Sherwood Forest trio. When the receipts were counted the total stood $11.35 for the ice fund.

Other contributors were: A Friend, $10; M. L. Fenton, $5; Roderick and Virginia MacArthur, $2.50, and $1 each from E. Nielsen, H. V., and A Friend, and twenty-five cents anonymous. This gives the ice fund a total of $1,940.49.

The Camp Algonquin fund, in addition to the $25 from Mrs. Levy Mayer, received $5 from Mary Victor, making a total of $4,073.03. This fund gives vacations of two weeks to tenement mothers and children at the Fox river camp, 45 miles northwest of Chicago.

Contributions to both funds may be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

but Kellogg's help you keep cool all the time

IF YOU want to feel better and keep cooler this summer eat plenty of the right kind of foods. There's a scientific reason for enjoying Kellogg's Corn Flakes.

These crisp, delicious flakes furnish abundant energy—and they are so easy to digest they never heat you up. How much better than hot, heavy dishes!

Kellogg's are refreshing for breakfast or lunch. Especially good for children's suppers. Just the treat for a bedtime snack—they encourage restful sleep.

This is the day to look for real values

Kellogg's save time, trouble and money. No cooking to prepare. Many servings at a cost of only a few cents. Compare Kellogg's with any other corn flakes. You'll find that Kellogg's delicious flavor and crispness can't be equaled. Notice, too, the freshness of Kellogg's. That's because the flakes reach you in the inside WAXTITE bag that's sealed top and bottom, a patented feature.

Every package is sold with the personal guarantee of W. K. Kellogg: "If you don't think Kellogg's the best corn flakes you ever tasted, return the empty package and we will gladly refund your money." Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

FOR THE CHILDREN

Tune in Kellogg's SINGING LADY every afternoon, except Saturdays and Sundays, over stations affiliated with the N. B. C. from Coast to Coast. 5.30 Eastern Daylight Time, 6.00 Central Daylight Time, 5.30 Pacific Coast Time. Songs and stories children love.

CUBS WHIP BRAVES IN 15 INNING BATTLE, 4-3

POST-OLYMPIC MEET PRODUCES 2 WORLD MARKS

Metcalfe Sprints to 100 Meter Victory.

Table of Points

United States	108	Canada	13
Poland	34	Haiti	5
Germany	25	Sweden	5
Italy	16	Greece	2
Finland	13

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Two world records were broken, three were tied and one Olympic mark was equaled as the athletes of 15 nations matched speed and stamina last night in the Post-Olympic meet at Soldiers' field before a crowd of 25,000.

Two girls running under the colors of Poland broke the world records. Miss Jadwiga Wajsowna won the discus throw with a toss of 137 feet 3¾ inches, while Stella Walsh, the Cleveland stenographer, who spent the first 18 months of her life overseas and as a result competed for Poland, set a new mark in the 200 meter dash. Miss Walsh's record came after she had run away with the 100 meter sprint and taken about every other title to which she aspired.

Babe Only Slightly Eclipsed.

Miss Wajsowna stepped into the chalk circle and shattered the discus record after Mildred [Babe] Didrikson, Olympic champion in the javelin throw and 80 meter hurdles, had hung up what temporarily was a world mark at 133 feet 10 inches. The Babe wasn't completely stopped, however, for she won the high jump with a leap of 5 feet 3 inches. She furnished another thrill with an exhibition javelin throw.

Miss Walsh ran the 200 meters in 24.1, six-tenths of a second faster than the accepted record. She also equaled her own world mark of 11.9 for the 100 meters.

Percy Beard and Ralph Metcalfe, both members of the American Olympic team, equaled the world marks in the 110 meter high hurdles and the 100 meter dash, respectively. The Olympic champions in these events, George Saling and Eddie Tolan, did not compete. Beard raced over the barriers in 14.4 seconds while Metcalfe was timed in :10.3 for the 100.

German Wins 200 Meter.

Metcalfe did not run in the 200 meter sprint, Erich Brochmeyer of Germany being the winner in 21.2 seconds, which equaled the Olympic record.

The 5,000 meter run, which had been heralded as a grudge race between the Olympic champion, Lauri Lehtinen of Finland, and Ralph Hill of the United States, failed to materialize when Lehtinen quit with 8½ laps to go. In the Olympics Lehtinen defeated Hill by less than a foot and it was alleged, although unofficially, that he twice crossed in front of Hill near the finish line.

Last night the Olympic 10,000 meter champion, Janusz Kusocinski of Poland, was an added starter. Kusocinski did not run in the Olympic 5,000 meter race. Kusocinski won last night by 10 yards from Hill after the American had pulled up on the last lap for a momentary lead. After the race Lehtinen gave out an official statement that he was forced to quit because of an injury to his leg.

The men's javelin throw was called off when the crowd rushed on to the field following the 10,000 meter race. Babe Didrikson was the center of at-

90 Years Old! And He Still Drives Winners

Washington Courthouse, O., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Wearing lightly his 90 years, Uncle Stephen Phillips today drove to another, and probably his last, victory over the track where he started his racing career "gosh-awful many years ago."

Amid the deafening roar of the spectators, the old veteran who for 75 years has owned, trained and raced harness horses, whipped up his own trotter, Frederick McKinney, to pass Miss Marion Toddle in the final stretch and win in 2:13. He had finished fifth in the first heat and fourth in the second, both in 2:12.

"I'm pretty tuckered," he admitted as he stretched out in the chair, placed in the middle of the track.

"Out there's where I sort of got started gosh-awful many years ago," he sighed contentedly. "And out there, I guess, I drove for the last time today."

WHEN BILL WAS LATE COMING HOME

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

LON WARNEKE, the young pitcher whose brilliant work is one of the principal reasons for the Cubs' leadership in the National league race, must be good.

The fans are beginning to link his name with other greats of the game—Grove, Ferrell, Johnson, and Wood. That usually is evidence of genius.

RUBE MARQUARD.

It seems a bit premature to mention Warneke in the same breath with the men named above, for after all, he has been outstanding in only one season. No pitcher, with the possible exception of Rube Marquard, has won baseball immortality by his showing in one campaign.

We have had so many inquiries about Marquard of late that we are going to invite you to sit down and talk over his record.

The baseball world, especially that part of it which radiates from Broadway, was shocked in 1908 by a deal of almost unbelievable financial proportions. John J. McGraw [remember him?] announced that he had paid $11,000 for a 19 year old left-handed pitcher from Indianapolis. That kind of money wouldn't buy a competent bat boy today, but 24 years ago it was a record price for a pitcher.

Even two or three years after the deal we heard the boys in the bleachers at the Cubs' west side park remark: "That's some more of McGraw's press agent stuff." Twenty years later the Cubs were said to have paid $200,000 for Rogers Hornsby and nobody batted an eye.

It looked as if McGraw's young phenom was a bust in 1909, for he won only five games while losing 13. Some of the snappy phrase builders of the day dubbed him "the $11,000 lemon." The following season brought no improvement. Marquard won only four games.

Wilbert Robinson, who was coaching the New York pitchers, devoted much of his time on the spring training trip of 1911 to the development of Marquard. It was McGraw's final effort to prove his confidence in the ability of his high priced recruit was justified. Robbie's tutoring obviously brought results, for Marquard had a season record of 24 victories and seven defeats.

It is his work of 1912, however, that won him a definite place in baseball's hall of fame. Starting with an 18 to 3 win over Brooklyn in the season's opener, Marquard sailed through all opposition until he had acquired a record of 19 consecutive victories. His mark still stands.

One of my earliest recollections of major league baseball was Marquard's attempt to win his 20th straight. It was on July 8 at the old Cubs park. He was hit fairly hard and McGraw removed him in the seventh inning. The score was 7 to 2 for the Cubs, and Jimmy Lavender, who yielded only five hits, was the winning pitcher.

Joe Wood, Red Sox, 1912, 16 in row.

Cincinnati Club Accepts National Amateur for 1933

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Directors of the Kenwood Country club today announced they had agreed to conditions set by the United States Golf association for the handling of the 1933 national amateur tournament, tentatively set for the club course in 1933. Announcement of final acceptance of the offer is expected to come from headquarters of the U. S. G. A. in New York.

BALLYGRAN PUTS IN HIGH BID FOR JUVENILE STAKE

Bradley's Mystery Colt Wins at Hawthorne.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Up pops Col. Edward R. Bradley to create some commotion about the running of the $10,000 Juvenile Championship handicap at Hawthorne tomorrow afternoon.

It wasn't the colonel in person who stirred up the fuss, but his fleet gelding, Ballygran, which has been running like a champion during most of the summer at Chicago tracks.

He's a son of Bubbling Over-Black Eyed Kathleen. When a son or daughter of Bubbling Over runs around Chicago, the good citizens sit up and take notice. They have much respect for everything that is related to Bubbling Over.

Ballygran Wins!

Ballygran pushed his way into the Hawthorne juvenile handicap picture yesterday when he won the Silver Lake purse. It was a dash at 6 furlongs and Ballygran came from behind, smothered his opponents, and won by 2 lengths from Stuyvesant Peabody's Miss Melody. Spartan Lady, owned by Charles Fisher's Dixiana stable, was third.

They are all eligible for the juvenile, and from the way Ballygran ran he's going to be hard to conquer when he steps against the best 2 year olds in the west in the $10,000 stake.

Ballygran's campaign this year has been sort of puzzling even to Owner Bradley. In the spring he wasn't considered good enough for the first string of the Bradley stable, so was left in the west to race under Trainer William Hurley.

He hardly had been relegated to the Bradley second string when he galloped out at Washington Park to beat such stylish youngsters as Red Whisk and others which were ranked at the top of their division.

In his early youth he was a scrawny fellow. His legs were not any too straight, and he didn't seem to have a racing disposition. But once out in the open and under the hot Illinois sun he improved more rapidly than any 2 year old of the year.

He Comes from Behind.

His chances didn't look any too good at the beginning of his race yesterday. Miss Melody, Spartan Lady, Northgalls and Seven Up were all ahead of him. He ran well back until the field began to wheel into the home stretch. Then Jockey Jimmy Smith brought him up on the outside, tore past one after another of the early leaders, and finally whipped Miss Melody a furlong from home. It was a romp for Ballygran the rest of the way.

Ballygran ran the six furlongs in the very slow time of 1:14 2-5. But it wasn't necessary that he run it any faster. He was the favorite among the 9,000 spectators and paid $4.32 for a two dollar ticket.

Just a few minutes later French Duchess, which races for Mrs. John Herts, demonstrated that she is one of the best sprinters at Hawthorne. Running six and one-half furlongs within a fifth of a second of the track record, she beat Robert M. Eastman's colt Cathop by three-quarters of a length. Waylayer was up to be third.

Cathop had been made a very short priced favorite on the strength of his second to My Dandy in the Illinois Owners' handicap. So French Duchess paid $10.46 in the two dollar betting. The time for the six and a half furlongs was 1:13 2-5.

13 Hearts in His Hand and Is Doubled!

New Rochelle, N. Y., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—During a contract bridge game played with friends at his home here, Reeves J. Newsom, president of the New Rochelle water works, held 13 hearts in a regularly dealt hand. His partner, the original bidder, held six diamonds and five spades, both suits headed by king, queen, ten, bid one spade. The second hand, holding three aces and four diamonds, including the jack, bid two diamonds.

Mr. Newsom, desirous of enticing his opponents into a double, did not bid a grand slam in hearts at once, but made a bid of three hearts, which under the forcing system, is a jump bid requiring a response from his partner.

The diamond suit having been bid by the opponents, the partner, to show control of this suit, bid three no trump. After a pass by second hand the grand slam in hearts was bid. The opponent holding three aces doubled, believing that the grand slam bid had been made with the expectation of finding at least the ace of the spade suit originally bid and possibly one other ace in the first bidder's hand. The bid was redoubled and the cards laid down for a score of 2,090 as the bidder was not vulnerable.

Bush Pitches 5 Innings and Wins 3 Extra Inning Games

Six days ago they were kidding Guy Bush about his prominence in the "big Cub gambling scandal." He was chided about the "two ladies known as blondes" about whom Commissioner Landis asked him in the St. Louis hearing last Saturday. And he got no rest from certain of his fellow players who kept asking him why he didn't "pay the bookie that $38,000."

All of these jests had Bush furious. He had been exonerated of all of the charges and he couldn't see why folks didn't drop those subjects.

After yesterday's Cub victory some of the players were "on" Bush again—but they were using different subject matter. They were calling Guy a lucky stiff because Wednesday he was the winning pitcher in a 19 inning ball game, although he pitched to only three batsmen, and then came back yesterday to be the winning pitcher in a 15 inning ball game, though he pitched to only four Braves.

He Wants To Bat.

But somehow or other Guy didn't become as angry about this kidding as he did when the players unloaded their earlier stuff. And the players didn't expect him to.

As a matter of fact, however, Guy's joy was somewhat tempered by the fact that he wasn't called upon to do any batting either yesterday or Wednesday.

"Of course I was mighty happy to add No. 13 and 14 to my list of victories," Bush said last night. "But I figure that there would have been less strain on everybody if I could have come to bat with men on bases. I haven't batted in many runs this year so far, but for the last few days I've felt mighty hot, and with no opportunity to get a bat in my hand."

Wins Warneke's Game.

Bush's luck in winning games by pitching to few batsmen hasn't been confined to the Boston series. He was the winning pitcher against the Pirates on Aug. 11 in the game that put the Cubs in first place. Guy's luck in this instance was more striking than in the later two instances.

In Pittsburgh Warneke was still the pitcher of record when Gudat batted for him in the eighth and doubled, then went to third on Herman's hit. English followed with a triple which scored Gudat and Herman and Lon still was the pitcher of record with English on third and none out. If English had scored Warneke would have been the winning pitcher and when Bush held the Pirates in the eighth and ninth he would have been working for Warneke's record.

As it was, English died on third and Bush took over a 2 to 2 ball game, his to win or lose. The Cubs scored a run in the tenth and Bush, pitching his third inning in the last of the tenth, retired the Pirates in order.

Three Wins By a Run.

Thus Bush has won his last three victories by one run each, pitching a total of five scoreless innings to do it. In the last game he started, the second phase of a doubleheader in St. Louis last Sunday, Guy wasn't so fortunate. Dizzy Dean beat him in a great battle, 2 to 1, also in extra innings. In his last four appearances Bush has been in at the finish of four extra inning ball games.

"I'm not wishing Malone any tough luck," Bush said as he departed from the clubhouse, "but I sure will be ready to do my stuff if the game gets into extra innings in the Braves final tomorrow. I hope I don't have to pitch too many innings, though, for it's going to be my turn to start Saturday."

STEPHENSON'S HIT DRIVES IN WOODY ENGLISH

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs yesterday triumphed over the Boston Braves in the second extra inning breath-taker in two days—a 15 inning battle which ended when Riggs Stephenson singled to drive home Capt. Woody English with the winning run of a 4 to 3 ball game. The victory put the Cubs 2½ games ahead of the second place Pirates and three games ahead of the Brooklyn Dodgers, neither of whom played yesterday.

Guy Bush, who was the winning pitcher in Wednesday's 19 inning battle after pitching to three batsmen, was the winner again yesterday, after one inning of work. But he had his mettle tested this time, for in the 15th the Braves had the bases full with one out and Guy started a double play which ended the big threat.

Braves Make Six Errors.

Unlike Wednesday's 19 inning drama, yesterday's battle was not an air tight fielding demonstration. The Braves made six errors, the last of which cost them the decision. The Cubs were guilty of two misplays, both of which occurred after the 12th inning. The errors only served to add to the hysterical aspects of the encounter, however.

The Cubs would have won in the 14th but for a tough break when Koenig's single hit Umpire Magerkurth, making Johnny Moore stop at third, when otherwise he would have scored the winning run standing up. This adverse stroke of fate left the bases full with one out. Pinch Batter Stanley Hack fouled out and Herman sent up an easy fly to end the inning without production.

That Stormy Fifteenth.

At this time it appeared that this misfortune had upset the Cubs beyond recuperation. Bush went in to pitch the 15th. Randy Moore saluted him with a single to right, and the clouds were black when Knothe singled to center, putting Randy on third.

Spohrer grounded to Koenig, who had replaced Jurges at short. R. Moore was held on third and Knothe went to second while Koenig was throwing out Spohrer. Manager McKechnie sent Clark up to bat for Betts, much to the latter's displeasure. Clark was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. Ford then tapped to Bush, who threw to Hartnett at the plate to get R. Moore. Then Gabby threw to Grimm to double Ford at first.

Braves in a Panic.

Seibold was sent in to pitch the 15th and it was apparent that the Braves were in a panic at their failure to score. Seibold promptly walked English. Cuyler sacrificed and when Spohrer picked up the ball he threw it into right field, English racing to third and Cuyler to second. Seibold was ordered to pitch to Stephenson and the Old Hoss lined a single to left, driving home English with the bacon.

Now, if you will retrace a few steps, you will be told the detail of the way that bad break kept the Cubs from winning an inning sooner. Johnny Moore launched the 14th with a single to right and advanced to second on Grimm's sacrifice. Hartnett was given his second successive intentional pass. Koenig batted for Jurges and slammed a hot grounder which was going straight for center field, far out of the reach of all infielders, when it hit Base Umpire Magerkurth on the shin. It was deflected to Ford, who made a play on the ball, but Magerkurth ordered J. Moore to third, Hartnett to second and Koenig to first, Koenig getting credit for a single.

Why Ruling Was Made.

Umpire Magerkurth was standing inside the diamond when hit by the ball, which resulted in the ruling being made as it was. Had he been outside the diamond or beyond the line between first and second the ball would have been in play. This differentiation always confuses players and sometimes umpires.

It caused a little flurry yesterday, but the debate subsided when players were reminded of the rule.

Root was the starting pitcher and remained for an inning after the Braves had tied the score on two singles and a sacrifice in the ninth. Smith pitched the 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th innings, and Bush finished after Smith had given way for a pinch hitter.

How Cubs Scored Winning Run in Fifteenth Inning

Here's how the Cubs scored their winning run in the fifteenth inning of yesterday's 4 to 3 victory over the Boston Braves:

CUBS FIFTEENTH.

SUN ARCHER IS BIG SURPRISE IN GRAB BAG EVENT

Comes from Behind to Win Saratoga Stake.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Archer surprised many here today by winning the 19th running of the Grab Bag handicap, feature of a program organized in support of the George Washington bicentennial celebration. In addition to a display of colonial and revolutionary relics there was a seventh race carded—the West Point purse, for horses owned by the United States government or United States army officers.

The Grab Bag had a value of $2,700 to the winner and was run in a light rainstorm over a track that was good but rapidly going on to sloppy. The winner was 8 to 1 and ran the six furlongs in 1:12 4-5 to beat George H. [Pete] Bostwick's Garden Message by three lengths. Three lengths farther back, came William Ziegler Jr.'s Grand Time, the favorite at 13 to 5.

Comes from Behind.

After that came Balios, Pomponius, Little Lad, Llandaff, Inlander, Jungle King and Sun Alley, the last named being coupled in the betting with Sun Archer. Raymond Workman rode the winner. He also was up on Mountain Elk, winner of the first race.

Forging to the front almost at once, Alfred Robertson went up swiftly along the rail with Bostwick's colt and soon Garden Message had Balios headed. Meantime Workman had gotten Sun Archer away well and he waited back of the pace set by these two. At the top of the stretch, when Garden Message had raced Balios into defeat, he fell easy prey to Sun Archer.

Mate Is Third.

A. C. Bostwick's Mate, one of the heroes of the racing last year, showed dismally in the three horse George Washington handicap, which was the secondary feature. George H. [Pete] Bostwick, owner of Garden Message, and brother to the owner of Mate, was in the saddle of the son of Prince Pal and Killashandra. Glastonbury won by half a length from Iron Clad with Mate eight lengths back. The winner was the favorite at 6 to 5, with 3 to 2 and Iron Clad 13 to 5.

Hygro Comes Back to Races at Hawthorne

Hygro, one of the fleetest 2 year olds of last season, is coming back to the races and may go to the post in the Rob Roy purse tomorrow afternoon, which is a dash at 6½ furlongs. Hygro recently worked a half mile in :46 1-5. He gained his first fame at Hawthorne a year ago when he won the Hawthorne Juvenile handicap.

Speedy trials were turned in by a number of candidates for the Juvenile handicap yesterday morning. In High stepped five-eighths in 1:02. Hope to Do went the same distance in 1:01 1-5, and so did Bandwagon. Hope to Do and Bandwagon are owned by Admiral Cary T. Grayson. Projectile sped over the five furlongs in 1:01. Spicson, a Chicago colt, owned by L. M. Severson, galloped six furlongs in 1:15.

The long shot players were happy when Oziti, a Kentucky colt, won the first race yesterday. He paid $84.84 for a $2 ticket and was winging it out in front all the way. Hasty Peter, the favorite, finished second. He was all but left at the post and might have been best.

Vishnu, after running like a champion a few days ago, finished far back in the six furlong third race yesterday, which was won by Little America. Little America won the race in the slow time of 1:13 1-5.

Cryout, from Val Crane's Wild Rose farm stable, dropped dead on the back stretch during the running of the seventh race, which was won by the old handicap star, Pigeon Hole.

SALLY II. TAKES CLASS A RACE AT LAKE GENEVA

Lake Geneva, Wis., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Sally II., piloted by Charles H. Bell of the Minnetonka Yacht club, Minneapolis, circled the 12 mile course in 1 hour 56 minutes and 40 seconds to win the class A race of the Inland Lakes Yachting association regatta here today.

Blue Devil of the White Bear Yacht club, St. Paul, with Tom Irvine at the helm, made it a race all the way, finishing 17 seconds after the winner. Two Sallies, skippered by James Bell of the Minnetonka club, finished third, 45 seconds behind the Sally II.

The order in which other entries finished and the pilots were:

Fourth, Mistral, Lake Geneva, Hal Hamlin Jr.; fifth, Black Point III., Lake Geneva, Robert Ferris; Humming Bird, Delavan, Elmer T. Stevens; Little Smoke II., Lake Geneva, John F. Perrigo; Scotty, Delavan, J. D. Campbell; Sweepstakes, Lake Geneva, Fred G. Wacker; Challenge, Lake Geneva, Col. W. N. Pelouze.

Silver Heels of the Oshkosh club, piloted by Fred Keels, did not finish. Big Foot, the Lake Geneva entry of A. F. Gartz Jr., fouled the winner and was ruled out.

Muskies Lazy, Too, on These August Days

BY BOB BECKER.

They call these August days "dog days" on the summer calendar, the mere mention of which intimidates the anglers who sally forth to get a mess of fish with rod and line. Generally speaking, the hot, dry period which August usually brings is synonymous in the fisherman's mind with indifference on the part of bass, muskies, pike or other fish.

In the case of the mighty 'lunge, the most common symptom of "dog days" is the way this fish will follow a lure for several yards, often coming right to the side of the boat, and then absolutely refuse to swat it. This indifference, this lack of pugnacity, so typical of the 'lunge under ordinary circumstances, gives fishermen a hard time. It's not easy to cast all day and see fish after fish come up to the boat with his nose just a few inches from the lure and then watch these same fish give the lure the go-by.

Lazy in Hot Weather.

Anglers are inclined to ascribe this behavior to "sore gums" and many other causes, most of which can't hold up against any kind of logic. Possibly the most reasonable argument is that fish, just like humans, are not particularly energetic in hot weather. Lazy days, lazy fish. Warm water and hot sun are not a combination that perks up fish or animals either.

Summer after summer dog days bring this problem to perplex the fishermen. We have run into it even in Canadian waters. It doesn't mean that muskies won't be caught in August. During the last week a fairly large number of muskellunge have been taken in Wisconsin and Canada, but the more common experience tells of fish which follow the lure but won't strike. And no one knows who gives the order for the muskies to start hitting again. But they will start and then the tackle busters do their stuff.

Bass, Pike More Eager.

On several occasions while fishing for muskies in August we have taken crazy surface lures and jiggled them around until the muskies couldn't stand it any longer. The result was strikes and a few fish.

However, during dog days the bass and pike can be relied upon to be the old faithfuls if the fishermen will go deep during the middle of the day or fish carefully at sundown. On our last Canadian trip we had a fruitless day with muskies, but coming home at sundown we found a pike hole and the wall-eyes struck fast and furious at a deep diving underwater lure. And we have taken small mouth bass, plenty of them, during dog days. In fact, the best catches we have ever recorded were made in Canada during August.

But the muskie is a temperamental fellow. He reacts to lazy days in a marked degree. But there always is the chance that he will surprise you and strike like mad.

SOX GET A BREAK: IT RAINS; TODAY'S ANOTHER STORY

Rookies Face Senators in Double Header.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—If it isn't one thing it's another for the poor but honest White Sox. When they play there is invariably an error at the wrong moment and they lose. When it rains they don't play, neither do they lose, but it means extra work the day following.

Rain, real rain, was the big feature of their routine today, so tomorrow they will have to tussle with the Senators in a double header and the next afternoon they will be forced to play two games with the Athletics. And on Sunday they can rest up with an exhibition at Phillipsburg, N. J.

Rookie Pitchers Start Today.

The baseball school under Professor Lew Fonseca will be running full blast tomorrow, at least in the pitching class. The Chicago professor intends to let Paul Gregory, late of the Atlanta club, and Bill Chamberlain, southpaw alumnus of the greater Boston sand lots, work on the Senators' bats. Gregory had his first start recently and did fairly well against the Athletics, although beaten. Chamberlain, in two starts, was annoyed considerably by his mates' weaknesses in the field.

One pupil who will not be present for tomorrow's instructions is Charley English, the Hutchinson, Kas., team rookie who doesn't appear to have profited since coming to the majors. The kid seems to be in so far over his head that he isn't able to do anything properly. Most of his offenses were during the period Fonseca was away from the team, but the manager needed only two days in the class room to be convinced. English will be benched, his place at third will be taken by Luke Appling, and the latter's job at short will be tendered to Red Kress, who is a shortstop by choice but has been working recently as an outfielder.

Experienced at Third.

The moving of Appling to third is merely an experiment. The youngster hasn't been able to keep up a consistent pace at short. One moment he appears to be a wonder and the next moment he's exactly the opposite. In a pinch he has a tendency to fight the ball, thus perpetrating errors just when they are of the most value to the enemy. At third fielding chances are fewer and the batted balls that can be grabbed reach the player so speedily he doesn't have time to worry about them.

Monte Weaver, the Senators' pitching sensation, who has a record of 18 victories and 6 defeats for the season, will work in one of the two games tomorrow. Tommy Thomas, although he claims to have a sore arm, may pitch the other.

By starting his two rookies in the remaining games here Fonseca will have Milt Gaston and Sam Jones ready Saturday at Philadelphia.

OLYMPIC WATER POLOISTS FACE PICKED TEAM

The Hungarian water polo team, which won the Olympic championship, will meet an all-star team from the Chicago district at California Park pool Sunday night. Proceeds will go to the Chicago quota of the American Olympic fund.

The Hungarians, who have conquered every team in Europe, clinched their claim to world honors by winning the Olympic championships. They are regarded as the greatest team of swimmers ever assembled.

The American team will be made up of stars from the Illinois Athletic club, Northwestern university, the University of Illinois, and the Jewish People's institute.

Arrangements for the meet are under the direction of Sam Greller, former Olympic water polo player. The final selections for the American team will be announced today.

DETROIT GREETS KAYE DON FOR SPEEDBOAT RACE

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Kaye Don, English speedboat driver, was greeted by a cheering throng today as he arrived for the Harmsworth trophy races against Gar Wood on Lake St. Clair starting Sept. 3. The holder of the world speedboat record smiled and waved and said he was glad to come back to Detroit.

The Miss England II., with which Don hopes to capture the international trophy from the American defender, will arrive in Windsor tomorrow. The Briton has piloted this craft to a world record of 119.81 miles an hour.

Benny Leonard Picks Kirsch as Champion

New York, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion, who is staging a comeback, says Lew Kirsch will be the next lightweight champion of the world. "He has everything but imagination," says Leonard. "Imagination took me to the top. A good fighter has to dream. When he dreams he tries to get there. All Kirsch lacks is incentive." Kirsch is a New York boy.

Girl Regains Jurges Notes; Continue Case

Judge John Sbarbaro of the Chicago avenue court yesterday again continued hearing of charges against Lucius Barnett, 2434 Burling street, accused of threatening to publish letters allegedly written to Miss Violet Valli by Bill Jurges, Cub shortstop.

John Callahan, attorney for Miss Valli, the girl who a month ago shot Jurges and wounded herself in his hotel room, told the court that some of the letters had been returned to her and that he wanted a continuance to determine whether any of the letters are being retained by Barnett.

Barnett, a real estate dealer, is charged with extortion, larceny, disorderly conduct, resisting a policeman, and assault. The first two charges were preferred by Miss Valli and the latter by the police.

"I want to keep this case under my jurisdiction to prevent embarrassment to the Cubs so that their chances of winning the pennant will not be harmed," Judge Sbarbaro said. "I don't want this thing to worry Jurges."

Assistant State's Attorney Leonard Mandel moved that the police charges be heard and disposed of, but the court continued the entire matter until next Tuesday. Miss Valli was in court, but remained at the rear of the room during the hearing. Jurges was not present.

Grover Cleveland Alexander, former National league pitching star, will face Cole's American Giants for the House of David team in a night game at the American Giants' ball park tomorrow.

Phils Capture Double Header from Cardinals

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 18.—(AP)—The Phillies defeated the St. Louis Cardinals in both games of a double header today, 10 to 4 and 9 to 4.

Philadelphia scored five runs off Stout and Carleton in the fifth inning to clinch the second game. G. Davis started the rally by tripling to right field and scored when Bartell popped a single out of Gelbert's reach. Bartell later went to third on a wild pitch and Hurst walked. Whitney singled to center, scoring Bartell and sending Hurst to second. Lee doubled against the right field screen, scoring Hurst and sending Whitney to third. Carleton replaced Stout at this stage. A wild pitch allowed Whitney to score and Lee to make third. V. Davis singled to right, scoring Lee.

The Phillies bunched four hits off Dizzy Dean in the third inning for five runs and gave a similar performance in the sixth, that time at the expense of Paul Derringer, to win the opening contest. The cards touched Roy Hansen for ten hits. Frankie Frisch, Cardinal captain, knocked two home runs, his only ones this season, but each time the bases were clear.

Braves Look at Malone's Curves in Final Today

The Braves will say their 1932 farewell to Wrigley field this afternoon and the betting is they won't be sorry. Pat Malone will pitch against anybody Manager McKechnie can drag out from under the Braves' trunks.

The season series between the Braves and Cubs now stands 12 wins for the Cubs and four for the Braves. Six more games are to be played—one here and five in Boston.

Charley Grimm was the batting powerhouse of yesterday's game, although his accomplishments were somewhat overshadowed by the many exciting phases of the contest. The Cub manager, who doubled his last time up Wednesday, added three more doubles yesterday. The first one drove in the second and third runs, the other two went to waste. Moreover, Boss Charley's barehand catch of a bad throw by Herman in the seventh probably saved the ball game.

The intentional pass technique was a favorite strategy yesterday. It was employed six times, three times by each team.

NURMI MAY RUN IN NEW ENGLAND MEET TOMORROW

Boston, Mass., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Paavo Nurmi, Finland, probably will run in an exhibition at Worcester Saturday. Karl A. Hilli of the Finnish-American Athletic league, said today efforts are being made to have Nurmi compete in a meet.

Hilli has written to the New England A. A. U. for permission to have the famous long distance runner perform, Tom Kirby of the National A. A. U. and other officials also have appealed to have Nurmi reinstated.

Oakland Sells Pete Daglia to Indianapolis Club

Oakland, Cal., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—The Oakland Pacific Coast league baseball team today announced the sale of Pitcher Pete Daglia to Indianapolis of the American association. Daglia had a tryout with the Chicago White Sox and rejoined the Oakland club a week ago.

pitching. His removal was the third apparent replacement boner made in the series by Manager McKechnie.

The win was the third one-run victory the Cubs have scored over the Braves in the series, none of which ended in the conventional 8½ innings which marks most home team victories.

Clubs—	W.	L.	Pct.
Cubs	63	50	.558
Pirates	61	53	.535
Dodgers	63	56	.529

Herman Scores in First.

The first run of the game was scored by the Cubs in a hurry. Herman led off with a single to right center and went to second while Maranville was throwing out English. Cuyler singled to right, scoring Herman. Stephenson forced Cuyler, but J. Moore singled to center. Grimm flied to Holland.

Singles by Jurges and Herman in the second inning set the stage for a double steal with Jurges on third and Herman on first and two out. The maneuver failed, however, Jurges being sunk at the plate, Spohrer to Maranville to Spohrer.

The Braves tied the score in the third inning. Betts started with a single. Grimm made a late throw to second after capturing Maranville's grounder and both runners were safe. Urbanski bunted and forced Betts at third, Root to English. Jordan singled to center, scoring Maranville with the tying run, Urbanski stopping at second. The runners advanced while Herman was throwing out Berger, but Holland flied to Herman.

The Cubs took a 3 to 1 lead in their half of the third. English led off with a single to left, paused while Cuyler fouled to Knothe and went to second on Stephenson's single to left. English went to third and Stephenson to second while Betts was throwing out J. Moore. Grimm then doubled to the screen in right center, scoring English and Stephenson. Knothe threw out Hartnett.

Make Score 3 to 2.

The Braves sneaked up on the Cubs to the extent of one run in the seventh to make the score 3 to 2. Knothe doubled to right. Spohrer lined to Grimm. Betts was thrown out by Herman, Knothe taking third. Hargrave batted for Maranville and looped a double over English's head, Knothe scoring. Jurges threw out Urbanski.

In their half of the seventh the Cubs got the bases full without the aid of a hit, but nothing came of it. Grimm led off the eighth with the second of his series of doubles, but was sunk at third on Hartnett's attempted sacrifice. Jurges then hit into a double play.

Wild Throw No Help.

Herman singled with one down in the Cub ninth, then was forced by English. In an attempt to complete a double play Urbanski threw the ball into the Braves' dugout, English proceeding to second. Cuyler flied to Berger.

In the latter half of the tenth the Cubs for the second time filled the bases without a hit. With two down, Grimm was safe when R. Moore muffed his fly. Hartnett's grounder went between Ford's heels and the error put Grimm on third and Hartnett on first. Jurges was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. Gudat batted for Root and was out, Jordan to Betts.

Enter Mr. Smith.

Smith took over the pitching assignment at the start of the eleventh. Holland and R. Moore were retired, Knothe walked, and Spohrer was thrown out by Herman. Ford threw out Herman, English, and Cuyler in the Cub eleventh.

Urbanski doubled with two down in the twelfth. Then Herman threw out Jordan. In the Chicago half Grimm got his third double, with two out, and Hartnett was given an intentional pass. Jurges flied to Berger.

In the 13th, with one out, Holland reached second on a single and Cuyler's error and R. Moore was given an intentional pass. The runners moved up while Herman was throwing out Knothe. Spohrer was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. English threw out Betts. In the Cubs' 13th Knothe's throwing error on Smith and a single by Cuyler with two out put on the pressure, but Stephenson forced Cuyler.

The 14th and 15th innings afforded one thrill after another, as you have been told.

Watty Holm, Cardinal Utility Fielder, Released

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Watty Holm, who had been utility fielder with the St. Louis Cardinals for about a month this season, has been unconditionally released. His plans for the remainder of the season could not be learned. Holm was with Rochester earlier this year, but was released because of a bad arm.

Cubs, Braves One Inning Short of Overtime Record

The Cubs' fifteen inning victory over the Braves yesterday and their nineteen inning triumph on Wednesday—a total of 34 innings—constitute the second largest total of extra innings against one opponent in two games on successive days in the history of major league baseball.

Pittsburgh and Brooklyn established the record of 35 innings in 1917. They played a 3 to 3 tie in 13 innings on Aug. 21 of that year and on the following day Brooklyn won, 6 to 5, in 22 innings. These two games were the second and third of a series at Brooklyn. The first game was won by the Pirates, 1 to 0, in 10 innings, establishing the record of 45 innings for three consecutive extra inning games on successive days between the same teams.

Washington and the White Sox played a total of 40 innings in three consecutive extra inning games in 1915, going 13 innings on Aug. 24, 14 innings on Aug. 25, and 13 innings on Aug. 26. Should the Cubs and Braves play ten innings or more today, they will better this mark. A nine inning game, however, will break the extra inning sequence, although it will bring the total number of innings played by the two teams in three days up to 43.

The Cubs' total of 34 innings against the Braves betters by one inning their previous record made with the Cardinals at Wrigley field on Aug. 28 and Aug. 29 of 1930. The Cardinals whipped the Cubs, 8 to 7, in 20 innings in the first game, and lost, 9 to 8, the next day in 13 innings. The Yankees played 33 innings in two days in 1918, but they faced different opponents each day, battling the White Sox for 14 innings on May 22 and the Cleveland Indians 19 innings on May 23.

Brooklyn and Boston hold the record for the most innings in two consecutive games, not played on successive days. They played 45 innings on May 1 and May 3 in 1920. The first game was the memorable 26 inning 1 to 1 tie, in which Leon Cadore of Brooklyn and Joseph Oeschger of Boston each pitched the entire game. Two days later, after a trip to Philadelphia, Boston beat the Dodgers, 2 to 1, in 19 innings.

The Dodgers established the record for most innings by one team in three consecutive overtime games when they went to Philadelphia after the 26 inning game with Boston and played a 13 inning game with the Phillies on May 2, 1920. They then returned for their 19 inning game with Boston, making 58 innings in three days.

GUS MORELAND ENTERS WESTERN AMATEUR GOLF

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Gus Moreland, Dallas, Tex., a member of the 1932 Walker cup team, today entered the western amateur golf tournament which starts here next Monday. Doe Moe of Portland, Ore., defending champion, and Charles Seaver of Los Angeles, are other members of the cup team who will compete.

Moreland qualified for the national amateur this week. He has already won the trans-Mississippi championship, going under 70 three times and shooting a record breaking 63 on the par 72 Oklahoma City course. He defeated Johnny Dawson of Chicago in the finals of the Houston invitational tournament.

Total entries today were 177, with 13 states represented.

Indiana Attorney General Holds Race Bill Is Illegal

Hammond, Ind., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Word was received here today from the attorney general offices in Indianapolis that the pari-mutuel bill, which was recently passed at the special session of the Indiana legislature, is unconstitutional. The attorney general warned promoters who planned to operate horse and dog racing tracks near here that to do so would be a violation of the law.

Girl Regains Jurges Notes; Continue Case

Judge John Sbarbaro of the Chicago avenue court yesterday again continued hearing of charges against Lucius Barnett, 2434 Burling street, accused of threatening to publish letters allegedly written to Miss Violet Valli by Bill Jurges, Cub shortstop.

John Callahan, attorney for Miss Valli, the girl who a month ago shot Jurges and wounded herself in his hotel room, told the court that some of the letters had been returned to her and that he wanted a continuance to determine whether any of the letters are being retained by Barnett.

Barnett, a real estate dealer, is charged with extortion, larceny, disorderly conduct, resisting a policeman, and assault. The first two charges were preferred by Miss Valli and the latter by the police.

"I want to keep this case under my jurisdiction to prevent embarrassment to the Cubs so that their chances of winning the pennant will not be harmed," Judge Sbarbaro said. "I don't want this thing to worry Jurges."

Assistant State's Attorney Leonard Mandel moved that the police charges be heard and disposed of, but the court continued the entire matter until next Tuesday. Miss Valli was in court, but remained at the rear of the room during the hearing. Jurges was not present.

New York, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Demand for both high grade and speculative bonds continued today and prices moved to higher levels despite realizing by traders who were unable to resist cashing in substantial profits.

The day's best gains were recorded by the railroads, a number of which advanced from 1 to 3 or more points. There was no especially encouraging news to spur on the carriers. Some of the roads reported a mild improvement in freight traffic and there was heavy buying of St. Louis-San Francisco bonds on the belief that the company's reorganization plans would receive the approval of the road's stock and bond holders.

Rails to Advance.

Principal transportation gainers included some loans of Frisco, Baltimore and Ohio, Boston and Maine, Chesapeake corporation, St. Paul, Chicago and North Western, Rock Island, Colorado and Southern, Delaware and Hudson, Erie, Great Northern, Hudson and Manhattan, Illinois Central, Kansas City Southern, Louisville and Nashville, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Nickel Plate, New Haven, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Père Marquette, St. Louis-Southwestern, Southern Pacific, Southern, Union Pacific, and Wabash.

The thinness of the market was shown when St. Louis-Southwestern second 4s gained 20 points on the sale of seven bonds and Tennessee Central 6s were up 15 points on a turnover of 14 bonds.

The utilities backed and filled, with the majority retaining moderate gains. Issues of rubber companies and amusement corporations were in demand among the industrials.

Moderate gains were registered by all United States government obligations. The Argentines advanced, as did loans of Australia and Japan. The Germans were irregular.

GAINS ON CURB

The curb market simmered down to a relatively quiet affair today. In moderated fashion speculative sentiment first blew hot, then cold. At the close it was fairly hot again, and the number of gains exceeded declines. Price changes, however, were large, except for some of the relatively inactive issues.

After dipping at one time to 21, Electric Bond and Share common spurted upward to a closing price of 23½, where it was up 1⅞ points. Other active utilities which closed up from fractions to around 2 points included American Gas and Electric, Niagara Hudson Power, and United Light and Power A, which closed with a small fractional increase. Commonwealth Edison was up 2 in quiet trading, while American Foreign Power warrants were a shade higher in fairly heavy turnover. American Light and Traction and Cities Service common were a scant fraction lower.

Oils Back and Fill.

The oils spent their time backing and filling. Gulf closed a fraction higher, while Standard of Indiana, Standard of Kentucky, Humble, and International Petroleum were lower. Cosden Oil appeared on the tape fairly frequently and advanced to 1⅝ for a gain of nearly a point.

The Ford issues were fairly active, moving in narrow price range, while gains or a fraction or more were made by Aluminum company, Pan American Airways, and Swift International. Deere & Co. was a steady performer throughout the day and in the closing moments rallied to close at 12¼ for a gain of 1¼ points.

Bright Spots in Day's Business News

Bradstreet's reports bank clearings at 47 cities of the United States for the week ended Aug. 17 registered an increase of 2.3 per cent. They totaled $4,346,211,000 against $4,248,942,000 the previous week.

Movement of copper and brass products is showing some improvement and general business sentiment is better, according to reports in manufacturing circles.

Paper mills are preparing for expanded activities as a result of an accumulation of orders exceeding the record of any period in the last year, says Dun's. Some manufacturers are operating on four to five day schedules.

It is rumored one of the largest manufacturers of shoes will increase prices an average of 5 per cent in the near future. Materials are from 10 to 60 per cent higher than the low prices of June, it is estimated.

At Tifton, Ga., approximately 300,000 pounds of tobacco were offered for sale at prices considerably higher than last year.

At Benton Harbor, Mich., Receiver W. R. Payne announced a dividend totaling $367,153.80 would be distributed Friday to depositors of the American National bank, closed there last December.

Two saw mills at Picayune, Miss., idle since last March, are scheduled to resume operations within the next few days, involving about 500 men.

At Hagerstown, Md., the Security Paper company, manufacturers of craft wrappers, has resumed work after being closed two years. It employs 25 men.

BROKERS' LOANS DROP DESPITE MARKET PICKUP

Use Hoarded Money to Buy Stocks.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Despite soaring stock prices and greatly increased volume of trading on the exchanges, the federal reserve figures released last night showed an actual decrease in brokers' loans for the week ended Wednesday, Aug. 17.

Total brokers' loans were $344,000,000, compared with $345,000,000 the week before and $1,343,000,000 on Aug. 19, 1931. During the last three weeks, in which the stock market has been exceptionally active with the public again buying stocks, brokers' loans have only increased about $13,000,000 net.

Bears Out Opinions.

The reserve report on brokers' loans amply bears out the frequently expressed opinion in the financial district that the current stock market boom has been financed in large part with money that had been in hoarding. It tallies with the reports from brokers' offices to the effect that a large number of customers have been buying stocks outright and paying for them with gold or bills of large denomination that have been withdrawn from hiding.

Furthermore, this week's report of Chicago member banks of the federal reserve system shows no appreciable falling off in either commercial or savings deposits. The New York member banks report actual increases in deposits.

Money Lent Declines.

This substantiates the statements of bankers who have pointed out that the suddenly increased volume of stock and bond transactions has not been financed with money withdrawn from banks.

Likewise, yesterday's report shows another drop, both in New York and Chicago, in the amount of money lent directly by banks on securities.

That is the whole picture. Brokers' loans are down. Member bank loans on securities are down. Bank deposits are steady in Chicago and up in New York.

And yet a lot of money has been poured into the securities markets during the last three weeks. The only possible conclusion is that a lot of money that has been in hoarding has been drawn back into circulation and is again being put to use for credit purposes.

Another indication that hoarding is decreasing is seen in the figures for federal reserve note circulation. On Aug. 17 these notes totaled $2,828,772,000, compared with $2,843,605,000 the week before, a drop of about $5,000,000.

Gold Reserves Gain.

Total gold reserves of the federal reserve system increased about $47,000,000 during the week, the total on Aug. 17 being $2,727,457,000 compared with $2,680,426,000 the week before. This is interpreted as evidence of additional buying of American securities by foreigners.

The reserve banks in the week ended Wednesday virtually discontinued their open market purchases of United States government bonds. The total of such securities held increased only $35,000, the smallest in months.

Total bills and securities reported by the federal reserve banks on Wednesday amounted to $2,335,815,000 compared with $2,347,678,000 the week before.

Offers of money on call at 1 per cent by nonbank lenders outside the New York stock exchange were reported yesterday to have shrunk to about $1,000,000 in comparison with $4,000,000 to $10,000,000 up to a short time ago.

Some of the large brokerage houses which heretofore had been lenders to their customers were reported to be borrowing, their funds evidently having been employed in loans during the recent rise in security prices.

Another reason assigned for restriction of "outside" money was a growing feeling among individual lenders that they ought to get at least 1½ per cent, though only a few loans at that rate have been reported.

NEW CHICAGO BOND OFFERING OPENS MONDAY

City Controller Szymczak, according to reports yesterday, intends to offer for sale on Monday through competitive bidding a new issue of $8,000,000 5 per cent refunding bonds due Jan. 1, 1932 to 1941. No mention was made by the controller of the proposed offer before he left yesterday for Pittsburgh, where he made a radio talk last night.

HITS TRUST CO., TRIES TO REMOVE RECEIVERS FOR FOX FILM CORP.

New York, Aug. 18.—The receivership created last June for the Fox Theaters corporation by Circuit Judge Martin T. Manton was the result of collusion between the Fox corporation and the Chicago Title and Trust company, it was charged today by A. C. Blumenthal, one of the largest individual creditors of the Fox corporation.

The charge was made in a notice of a motion filed by Nathan Burkan, Mr. Blumenthal's attorney, to set aside the appointment by Judge Manton of William E. Atkinson and John F. Sherman, as equity receivers, on the petition of the Chicago company.

LIST STOCKS PLEDGED FOR LOANS TO INSULL UTILITY HOLDING CO.

The amount of stock pledged by Insull Utility Investments, Inc., with the various New York and Chicago banks was revealed yesterday in the bill filed in the federal court by the debenture holders of the firm. The debenture holders are asking that the collateral be returned by the banks to the receivers. The following tables show the amount of stock of the three Chicago utility companies and the Middle West Utilities company pledged.

The banks also hold smaller blocks of Corporation Securities company, Insull Utility, Midland United, North American Light and Power, and Central and Southwest Utilities stocks. The collateral pledged by Corporation Securities company, twin of Insull Utility, is not included in the above table.

The General Electric company holds the following stocks as security for a loan made last year: 390 shares of Peoples Gas, 15,000 shares of North American Light and Power, 26,000 shares of Midland United company common, 1,000 shares of Midland Utilities 7 per cent prior lien, and 2,727 shares of Midland Utilities 6 per cent prior lien.

INSURANCE CO. STOCKHOLDERS ASK RECEIVERS

Stockholders of the Old Colony Life Insurance company and of the Central Life Insurance company yesterday filed separate suits in the Superior court asking that receivers be appointed to operate the concerns. Both suits charged that the assets of the companies are much smaller than actually shown upon the books and allege that the cash reserves on hand are below the requirements of the state law. The suit against the Central Life Insurance company also asks an injunction to prevent the transfer of any assets.

Complainants against the Old Colony Life Insurance company are Mrs. Maude M. Robinson, holder of five shares of stock; D. B. Woodworth, holder of three shares of stock, and J. H. Benjamin, who holds an equity on a contract to purchase stock, according to the bill. They allege that 50 per cent of the company's assets, or $4,738,308, invested in real estate is frozen, and charge mismanagement by the company officials.

John Benson, holder of 20 shares of the Central Life Insurance company, charged that 62 per cent of the real estate assets, or $1,250,000 worth of property, was nonproductive, and alleged that mismanagement of the company had decreased policy holders during 1931. He also charged that officials of the company had abused their powers.

WOOL DEMAND GROWS BETTER AS PRICES RISE

Boston, Mass., Aug. 18.—(AP)—The wool market is enjoying the largest concentrated buying within a given period for years and prices are responding buoyantly to the increased manufacturers' demand, local wool authorities said today.

The sharpest advances in prices experienced for a long period occurred this week, selling prices moving up for an average gain of 10 per cent while asking prices, indicating the trend, are 15 per cent higher than a week ago. During the last week from 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 additional pounds of wool were sold.

10 BANKS SUED TO REGAIN STOCK INSULL PLEDGED

Chicago-New York Group Named.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Debenture holders of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., yesterday brought suit in the federal District court here to compel ten leading Chicago and New York banks to surrender the securities they hold as pledges for loans made to that company.

The collateral involved consists of large blocks of stock of the three big Chicago utility companies formerly under Insull management and the Middle West Utilities company. The bill filed on behalf of the debenture holders asserts that the securities were improperly pledged. The banks accepted the stocks as collateral although they were aware that pledging of the securities was a violation of the debenture holders' rights, the bill contends.

General Electric Also Named.

The General Electric company also is named defendant in the suit along with the banks. It was disclosed in connection with the suit that General Electric made a loan to the Insull investment firm late last year for which it received blocks of shares in five Insull companies as security. This loan was made by Insull when he was making his last desperate attempt to stave off disaster.

The defendant banks are the largest institutions in New York and Chicago. The Chicago banks named are the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, the First National, Central Republic Bank and Trust, Harris Trust and Savings, and the Northern Trust company. The New York banks are the Guaranty Trust company, Central Hanover Bank and Trust company, Commercial National Bank and Trust company, Bankers Trust company, and the Irving Trust company.

Those Back of Suit.

The suit was filed by the law firm of Sims, Stransky, Brewer & Poust. The debenture holders' committee represented by the law firm is headed by John J. McDevitt Jr., Philadelphia attorney. Other members of the committee are T. Alan Goldsborough, United States congressman from Maryland; S. P. Woodward of New York, and John C. Shaffer of Chicago.

The principal securities held by the banks as collateral for loans of approximately $45,000,000 are as follows: 179,391 shares of Commonwealth Edison; 110,511 shares of Peoples Gas Light and Coke company; 45,912 shares of Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, and 1,725,840 shares of Middle West Utilities. Smaller blocks of stock in other Insull utility companies also are pledged with the banks.

The bill demands that the banks be compelled to return the assets of the concern to the receivers to be applied in payment of the debentures, of which there is approximately $57,000,000 face value outstanding.

Fear Investment Loss.

The bill alleges that unless this is done the debenture holders will lose their entire investment. The petition asserts that the company agreed when it sold the debentures that it would not mortgage or pledge any of its property without equally securing the debentures with any other obligations assumed excepting that the company was permitted to borrow money in the usual course of business for periods not exceeding one year and to pledge its property for other stated purposes.

The complaints charge that the company violated the provisions of the debentures during 1930 and 1931 in pledging practically all of its assets with the banks as security for loans. This action deprived the debenture holders of their security, the bill alleges.

The bill further states that the company violated the provision of the debentures in which it agreed not to assume additional indebtedness when such additional obligations would bring the total indebtedness to more than 50 per cent of the value of the firm's assets. Some of the loans were made at a period when the indebtedness was more than 50 per cent of the value of the company's portfolio, the bill contends.

Strike to Halt Sale.

The bill also asks that the banks be enjoined from disposing of the collateral. Such an injunction issued last May by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley is now being tested in the Circuit Court of Appeals. That court is expected to hand down a decision in the near future. The four New York banks which proposed to sell their collateral are opposing that injunction on the ground the District court in Illinois lacks jurisdiction over them. If the injunction is dissolved on the ground of jurisdiction it is understood that attorneys for the debenture holders will seek a similar order from the federal court in New York.

The banks which propose to sell that collateral are the Central Hanover Bank and Trust, Chase National, Commercial National Bank and Trust, and the Guaranty Trust company, all of New York. The Chicago banks have made no move toward selling the securities they hold. The proposed sale has been postponed several times by the New York group and is now scheduled for today at noon. Another delay is expected pending the decision of the appeals court here.

Park System Ends Its List of Purchases

With the transfer yesterday of 22.9 acres by John G. Poorman to the forest preserve district of Cook county, the district has completed its program of adding to Chicago's great system of outer parks. The slate is now wiped clean so far as increasing the size of the forest preserve system until the dawn of brighter financial skies for Cook county.

Title to the property transferred yesterday was obtained through condemnation proceedings. Judgment in the case was entered last November. Mr. Poorman received $22,900 for his acreage, which is located in Bremen township on the south side of 143d street, between Ridgeland avenue and Batchelor road.

Buys Evanston Site.

Peter S. Lambros, editor of the Greek Star, yesterday sold to Johannes Krawetz of the Phoenix Chemical laboratory 47x130 feet of vacant property at the southeast corner of Girard and Isabella streets, Evanston, for a reported $5,000.

Mr. Krawetz proposes to build a seven room residence on the property to cost around $15,000. There is to be a recreation room on the top floor. Quinlan and Tyson were brokers for the seller and Wallace S. Schall was attorney for the buyer.

BONDHOLDERS' NEWS

Holders of real estate mortgages on the Fifth Avenue Business block, Maywood, are being notified that interest due Aug. 15 cannot be paid because of reduced income and that a reorganization plan is being worked out and will be submitted to them shortly. It is stated that the plan probably will be to reduce the interest rate from 6½ to 5½ per cent and to give all the bonds a maturity date of Feb. 15, 1943. The bonds now mature serially from 1928 to 1935.

The building is three stories and contains a 2,000 seat theater, five stores, offices, and four room apartments. It was built about seven years ago. It was financed by a George M. Forman & Co. bond issue of $300,000 which has since been reduced to $237,000. Bonds maturing Feb. 15, 1932, were not redeemed, although interest was paid.

Committee Organized.

Organization of a protective committee to act for holders of bonds or mortgages sold through the American State bank, the Ridgeland State bank, the Oakwyn State bank, the First National bank, and the First American National Bank and Trust company—all of Berwyn, Ill.—has been announced.

Members of the committee are: Gustav Staehle, Charles E. Zitnik, Anton J. Razim, Frank A. Mazanec, Frank J. Krajic, Jacob Cejka, and Francis Karel. F. A. Peterzelka is secretary and the office is in the bank building at Oak Park avenue and 22d street. The Western State bank, 5600 West 22d street, is depositary.

JUDGE REFUSES TO HALT PENNSY TRUCK SERVICE

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Judge George E. Welsh in United States Circuit court yesterday dismissed the suit of four Brooklyn terminal companies to enjoin the Pennsylvania railroad from adopting a plan to collect and deliver freight by motor truck in the New York metropolitan area.

The judge ruled "the proposed new service does not constitute an extension of the lines within the meaning of the acts of congress relating to the interstate commerce commission," as contended by the terminal companies.

He added that the commission will "have an opportunity to pass upon the question, if it so desires, when the proposed tariff schedules are filed."

The Pennsylvania and other eastern trunk lines have announced their intention to institute the new "store door pick up and delivery" service Sept. 15.

SEARS, ROEBUCK & CO. REPORT $2,893,734 LOSS FOR 7 PERIODS

A loss of $2,893,734 for the seven four week periods ending July 16, 1932, was reported yesterday by Sears, Roebuck & Co. This compares with a net profit of $6,008,483 before federal taxes, but after depreciation and other charges for the same period in 1931.

The company reported sales of $17,258,862 for the eight periods of 1932—July 18 to Aug. 13—in comparison with $23,769,479 for the 1931 period. This was a decrease of $6,510,617, or 27.4 per cent. For the eight periods Jan. 2 to Aug. 13 the company reported sales of $162,846,230 in comparison with $208,476,686 for the same period in 1931. This was a decrease of $45,630,456, or 21.9 per cent.

Commenting on the report, Lessing J. Rosenwald, chairman of the board, said:

"While the decline in the commodity prices since Jan. 1 has been at about the same rate as during the balance of the depression period, few realize that the decline in manufactured goods and finished products from Jan. 1 to July 1 went on at a far more rapid rate than at any previous period in the last two years. The effect of such a rapid decline can be best illustrated by the fact that in spite of a very low inventory on Jan. 1, markdowns in the retail division alone from Jan. 1 to July 16 amounted to about $4,600,000, which is approximately $2,500,000 in excess of what normal markdowns should be on the volume of business transactions.

"This $2,500,000 represents an absolute loss of net profit. Present inventories are marked on an ultraconservative basis and if manufactured goods and finished products cease to decline, markdowns and depreciation should return to normal in the latter part of the year."

OFFERS 70% DEAL TO CREDITORS OF THE REVELL CO.

A composition offer to creditors of the Alexander Revell Furniture company was filed with Federal Referee in Bankruptcy Garfield A. Charles yesterday by Attorney Michael Gesas. The firm filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy recently. Under the plan submitted creditors are asked to accept a 70 per cent settlement. A 40 per cent cash distribution would be made upon acceptance of the plan by creditors. The balance of the 70 per cent settlement would be made in two notes of $15 each.

One note would be payable a year from the date the offer is accepted and the second note would be payable in two years. If the offer is accepted by creditors the matter will go to the District court for approval.

PREPARE CREDIT OF $50,000,000 TO HELP TRADE

New York Banks Take United Action.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 18.—The much discussed plan to apply the surplus funds, steadily gathering in New York banks, to easing the credit situation among manufacturers throughout the United States was announced tonight by Mortimer N. Buckner, chairman of the New York Clearing House association.

Banks of this city and other cities will subscribe to $50,000,000 notes of a commodity finance corporation, to be formed tomorrow and Saturday under the laws of Delaware. That concern will have two subsidiaries, proably capitalized at $2,000,000 each, one to conduct a financing business, the other to deal in trade acceptances.

Would Ease Banking Credit.

The announcement indicated that no effort is to be made to buy up vast quantities of any commodity and resell it through a pool. Instead of any such preceeding, manufacturers in various parts of the country are to benefit in the easier purchase of raw materials, because the new corporations will make it easier for the banks in the different sections of the country to provide the manufacturers with the needed loans and credit.

The directors of the commodities corporation will be a representative from each of the twenty-one New York clearing house banks and they are expected to meet Monday or Tuesday of next week. They will elect officers and an executive committee. The capital stock of the subsidiaries will be subscribed for by the parent corporation out of the proceeds of the note issue for 50 million dollars. Additional funds will be advanced to them when needed.

While there is no direct connection between the present plan and the proposed syndicate of cotton mill interests to purchase about 3 million bales of cotton from the federal farm board, a mill desiring assistance from the commodities finance corporation probably could obtain the necessary aid, as the cotton was intended for consumption. The members of that syndicate are reported to have agreed on tentative plans.

Details of the Project.

The plan which has evolved into the commodities finance corporation was suggested several weeks ago by Eugene Meyer, governor of the federal reserve board. The corporation is to finance the purchase, carrying, and orderly marketing "for domestic consumption or export of agricultural and other commodities."

Like that earlier example of cooperative banking, the National Credit corporation of which Mr. Buckner is head, the new company will have only nominal capital, but will derive its funds from the sale to clearing house and other banks of its notes. Subscriptions will be apportioned at par in an amount equal to 3½ per cent of their capital funds or 1 per cent of their respective net demand and time deposits as of July 30, 1932, whichever sum is the smaller.

The three new corporations will not be authorized to purchase commodities for their own accounts, but will devote their activities strictly to the making of loans. Bankers emphasized that there is nothing in the plan that has to do with any attempts to put up commodity prices or to encourage unnecessary purchases of them.

To Link Up with Banks.

The project is, in many respects, more intimately connected with conditions in the banking field than in the commodity markets. In many sections of the country, it was pointed out, banking facilities have been reduced or dislocated. By the severe strain to which the banking system was subjected earlier in the year. As a result good borrowers in some sections are unable to obtain commodity loans from their local banks, or can secure them only at unfavorable rates.

Normally manufacturers, such as it is expected will be helped by the new corporations, would be able to get acceptance credits from their local banks to finance their purchases and the banks would, in the ordinary course of affairs, dispose of the acceptances rising out of these credits in the open market. At present, however, banks find the bill market virtually closed to their paper and thus they are compelled to absorb their bills in their own portfolios. Such banks find themselves lending actual funds instead of simply lending their credit.

Eastern Utility Votes Payment on New Stock

New York, Aug. 18.—Niagara Hudson Power company declared an initial quarterly dividend of 30 cents on the new $15 par common stock. This places the stock on a $1.20 annual basis, equivalent to the rate on the old $10 par stock which was exchanged for the new common one new share for three old shares. Dividends on the old stock were 10 cents quarterly.

Grace Bank Dividend.

Grace National bank declared a semi-annual dividend of $2.50 a share payable Sep. 1. Previously the bank paid $5 a share semi-annually.

Hobart Manufacturing [food chopping and mixing machines] declared a dividend of 30 cents quarterly on the capital stock, reducing the annual rate to $1.20 from $1.60.

Canada Iron Founders, Ltd., omitted the semi-annual dividend of $1.50 on the common stock due at this time. A semi-annual dividend of $1.50 on the preferred was declared, placing the stock on a $3 annual basis against $6 previously.

Some Others to Pay.

Chesebrough Manufacturing company declared the usual extra dividend of 50 cents a share and the regular quarterly dividend of $1 a share.

Pure Oil company today declared dividends of $1.25 on its 5½ per cent preferred stock, $1.50 on its 6 per cent preferred stock and $2 on its 8 per cent preferred stock. The dividends are payable Oct. 1 to stockholders of record Sept. 9.

Directors of the J. I. Case company will meet for action on the quarterly preferred dividend on Aug. 22. The dividend meeting of Engineers' Public Service company scheduled for today has been postponed owing to lack of a quorum. No date for the meeting has been set.

The International Harvester company has postponed its dividend meeting scheduled for today, due to lack of quorum. Action of the common was to have been determined at this meeting. No date has been set for the deferred meeting.

Directors of Canada Iron Foundries, Ltd., took no action on the semi-annual dividend of $1.50 a share on the common stock due at this time. A semi-annual dividend of $1.50 a share was declared on the preferred shares, thereby establishing a $3 annual rate, against a $6 rate previously maintained.

Colorado Officials Approve Loan Project of Railroad

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Colorado officials (today endorsed the plan of the Denver and Rio Grande Western railroad company to delay purchasing minority stock in the Denver and Salt Lake, and to borrow $4,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to construct the Dotsero cut-off in Colorado.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Price fluctuations were narrow and uninteresting.

As a rule, closing figures were the best of the day, thanks to some final hour buying in the pivotals. That buying had all the marks of work on the part of interests identified with the lately flourishing bull movement.

The late afternoon upturn in wheat was the signal for the belated improvement of the stock list. Farm implement shares, mail order, and other groups closely related to rural affairs were the first to brace up.

The recoveries of some of the more impressionable issues of the division were quite spirited.

Farm Shares Bound Upward.

Case Threshing, for example, rebounded from a midday low of 49 to 55¼, which gave it a net gain of 3¼ points on the day. International Harvester recovered more than two points from its minimum for the day, and in the mail order section Sears Roebuck wiped out a loss of about a point with a gain of about as much, in spite of its disappointing sales report.

Preferred stocks continued to support hopes of continued strength by further wide advances. Over a dozen scored gains of from 2 to 15 points, among them Peoples Drug, American Power and Light, Electric Power and Light issues, Engineers Public Service, Tri-Continental, Federal Light, Pure Oil, United Piece Dye, Car and Foundry, Bangor & Arostook, Duquesne Light, Loose Wiles, and New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

Railway Stocks Advance.

The rails made capital out of reports of an impending move by the roads for more substantial cuts in the wages of union employes. Union Pacific, Atchison, Southern Pacific, New Haven, Illinois Central, and others improved their standing on the board by 1 to 3 points.

Consolidated Gas was a strong spot in the utilities department. It showed a gain of nearly 2 points on the closing sale. That issue has been the beneficiary of marked speculative attention for nearly a week now and traders are beginning to wonder what is behind the move. American Telephone, after slumping to 103¼, came back rather briskly to 112⅝, which gave it an advantage of more than 2 points on the session. Brooklyn Union Gas was another utility to get a whirl.

The oils did little as a group.

Lamont Takes Office as Head of Steel Institute

New York, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Robert P. Lamont, former secretary of commerce, who was chosen two weeks ago to succeed Charles M. Schwab as president of the American Iron and Steel institute, assumed his new office today at a meeting of the directors at his offices, 350 5th avenue. Mr. Lamont probably will try to obtain closer coöperation among the various producing units.

BUYING BY EAST LIFTS CLOSING PRICE OF WHEAT

Overcomes Early Drop; Shorts Cover.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A rush of buying of wheat futures by houses with eastern connections, coming in the last half hour of trading yesterday, swept prices upward at a rapid rate.

The pit element generally was on the bear side early. There also was further unloading by scattered longs. That class of selling carried the December down to 53¾c, off ⅝c from Wednesday's finish, equalling the inside figure of the previous day.

When the aggressive buying started, however, lack of pressure was disclosed. The early sellers were forced to bid prices up in order to cover their short sales.

Some stop loss orders were uncovered on the way up, with the best prices showing 2@2⅜c above the early low and the finish was at the top with net gains of 1⅛@1¼c. September closed at 52⅛@52¼c; December, 55⅝@55¾c, and May, 60⅛@60⅝c.

Traders Explain Bulge.

There was nothing in the general run of the news to account for the rush of buying toward the last, and pit brokers claimed that the upturn was due more to an oversold condition than anything else. In some quarters, however, there was a feeling that the buying of wheat was on the belief a strong close in the latter would have more or less effect on securities. A strong technical position was known to exist as the result of a decline of 8¾c from the high point of last week, and there was more or less comment around the noon hour indicating that any good buying would result in an upturn.

The bulge in wheat was checked by selling against offers, although operators who sold the latter were forced to protect themselves on the way up. The general run of the days news was inclined to favor a lower level of prices. While 500,000 bu Manitobas were estimated as having been sold abroad there was little interest in hard winters, and the latter were regarded as further out of line for export as the result of the upturn in Chicago toward the last.

Winnipeg Market Easy.

Winnipeg is commencing to feel the effect of hedging against the movement of the new wheat crop, and futures there closed unchanged to ¼c higher with December at 59¼c in Canadian funds. No. 1 northern was quoted around 6c over Winnipeg October, f. o. b. Montreal, or about 64¾c on the basis of Thursday's finish, equal to 57¾c on gold basis. No. 1 hard at the Gulf was held at 4c over Chicago September, or equal to 56¾c per bu.

Liverpool closed ¼@⅜c per bu lower with December at 56⅜c, the spread between that market and Chicago showing little change from the previous day. The trade paid no attention to a statement regarding the formation of a commodity loan pool in the east.

The United States had a carryover of around $80,000,000 bu wheat at the end of the 1931-'32 crop year, according to an official estimate compared with $34,000,000 bu on hand the previous year. The figures include grain held in bond in Canada, and establish a new high record. On the basis of the latest crop estimates for the United States and Canada, plus the carryover, the total available supply for 1932-'33 is estimated at 1,690,000,000 bu, or only 4,000,000 bu under the aggregate for 1931-'32, and suggests an exportable surplus of 755,000,000 bu.

Country Sells Cash Corn.

Outside trade in corn was not large and the market followed wheat to a considerable extent, closing ⅝@½c higher. September was 31⅛@31⅝c; December, 35¼@35¼c, and May, 37⅞c. The country sold 100,000 bu cash grain to arrive as the result of the advance, the price to the producer being around 23c for No. 2 yellow.

September and May oats sold at a new low for the season today, it being the fourth day of declining prices. Commission houses bought December at 18c on resting orders and checked the decline. The finish was ¼c higher in sympathy with other grains. September closed at 16½c; December at 18¾c, and May at 21¼c. Hedging pressure was reported as somewhat lighter than recently. Rye was ⅛@⅜c higher with wheat with September 31⅝c; December, 34¾c, and May, 39½c.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Wheat traders were stirred up yesterday by word that a bankers' commodity pool had been formed in New York and was ready for business. The general interpretation was that an effort is likely to be made to advance prices for grain and other agricultural commodities. Those who have studied details of the proposal say the pool's work would be the financing of raw materials for manufacturers and that will increase employment and gradually have its influence on agricultural prices. A few grain men said the experience of the farm board should demonstrate that efforts to advance prices of agricultural products too often are a most expensive experiment.

Technical position of the wheat market at the close was said to have been somewhat changed by the unexpected advance in wheat prices in the last hour and the same conditions were also said to apply to cotton and securities.

FOREIGN MONEY MARKETS.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Money, ½ per cent. Discount rates, short bills, ⅝@⅞; three month bills, ¾@⅞ per cent.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Gray cloths were moderately active on a strong price basis. Rayon cloths are becoming scarce for nearby shipments and mills are now in a position to refuse consideration of long term contracts at present levels. Burlap prices were steady, but sales were slow.
